8 Hour SC-BFI SAFE Comprehensive: Compliance for 2024

ProEducate 4200 S. I-10 Service Rd., W. Suite 134 Metairie, LA 70001

Date of Course Content: 6/01/24

Date of Course Approval:

Provider ID: 140003

Module 1 Federal Laws

In the following sections, "CFR" stands for "Code of Federal Regulations" and "USC" stands for "United States Code". Once Congress passes a law it is recorded in the United States Code (USC) books. The Code of Federal Regulations (CFR) are regulations issued by the various agencies which congress assigned to enforce the various laws (code) it adopted. The agencies explain their interpretation of those laws assigned to them and how it intends to implement it.

Other abbreviations include:

"MMC" - Multi-State Mortgage Committee

"CSBS" - Conference of State Bank Supervisors

"AARMR" - American Association of Residential Mortgage Regulators

"CFPB" - Consumer Financial Protection Bureau

"MME" - Multi-State Mortgage Entities

"NMLS" - Nationwide Mortgage Licensing System

"SAFE Act" - Secure and Fair Enforcement for Mortgage Licensing Act

Federal Laws Course Objective

This lesson will provide the student with an understanding of the most common issues found with MMC examinations. The course discusses the purpose of the MMC examination, and the required topics for the most repeated or outrageous non-compliance violations discovered during examinations. Students will review the examination deficiencies and the regulations to understand how to properly comply with the regulations. The federal law sections covered include ECOA appraisal timing, FCRA & ECOA adverse action letters, TILA Right to Rescission, TILA loan fee tolerance, and TILA timing requirements.

Multi-state Mortgage Committee

Mortgage lenders that have multiple locations in several states face challenges to ensure their company's originations meet all federal and state law regulations. In the past, large lenders, termed Multi-state Mortgage Entities (MMEs), struggled as some of their procedures would meet the regulations in one state only to have different state find fault with their compliance. Some federal agencies that oversaw mortgage laws would also conflict on what was considered regulation compliance. MME compliance was near impossible which left many putting complete compliance as a low priority, and managed as best they could and paid the fines when they came.

With the passing of the Dodd Frank Wallstreet Reform and Consumer Protection Act (Dodd-Frank Act), the industry was given structure, and path to uniform compliance on a national level, along with a watch dog compliance enforcer. The Consumer Finance Protection Bureau was established to provide uniform interpretation and compliance enforcement of federal mortgage lending regulations. The Consumer Financial Protection Bureau (CFPB) was given authority to examine loan files of state licensees and monitor consumer complaints regarding proposed violations. When the CFPB receives a sufficient number of complaints, it has the authority to further investigate the issue, however its main focus is on multi-state large, licensed entities (MMEs).

To assist CFPB in overseeing multi-state compliance for MMEs, a Multi-State Mortgage Committee (MMC) was established. The Committee is comprised of ten appointed State Regulator members and one Conference of State Bank Supervisors (CSBS) member. Their role is to implement cooperative protocols between state agencies and the mortgage industry. The committee issued a CSBS-AARMR MMC Exam Manual to provide guidance for compliance. <sup>1</sup>

With the invaluable information found in examining these large MMEs, NMLS is provided with the compliance topics to cover for annual licensee education requirements. This allows the mortgage industry to self-correct potential inaccurate handling of federal law compliance. The examinations of the MMEs provide guidance for CFPB to understand the problem compliance areas. To improve these deficits, the MMC provides examination reports quarterly that outline the current compliance issues identified by the examinations. This course covers the required CE topics for 2024 ranked by the Multi-State Mortgage Committee (MMC) and was derived from the 2021 third quarter examination reports.

Licensees complying with the regulations save money and time in state examinations. Violations found during examinations may require written letters of explanation, corrective action plans, refunds, and assessed penalties. Examination fees are paid by the licensee under examination and can be expensive when non-compliance is identified or suspected.

¹ https://www.csbs.org/system/files/2019-05/MMC%20Mortgage%20Examination%20Manual%20v2%20-%20May%202019.pdf

State Regulator

The state regulators manage the licensing and supervising of state-chartered banks and non-bank entities that include mortgage lenders, mortgage bankers, and mortgage brokers. It is their responsibility to ensure licensees in their state comply with all regulations and operate their business in a safe and sound manner so as to help their communities. The CFPB may also examine non-bank entities as a joint effort with state regulators.

State Regulators during their examination determine if the non-bank entity is operating in compliance, properly educating their employees, and are properly licensed for the lending provided. The examination will include a review of the financial institutions' loans and corporate records to decide whether the entities are effectively meeting the requirement to operate, monitor, and control risks associated with loan origination activities. Proper record retention is important to prove compliance.

Mortgage Loan Originators

An Individual Mortgage Loan Originator (MLO) may be held accountable by State Regulators for violations found during examinations. It is then their responsibility to comply with the regulations, and pay any fines, penalties, or hearing expense required.

MLOs that lead a team need to be sure their unlicensed assistants are not using their license number to handle licensed activities on their behalf. Their actions may cause a licensee to lose their license and livelihood. It is not the unlicensed person's career they are ruining.

Federal Law Compliance Matters

ECOA Adverse Action Compliance

"Unknown Reason" for Loan Denial

The MMC examinations of the top MMEs found the need to give out Citations for violations of ECOA by stating "Unknown Reason" and not providing the principal reason for denying an application. The ECOA Notice of Adverse Action is required to satisfy the disclosure requirements for ECOA and FCRA and includes a statement of specific reason for the credit denial.<sup>2</sup>

In the official interpretation of Regulation B, the Equal Credit Opportunity Act (ECOA) requires disclosure of the principal reasons for denying or taking adverse action on an application for an extension of credit. The lender is encouraged to provide all reasons used to deny the credit request.

