

David J. Lemaire, Sr.

Dave Lemaire is a native New Orleanian and a licensed Louisiana real estate instructor who has extensive teaching and real estate experience. He has a B. S. from Loyola University of the South, M. Ed in five areas of education to include, Administration and Supervision of Elementary Schools, Administration and Supervision Secondary Schools, Guidance and Counseling of Elementary Schools, Guidance and Counseling of Secondary Schools, and is qualified to be a Parish or State Supervisor.

In the military he has completed the United States Army Officers Engineer Basic Course, United States Army Officer Engineer Advance Course, The United States Army Medical Corps Advance Course, Command and General Staff College and the Senior Service School, sometimes referred to as The War College and has acted as a certified instructor for all the above.

Dave retired after 27 years of both teaching in the army and the civilian capacity. He presently is a senior civilian volunteer instructor for the United States Army.

Mr. Lemaire has over 30 years in the real estate market as a sales person, broker, instructor, and a Bond for Deed Escrow Agent. He enjoys the opportunity to share his experience, knowledge, and hands on training with the students entrusted to his care at First Professional Real Estate School.