ECOA prohibits creditors from discriminating against credit applicants on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex, marital status, age (provided they have the capacity to enter a binding contract), receipt of public assistance income, or because the applicant exercised in good faith any Consumer Credit Protection Act.

In addition, the Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA) requires a creditor to disclose when it has based its decision in whole or in part on information from a source other than the applicant or its own files. Disclosing that a credit report was obtained and used in the denial of the application, as the FCRA requires, does not satisfy the ECOA requirement to disclose specific reasons for denial.

FCRA example - If the applicant's credit history reveals delinquent credit obligations and the application is denied for that reason, to satisfy the regulation the creditor must disclose the application was denied because of the applicant's delinquent credit obligations.<sup>3</sup> This notice of the credit reports use will accompany how the consumer may obtain a free copy of the credit report used to deny their credit request.

A consumer should be allowed to know the reason they were denied credit. The statement of reasons for adverse action required must be specific and indicate the principal reason(s) for the adverse action. Statements that the adverse action was based on the creditor's internal standards or policies or that the applicant, joint applicant, or similar party failed to achieve a qualifying score on the creditor's credit scoring system are insufficient. The regulation does not mandate that a specific number of reasons be disclosed, but disclosure of more than four reasons is not likely to be helpful to the applicant.

ECOA example – If the consumer receives an adverse action notice with a statement of denial, due to the credit being unable to verify his employment and no other reason is provided, the average consumer may assume he would have gotten approved if his employment were verified. A reasonable assumption for a consumer might be that if he is able to provide the verification, he should be approved for the requested loan.

&lt;sup>3</sup> ECOA - 12 C.F.R. §1002.9(b)(2-9)

To be accurate, the statement of denial should have included all applicable reasons for denial, such as unable to verify qualifying income, income unstable, and debt to income ratio exceeds allowable threshold for the loan program. This statement provides the consumer direction on the issues he will need to overcome to be creditworthy. These statement of reason in the adverse action letter require the information to the consumer to be clear and concise.

The specific reasons disclosed must relate to and accurately describe the factors actually considered or scored by a creditor. A creditor need not describe how or why a factor adversely affected an applicant.

ECOA example - the notice may say "length of residence" rather than "too short a period of residence."

If a creditor bases the denial or other adverse action on a credit scoring system, the reasons disclosed must relate only to those factors actually scored in the system. Moreover, no factor that was a principal reason for adverse action may be excluded from the disclosure. The creditor must disclose the actual reasons for denial even if the relationship of that factor to predicting creditworthiness may not be clear to the applicant.

For example - "credit score too low," yet how high does it need to be is not provided.

FCRA regulation does not require that any one method be used for selecting reasons for a credit denial or other adverse action that is based on a credit scoring system. Various methods will meet the requirements of the regulation.

- 1. One method is to identify the factors for which the applicant's score fell below the average score for each factor achieved by the applicants whose total score was at or slightly above the minimum passing score.
- 2. Another method is to identify the factors for which the applicant's score fell furthest below the average score for each of those factors achieved by all applicants. These average scores could be calculated during the development or use of the system.
- 3. Any other method that produces results substantially similar to either of these methods is also acceptable under the regulation.

However, if a creditor uses a judgmental system (manual underwrite), the reasons for the denial or other adverse action must relate to those factors in the applicant's record reviewed by the person making the decision.

Combined Credit Scoring and Judgmental System

An underwriter for a mortgage lender makes a credit decision after they review many factors. This is termed a judgmental system. If a creditor denies an application based on a credit evaluation system that employs both credit scoring and judgmental components, the reasons for the denial must come from the component of the system that the applicant failed.

For example - If a creditor initially credit scores an application and denies the credit request as a result of that scoring, the reasons disclosed to the applicant must relate to the credit factors that scored in the system.

If the application passes the credit scoring stage but the creditor then denies the credit request based on a judgmental assessment of the applicant's record, the reasons disclosed must relate to the factors reviewed judgmentally, even if the factors were also considered in the credit scoring component.

For example – denied due to 'stability of income.' The consumer's contract type of employment has shown unstable income, or the underwriter cannot determine exactly how much the borrower earns. The consumer's credit score may have been considered for a non-QM loan but that was not the reason for denial.

If the application is not approved or denied as a result of the credit scoring, but falls into a gray area, and the creditor performs a judgmental assessment and denies the credit after that assessment, the reasons disclosed must come from both components of the system. The same result applies where a judgmental assessment is the first component of the combined system. The primary reason for denial should be listed first in the statements of denial.

Automatic denial

Some credit decision methods contain features that call for automatic denial because of one or more negative factors in the applicant's record. For example - the applicant's previous poor credit history with that creditor, the applicant's declaration of bankruptcy was too recent to application date, or the fact that the applicant is a minor. When a creditor denies the credit request because of an automatic-denial factor, the creditor must disclose that specific factor.

Combined ECOA-FCRA disclosures

Both federal regulations govern the creditors method of providing a consumer with a notice of credit denial. ECOA requires disclosure of the principal reasons for denying or taking other adverse action on an application for an extension of credit. The Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA) requires a creditor to disclose when it has based its decision in whole or in part on information from a source other than the applicant or its own files. This Adverse Action Notice combines the requirements so one Notice may be provided to satisfy both regulations.

Disclosing the key factors that adversely affected the consumer's credit score should not be confused with the ECOA requirement to disclose specific reasons for denying or taking adverse action on an application or extension of credit.<sup>4</sup>

Additional Statement of Specific Reasons Requirements

When a consumer's adverse action in whole or in part is related to their credit score, the regulations require that the lender disclose the credit score used. The MMC examiners found some mortgage lenders failed to disclose the credit score it used in taking adverse action along with related information, including up to four key factors that adversely affected the consumer's credit score.<sup>5</sup>

Statements that the adverse action was based on the creditor's internal standards or policies or that the applicant, joint applicant, or similar party failed to achieve a qualifying score on the creditor's credit scoring system are insufficient.<sup>6</sup>

A notification given to an applicant when adverse action is taken must be in writing and contain a statement of the action taken. The required information includes the name and address of the creditor, a statement of the provisions, the name and address of the Federal agency that administers compliance with respect to the creditor, and either:<sup>7</sup>

- A statement of specific reasons for the action taken; or
- A disclosure of the applicant's right to a statement of specific reasons within 30 days if the statement is requested within 60 days of the creditor's notification.

&lt;sup>4</sup> https://www.consumerfinance.gov/rules-policy/regulations/1002/9/#9-b-2-Interp-9

&lt;sup>5</sup> ECOA - 12 C.F.R. §1002.9(b)(2)

&lt;sup>6</sup> interpretation of Paragraph 9(b)(2). in Supplement I

&lt;sup>7</sup> https://www.consumerfinance.gov/rules-policy/regulations/1002/9/#a-2

Fair Credit Reporting Act Fee Compliance

The Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA) provides regulations for the fees allowed to be collected for a credit report when used to make a credit decision. The MMC examiners found in the MMEs audits that the credit report fees charged to the borrowers appeared to contain prohibited fees for rapid recheck or expedited rescore.<sup>8</sup> The Fair Credit Reporting Act prohibits a mortgage company from charging the borrower a fee for a "rapid recheck or expedited rescore." Citation violations to lenders were for charging credit report fees to the borrowers that included prohibited fees for rapid recheck or expedited rescore.<sup>9</sup>

Credit reports are important for consumers and can affect their ability to obtain credit, employment, and housing. The credit bureaus are a for profit company. The regulations have been established to determine how a consumer may obtain free review of their credit report, without charge.

The regulations do not allow the consumer to be charged when disputing information on their credit report. A consumer has a right to dispute the accuracy of their credit report and request an investigation of disputed information. If the Credit Bureau finds a reinvestigation is required, there are rules they must follow on managing the dispute.

If the completeness or accuracy of any item of information contained in a consumer's file at a consumer reporting agency is disputed by the consumer and the consumer notifies the agency directly of such dispute, the agency must reinvestigate free of charge and record the current status of the disputed information or delete the item from the file in accordance with the regulations. This review must be completed before the end of the 30-day period beginning on the date on which the agency received the notice of the dispute from the consumer.

When a Mortgage Loan Originator decides to order a rapid rescore or other method to expedite the process of correcting credit report errors or updates, the mortgage lender must directly absorb these fees as their expense and may not pass the costs to the individual consumer needing the rescore. The lender may indirectly charge consumers these fees as an aggregate amount for the creditor's overall credit report cost, provided the aggregate amount is reasonable and customary for a credit report.

<sup>8</sup> FCRA - 15 U.S.C. §1681i(a)(1)(A)

<sup>9 15</sup> U.S.C. § 1681i(a)(1)(A)

Free Credit Report Under Some Circumstances

Upon the request of the consumer, a consumer reporting agency shall make all required credit disclosures once during any 12-month period without charge to that consumer if the consumer certifies in writing that the consumer -

- (1) is unemployed and intends to apply for employment in the 60-day period beginning on the date on which the certification is made
- (2) is a recipient of public welfare assistance; or
- (3) has reason to believe that the file on the consumer at the agency contains inaccurate information due to fraud.<sup>10</sup>

Equal Credit Opportunity Act (ECOA) Appraisal Requirement

For decades consumers have had the right to a copy of the appraisal report for the property they used as security for their home mortgage loan. The Equal Credit Opportunity Act (ECOA) states the timing for this requirement and requires the borrower to receive an application disclosure notifying them of their appraisal rights.

The MMC examiners found in the MMEs examinations, they failure to provide the ECOA required copy of the appraisal and applicable valuation disclosures within three business days of application. The violation cited failure to deliver a right to copy of appraisal notice in writing, and files did not have compliant proof of appraisal delivery to the borrower.

ECOA Appraisal Disclosure Notice

In the event an appraisal is required on a loan, the lender is required to provide the "Notice of Right to Receive a Copy of Appraisal." This notice advises the consumer they will receive a copy of the appraisal upon completion, and in any event, no less than three business days prior to consummation. The disclosure also gives the borrower the information they have the right to waive receipt of the appraisal three business days prior to closing.<sup>11</sup>

Multiple Versions of Appraisal Compliance

Often a mortgage lender will request more than one property evaluation completed on a file as a second opinion or a quality control review.

<sup>11</sup> ECOA - 12 C.F.R. §1002.14(a)(1

 $<sup>^{10}\</sup> https://www.govinfo.gov/content/pkg/USCODE-2022-title15/pdf/USCODE-2022-title15-chap41-subchapIII-sec1681j.pdf$

For example - When an automated valuation is completed for internal checks and reviews, the borrower is entitled to receive these additional evaluations as well as the full appraisal report completed by an appraiser. The loan file must retain proof that all valuations obtained and used in determining a loan decision secured by a dwelling were provided. The loan file must document this for compliance.

Proof of Appraisal Receipt

Loan files must contain proof the appraisal was delivered to the borrower in compliance with the timing required. The MMC examination discovered MME loan files did not indicate the borrowers were provided with a copy of the appraisal report or other valuation. The loan files are required to document when the applicant was provided a copy of all appraisals and other written valuations developed in connection with an application as required by this regulation.<sup>12</sup>

Complying with ECOA requires a creditor to provide an applicant with a copy of all appraisals and other written valuations developed in connection with an application for credit that is to be secured by a first lien on a dwelling. The Bureau of Consumer Financial Protection's (CFPB's) enforces Regulation B that requires a creditor to mail the appraisal report to the applicant, not later than the third business day after receipt.<sup>13</sup>

CFPB official interpretation requires the lender to handle multiple versions of appraisals or valuations to comply with the "all" reference does not refer to all versions of the same appraisal or other valuation. If a creditor has received multiple versions of an appraisal or other written valuation, the creditor is required to provide only a copy of the latest version received.

If, however, a creditor already has provided a copy of one version of an appraisal or other written valuation to an applicant, and the creditor later receives a revision of that appraisal or other written valuation, then the creditor also must provide the applicant with a copy of the revision to comply with the regulations. If a creditor receives only one version of an appraisal or other valuation that is developed in connection with the applicant's application, then that version must be provided to the applicant to comply with the regulations.<sup>14</sup>

<sup>12</sup> ECOA - 12 C.F.R. §1002.14(a)(1)

&lt;sup>13</sup> Regulation B, 12 C.F.R. 1002.14(a)(1)

&lt;sup>14</sup> https://www.consumerfinance.gov/rules-policy/regulations/1002/14/#14-a-1-Interp-7

CFPB Appraisal Requirement Official Interpretation

The CFPB has official interpretations on their website providing information for how to comply with this section of ECOA. This is a review of their statements for ECOA appraisal compliance.

A creditor must provide an applicant with a copy of all appraisals and other written valuations developed in connection with an application for credit that is to be secured by a first lien on a dwelling. A creditor shall provide a copy of each such appraisal or other written valuation promptly upon completion, or three business days prior to consummation of the transaction (for closed-end credit) or account opening (for open-end credit), whichever is earlier. Lenders must comply with Electronic Consent and Signing Act (E-Sign Act) regulations to send by an appraisal to the consumer by email.<sup>15</sup>

For ECOA federal regulations, the term "dwelling" means a residential structure that contains one to four units whether or not that structure is attached to real property. The term includes, but is not limited to, an individual condominium or cooperative unit, and a mobile or other manufactured home.<sup>16</sup>

Motor vehicles are not covered in this definition of dwelling. This ECOA appraisal requirement covers applications for credit to be secured by a first lien on a dwelling whether the credit is for a business purpose (for example, a loan to start a business) or a consumer purpose (for example, a loan to purchase a home).

For ECOA, an "appraisal or other written valuation" includes, without limitation, an appraisal or other valuation received or developed by the creditor in paper form (hard copy); electronically, such as CD or email; or by any other similar media.

Appraisal Timing Requirement

For ECOA, compliant timing requires that the creditor "provide" copies of appraisals and other written valuations to the applicant "promptly upon completion," or no later than three business days before consummation (for closed-end credit) or account opening (for open-end credit), whichever is earlier.<sup>17</sup> For purposes of this timing requirement, "provide" means "deliver." Delivery to or actual receipt by the applicant by electronic means must comply with the E-Sign Act.

ProEducate ©All Rights Reserved Page 12 of 182

&lt;sup>15</sup> Regulation B, 12 C.F.R.§1002.14(a)(5)

&lt;sup>16</sup> https://www.consumerfinance.gov/rules-policy/regulations/1002/14/#b-2

Some lenders have struggled with proper notation in the files to prove the appraisals were sent in a timely manner and in compliance with the regulations. In addition, they struggle to understand the regulations as interpreted.

Question - Should the lender send the appraisal when initially received from the appraiser, or after the underwriter has reviewed, requested revisions, and appraisal report corrections are updated?

According to CFPB interpretation, the application and meaning of the "promptly upon completion" standard depends upon the facts and circumstances, including but not limited to when the creditor receives the appraisal or other written valuation, and the extent of any review or revision after the creditor receives it. "Completion" of the appraisal occurs when the last version is received by the creditor, or when the creditor has reviewed and accepted the appraisal or other written valuation to include any changes or corrections required, whichever is later.

Answer - The lender should send the appraisal after the underwriter has accepted the last version of the appraisal which is considered completion by CFPB.

In a transaction that is being consummated (for closed-end credit) or in which the account is being opened (for open-end credit), if an appraisal or other written valuation has been developed but is not yet complete, the three business days before consummation or account opening still applies, unless the applicant waives that deadline as provided. If an applicant waives their right to copy the appraisal report before closing, a copy of the appraisal must be provided at or before consummation or account opening.

Waiver Requirements

ECOA regulation B permits the applicant to waive the receipt of the appraisal timing requirement if the creditor provides appraisal copies at or before consummation or account opening, except where otherwise prohibited by law. Understand state laws governing the property that may not allow waiving of this right.

&lt;sup>17</sup> Regulation B, 12 C.F.R Section §1002.14(a)(1)

An allowable waiver must be obtained at least three business days prior to consummation or account opening unless the waiver pertains solely to the applicant's receipt of a copy of an appraisal or other written valuation that contains only clerical changes from a previous version of the appraisal or other written valuation provided to the applicant.

CFPB provided their official interpretation on waiving of the appraisal compliance. Except where otherwise prohibited by law, an applicant's waiver is effective under either of the following two situations:

- 1. If no later than three business days prior to consummation or account opening, the applicant provides the creditor an affirmative oral or written statement waiving the timing requirement: or
- 2. If, within three business days of consummation or account opening, the applicant provides the creditor an affirmative oral or written statement waiving the timing requirement and the waiver pertains solely to the applicant's receipt of a copy of an appraisal or other written valuation that contains only clerical changes from a previous version of the appraisal already provided to the applicant three or more business days prior to consummation or account opening. For the purpose of this second type of waiver, revisions will only be considered to be clerical in nature if they have no impact on the estimated value and have no impact on the calculation or methodology used to derive the estimate. In addition, the applicant still must receive the copy of the appraisal revision at or prior to consummation or account opening.<sup>18</sup>

In the past, mortgage lenders were fined for using the appraisal waiver as a standard application disclosure. This standard procedure to have all applicants waive their rights is not allowed, as the mortgage lender is taking the consumer's rights away as part of their daily business procedures. A waiver of the time frame required should be used sparingly and only when the borrower has a hardship if they are required to wait three business days before consummation. The benefit must be to the consumer and not the mortgage lender.

&lt;sup>18</sup> ECOA 12 C.F.R. Section §1002.14(a)(1)

No Transaction Closed Requirement

Even if the transaction will not be consummated (for closed-end credit) or the account will not be opened (for open-end credit), the copy must be provided "promptly upon completion" unless waived as provided. In this case, the copy must be provided to the applicant no later than 30 days after the creditor determines the transaction will not be consummated or the account will not be opened. For compliance, loan files must be documented as to when the appraisal was provided to the consumer.

Compliant and Noncompliant Scenario Examples -

- 1. On day fifteen after receipt of the application, the creditor's underwriting department reviews an appraisal and determines it is acceptable. One week later, the creditor sends a copy of the appraisal to the applicant. The applicant actually receives the copy more than three business days before the date of consummation (or account opening). The creditor has provided the copy of the appraisal promptly upon completion. This is an example of sending a copy of an appraisal within a week of completion with sufficient time before consummation (or account opening for open-end credit).
- 2. An appraisal is being revised, and the creditor does not receive the revised appraisal until day forty-five after the application, when the creditor immediately determines the revised appraisal is acceptable. A week later, the creditor sends a copy of the revised appraisal to the applicant and does not send a copy of the initial appraisal to the applicant. The applicant actually receives the copy of the revised appraisal three business days before the date of consummation (or account opening). The creditor has provided the appraisal copy promptly upon completion. This is an example of sending a copy of a revised appraisal within a week after completion and with sufficient time before consummation (or account opening for openend credit).
- 3. The creditor receives an automated valuation model (AVM) appraisal report on day five after receipt of the application and treats the AVM report as complete when it is received. On day twelve after receipt of the application, the creditor sends the applicant a copy of the valuation. The applicant actually receives the valuation more than three business days before the date of consummation (or account opening). The creditor has provided the copy of the AVM report promptly upon completion. This is an example of sending a copy of an AVM report within a week after its receipt and with sufficient time before consummation (or account opening for open-end credit).

- 4. On day twelve after receipt of the application, the creditor's underwriting department reviews an appraisal and determines it is acceptable. Although the creditor has determined the appraisal is complete, the creditor waits to provide a copy to the applicant until day forty-two, when the creditor schedules the consummation (or account opening) to occur on day fifty. The creditor has not provided the copy of the appraisal promptly upon completion. This is an example of a violation of an unacceptable delay in sending an appraisal.
- 5. The creditor receives an AVM report on day five after application and completes its review of the AVM report the day it is received. The creditor also has ordered a full written appraisal report, but the initial version of the full appraisal received by the creditor is found to be deficient and is sent for review. The creditor waits 30 days to provide a copy of the completed AVM report, until the full appraisal is revised on day thirty-five. The creditor then provides the applicant with copies of the AVM report and the revised full appraisal. While the full appraisal report was provided promptly upon completion, the AVM report was not. This is an example of a violation for unacceptable delay in sending an AVM report while waiting for completion of a second valuation.

Truth-in-Lending (TILA) Right of Recission Compliance

The Truth-in-Lending (TILA) Regulation Z governs owner occupied home loans secured by primary dwellings. When a homeowner obtains a mortgage secured by their primary residence, additional rights are provided by Regulation Z. The MMC examiners found in their examinations, MMEs were not properly providing borrowers with their Regulation Z required notice of the right to rescind.

Regulations require a lender to provide two copies of the notice of the right to rescind to each consumer entitled to rescind which must clearly and conspicuously disclose the date the rescission period expires. The consumer may exercise the right to rescind until midnight of the third business day following consummation, delivery of the notice, or delivery of all material disclosures, whichever occurs last.

Consumer's Right to Rescind Notice

All borrowers with an interest in the property have a right to receive two copies of the Notice of Right to Rescind, but it only takes one borrower with rights to the property to sign the notice to rescind the entire loan transaction. One copy to each entitled consumer is acceptable when the notice is delivered in electronic form in accordance with the consumer's consent and the E-Sign Act. Rescinding the loan transaction, voids the entire transaction.

The loan files must contain proof the lender complied by providing the borrower the notice. If the required notice or material disclosures are not delivered, the right to rescind then expires three years after consummation, upon transfer of all of the consumer's interest in the property, or upon sale of the property, whichever occurs first. In the case of certain administrative proceedings, the rescission period may be extended in accordance with Regulations.<sup>19</sup>

For this regulation the term "material disclosures" means the required disclosures of the annual percentage rate, the finance charge, the amount financed, the total of payments, the payment schedule, and the disclosures and limitations allowed.<sup>20</sup>

CFPB Regulation Z Right of Rescission Interpretation

CFPB is the regulator for TILA and has provided official interpretations for how to comply with TILA Regulation Z's right of recission. The rescission period within which the consumer may exercise the right to rescind runs for three business days from the last of three events:<sup>21</sup>

- 1. Consummation of the transaction
- 2. Delivery of all material disclosures
- 3. Delivery to the consumer of the required rescission notice

For example -

- 1. If a transaction is consummated on Friday, June 1, and the disclosures and notice of the right to rescind were given on Thursday, May 31, the rescission period will expire at midnight of the third business day after June 1 that is, Tuesday, June 5.
- 2. If the disclosures are given and the transaction consummated on Friday, June 1, and the rescission notice is given on Monday, June 4, the rescission period expires at midnight of the third business day after June 4 that is, Thursday, June 7.

To rescind, the consumer must place the rescission notice in the mail, email it, or deliver it to the creditor's place of business within the waiting period in order to exercise the right. Generally, a lender will accept any notice to void the transaction, even after the waiting period as the penalty for noncompliance is steep.

&lt;sup>19</sup> TILA- section 125(f) of the Act

&lt;sup>20</sup> 12 C.F.R §1026.32(c) and (d) and §1026.43(g)

&lt;sup>21</sup> https://www.consumerfinance.gov/rules-policy/regulations/1026/23/#23-a-3-Interp-3-ii

Material disclosures must be provided before the rescission timing period can begin to run. Failure to provide information regarding the annual percentage rate (APR) also includes failure to inform the consumer of the existence of a variable rate feature. Failure to give the other required disclosures does not prevent the running of the rescission period, although that failure may result in civil liability or administrative sanctions.<sup>22</sup>

Unexpired Right of Rescission

As provided, the three-year limit may be extended by an administrative proceeding to enforce the provisions of this section. A partial transfer of the consumer's interest, such as a transfer bestowing co-ownership on a spouse, does not terminate the right of rescission.

When the creditor has failed to take the action necessary to start the three-business day rescission period running, the right to rescind automatically lapses on the occurrence of the earliest of the following three events:

- 1. The expiration of three years after consummation of the transaction.
- 2. Transfer of all the consumer's interest in the property.
- 3. Sale of the consumer's interest in the property, including a transaction in which the consumer sells the dwelling and takes back a purchase money note and mortgage or retains legal title through a device such as an installment sale contract.

Transfer of all the consumers' interests includes such transfers as bequests and gifts. A sale or transfer of the property need not be voluntary to terminate the right to rescind.<sup>23</sup>

For example - a foreclosure sale would terminate an unexpired right to rescind. As provided, the three-year limit may be extended by an administrative proceeding to enforce the provisions of this section. A partial transfer of the consumer's interest, such as a transfer bestowing co-ownership on a spouse, does not terminate the right of rescission.

&lt;sup>22</sup> TILA 12 C.F.R Section §1026.23(a)(3)(ii)

&lt;sup>23</sup> TILA 12 C.F.R Section §1026.23(b)

Failure to Properly Provide Rescission Notice

The MMC examiners found MMEs failed to not only provide two copies of the notice but failed to provide the notice of right to rescission to all applicants with an interest in the property. Providing notice to the primary borrower only is not acceptable. Regulation Z requires that in a transaction subject to rescission, a creditor must deliver two copies of the notice of the right to rescind to each consumer entitled to rescind, based on ownership interest in the property.

The notice must identify the transaction or occurrence and clearly and conspicuously disclose the following:<sup>24</sup>

- The retention or acquisition of a security interest in the consumer's principal dwelling.
- The consumer's right to rescind the transaction.
- How to exercise the right to rescind, with a form for that purpose, designating the address of the creditor's place of business.
- The effects of rescission.
- The date the rescission period expires.

The notice must include all the above information and the transaction identified by providing the date of the transaction.<sup>25</sup> The CFPB provides model forms for lenders to use in whole or in part provided it meets the regulation minimum requirements and a clear manner.

Unless a consumer waives the right of rescission, no money must be disbursed other than in escrow, no services shall be performed, and no materials delivered until the rescission period has expired and the creditor is reasonably satisfied that the consumer has not rescinded.<sup>26</sup>

TILA Disclosure Zero Tolerance Compliance

TILA requires lenders to disclose all loan transaction fees in a Loan Estimate (LE) with lender origination fees having zero tolerance for change. The MMC examination discovered MME loan files disclosed fees charged to the borrower on the final Closing Disclosure (CD) exceeded the allowable tolerances. The loan files did not support any change of circumstance that would have validated the additional charge.<sup>27</sup>

&lt;sup>24</sup> Regulation Z, 12 C.F.R Section §1026.23(b)

&lt;sup>25</sup> TILA 12 C.F.R Section §1026.23(b)

&lt;sup>26</sup> https://www.consumerfinance.gov/rules-policy/regulations/1026/23/#b-2

An estimated closing cost disclosed on the Closing Disclosure is not in good faith if the charge paid by or imposed on the consumer exceeds the amount originally disclosed in accordance with the regulations.<sup>28</sup> In a closed-end consumer credit transaction secured by real property or a cooperative unit, other than a reverse mortgage, the creditor must provide the consumer with good faith estimate of the fees for the transaction.<sup>29</sup> For this purpose, the Loan Estimate is used at time of application and the Closing Disclosure is provided at closing.

CFPB Mortgage Broker Compliance

If a mortgage broker receives a consumer's application, either the creditor or the mortgage broker must provide a consumer with the TILA disclosures. If the mortgage broker provides the required disclosures, then mortgage broker must comply with all relevant requirements of TILA. The creditor funding the loan must ensure that such Broker supplied the required disclosures in accordance with the regulations. Disclosures provided by a mortgage broker satisfy the creditor's obligation, but the funding lender is held accountable for TILA compliance.<sup>30</sup>

An estimated closing cost disclosure is in good faith if the charge paid by or imposed on the consumer does not exceed the amount originally disclosed, except as otherwise provided in the regulations.

TILA Good Faith Determination

TILA provides the general rule that an estimated closing cost disclosed is not in good faith if the charge paid by or imposed on the consumer for origination expenses exceeds the amount originally disclosed. Although the regulations allow for some exceptions to the general rule, the charges that may not change after initial disclosure on the Loan Estimate generally include, but are not limited to, the following:

1. Fees paid to the creditor.

&lt;sup>27</sup> TILA 12 C.F.R. Section §1026.19(e)

&lt;sup>28</sup> TILA 12 C.F.R. Section §1026.19(e)

&lt;sup>29</sup> https://www.consumerfinance.gov/rules-policy/regulations/1026/19/#g-2-iv

<sup>30</sup> TILA 12 C.F.R. Section §1026.37

- 2. Fees paid to a mortgage broker.
- 3. Fees paid to an affiliate of the creditor or a mortgage broker.
- 4. Fees paid to an unaffiliated third party if the creditor did not permit the consumer to shop for a third-party service provider for a settlement service.
- 5. Transfer taxes.31

Charges "paid by or imposed on the consumer" refers to the final amount for the charge paid by or imposed on the consumer at consummation or settlement, whichever is later.

"Consummation" is defined by governing state law, but when a contractual obligation on the consumer's part is created is a matter to be determined under applicable law; Regulation Z does not make this determination.

For example - A contractual commitment agreement that under applicable law binds the consumer to the credit terms would be consummation. Consummation, however, does not occur merely because the consumer has made some financial investment in the transaction (for example, by paying a nonrefundable fee) unless, of course, applicable law holds otherwise.<sup>32</sup>

Credit v. sale further defines that consummation does not occur when the consumer becomes contractually committed to a sale transaction unless the consumer also becomes legally obligated to accept a particular credit arrangement.

For example - When a consumer pays a nonrefundable deposit to purchase an automobile, a purchase contract may be created, but consummation for purposes of the regulation does not occur unless the consumer also contracts for financing at that time.

"Settlement" is defined in Regulation Z to means the process of executing legally binding documents regarding a lien on property that is subject to a federally related mortgage loan. This process may also be called "closing" or "escrow" in different jurisdictions.<sup>33</sup>

For example - At consummation, the consumer pays the creditor $100 for recording fees. Settlement of the transaction concludes five days after consummation, and the actual recording fees are $70. The creditor refunds the consumer $30 immediately after recording. The recording fee paid by the consumer is $70.

&lt;sup>31</sup> TILA 12 CFR Section §1026.19(e)(3)(i)

<sup>32</sup> https://www.consumerfinance.gov/rules-policy/regulations/1026/2/#a-12

<sup>33</sup> Regulation X, 12 CFR Section §1024.2(b)

When fees are "paid to" a person, a fee is not considered "paid to" a person if the person does not retain the fee.

For example - if a consumer pays the creditor transfer taxes and recording fees at the real estate closing and the creditor subsequently uses those funds to pay the county that imposed these charges, then the transfer taxes and recording fees are not considered "paid to" the creditor. There is a difference between transfer taxes and recording fees for this discussion.

Similarly, if a consumer pays the creditor an appraisal fee in advance of the real estate closing and the creditor subsequently uses those funds to pay another party for an appraisal, then the appraisal fee is not "paid to" the creditor for the TILA regulation purposes. A fee is also not considered "paid to" a person if the person retains the fee as reimbursement for an amount it has already paid to another party. If a creditor pays for an appraisal in advance of the real estate closing and the consumer pays the creditor an appraisal fee at the real estate closing, then the fee is not "paid to" the creditor, even though the creditor retains the fee, because the payment is a reimbursement for an amount already paid by the lender.<sup>34</sup>

CFPB Lender Credit Compliance

The disclosure of "lender credits" represents the sum of non-specific lender credits and specific lender credits. Non-specific lender credits are generalized payments from the creditor to the consumer that do not pay for a particular fee on the disclosures provided. Specific lender credits are specific payments, such as a credit, rebate, or reimbursement, from a creditor to the consumer to pay for a specific fee. Non-specific lender credits and specific lender credits are negative charges to the consumer. The actual total amount of lender credits, whether specific or non-specific, provided by the creditor that is less than the estimated "lender credits" identified in the disclosure is an increased charge to the consumer for purposes of determining good faith.

For example - If the creditor discloses a $750 estimate for "lender credits", but only $500 of lender credits is actually provided to the consumer, the creditor has not complied with the regulations because the actual amount of lender credits provided is less than the estimated "lender credits" disclosed. This change increases the charge to the consumer for purposes of determining good faith.

<sup>34</sup> TILA 12 CFR Section §1026.19(e

However, if the creditor discloses a $750 estimate for "lender credits" to cover the cost of a $750 appraisal fee, and the appraisal fee subsequently increases the appraisal fee by $150, and the creditor increases the amount of the lender credit by $150 to pay for the increase, the credit is not being revised in a way that violates the requirements. Although the credit increased from the amount disclosed, the amount paid by the consumer did not.

However, if the creditor discloses a $750 estimate for "lender credits" to cover the cost of a $750 appraisal fee, but subsequently reduces the credit by $50 because the appraisal fee decreased by $50 to $700, then the requirements have been violated because, although the amount of the appraisal fee decreased, the amount of the lender credit decreased. The reduced appraisal fee cost should be a benefit to the borrower, not the lender.<sup>35</sup>

For purposes of conducting the good faith analysis required by the regulation for lender credits, the total amount of lender credits, whether specific or non-specific, provided to the consumer is compared to the amount of the "lender credits" identified in the regulations. The total amount of lender credits provided to the consumer is determined by aggregating the amount of the "lender credits" identified with the amounts paid by the creditor that are attributable to a specific loan cost or other cost disclosed.

CFPB TILA 10% Tolerance Charges

As allowed in TILA, the lender is allowed to increase some allowable charges within limits. An estimate of a charge for a third-party service or a recording fee is in good faith if:

- 1. The aggregate amount of charges for third-party services and recording fees paid by the consumer does not exceed the aggregate amount of such charges disclosed that allow limited increases of not more than ten percent.
- 2. The charge for the third-party service is not paid to the creditor or an affiliate of the creditor; and

<sup>35</sup> TILA 12 CFR Section §1026.37(g)(6)(ii)

3. The creditor permits the consumer to shop for the third-party service as permitted in the regulation.<sup>36</sup>

TILA Regulations provides that certain estimated charges are in good faith if the sum of all such charges paid by or imposed on the consumer does not exceed the sum of all such charges disclosed by more than ten percent. This section of fees on the Loan Estimate permits limited increases for only the following items:

- Fees paid to an unaffiliated third party if the creditor permitted the consumer to shop for the third-party service, consistent with the regulations.
- Recording fees.

Whether an individual estimated charge is in good faith depends on whether the sum of all charges in this section increases by more than ten percent, regardless of whether a particular charge increases by more than ten percent. This is true even if an individual charge was omitted from the estimate provided and then imposed at consummation.

The following examples illustrate the determination of good faith for charges for this section:<sup>37</sup>

- Assume that, in the disclosures provided, the creditor includes a $300 estimated fee for a settlement agent, the settlement agent fee is included in the category of charges, and the sum of all charges in this section (including the settlement agent fee) equals $1,000. In this case, the creditor does not violate TILA if the actual settlement agent fee exceeds the estimated settlement agent fee by more than ten percent (i.e., the fee exceeds $330), provided that the sum of all such actual charges does not exceed the sum of all such estimated charges by more than ten percent (i.e., the sum of all such charges does not exceed $1,100).
- Assume that, in the disclosures provided in this section, the sum of all estimated charges subject to the ten percent rule equals $1,000. If the creditor does not include an estimated charge for a notary fee but a $10 notary fee is charged to the consumer, and the notary fee is subject to the ten percent rule, then the creditor does not violate TILA if the sum of all

 $<sup>^{36}\</sup> https://www.consumerfinance.gov/rules-policy/regulations/1026/19/#e-3-i$

&lt;sup>37</sup> TILA 12 CFR Section §1026.19(e)(3)(ii)(A)

amounts charged to the consumer does not exceed $1,100, even though an individual notary fee was not included in the estimated disclosures provided.<sup>38</sup>

To calculate the aggregate amount of estimated charges to be in good faith, the aggregate amount of estimated charges must reflect charges for services that are actually performed.

For example - Assume that the creditor included a $100 estimated fee for a pest inspection in the disclosures provided and the fee is included in the category of charges allowing a variance, but a pest inspection was not obtained in connection with the transaction. Then for purposes of the good faith analysis required by TILA Regulation Z, the sum of all aggregate allowable charges paid by or imposed on the consumer is compared to the sum of all such charges disclosed, minus the $100 estimated pest inspection fee.<sup>39</sup> The pest inspection fee was not actually performed, so may not be included in determining compliance to the ten percent variation.

TILA No Tolerance Restrictions

Restrictions on Loan Estimate fees do not apply when a consumer is allowed to shop for the service. Services for which the consumer may but does not select a settlement service provider have different requirements for limitations. Good faith is not determined by the ten percent rule when the creditor permits the consumer to shop for a settlement service provider. When the consumer chooses on their own the settlement service provider that is required by the creditor for the mortgage loan transaction, there are no restrictions on the fee changing. If the consumer selects a settlement service provider identified by the creditor on their list, then good faith is determined in the 10% aggregate as allowed in TILA.<sup>40</sup>

For example - If, in the disclosures provided, a creditor discloses an estimated fee for an unaffiliated settlement agent and permits the consumer to shop for that service, but the consumer either does not choose a provider, or chooses a provider identified by the creditor on the written list provided, then the estimated settlement agent fee is included with the fees that may, in aggregate, increase by no more than ten percent for the purposes allowable change of circumstances.

<sup>38</sup> TILA 12 CFR Section §1026.19(e)(3)

&lt;sup>39</sup> https://www.consumerfinance.gov/rules-policy/regulations/1026/19/#e-3-ii-C

&lt;sup>40</sup> https://www.consumerfinance.gov/rules-policy/regulations/1026/19/#e-3-ii

If, however, the consumer chooses a provider that is not on the written list, then good faith is determined in accordance with TILA may increase. Regardless of whether the amount paid by the consumer exceeds the amount disclosed, the creditor 'in good faith' provided the best information reasonably available when they provided the disclosure.

The determination of compliance here is whether the creditor allows the consumer to shop. If the creditor is providing a list of providers, that creditor should understand what the settlement service provider will charge within a ten percent variance. Yet if the consumer shops for a settlement service provider, the creditor is not held to have known in advance when quoting the loan fees what this unknown to the creditor third party would charge.

Bona Fide Charges

In covered transactions, TILA requires the creditor to provide the consumer with good faith estimates in the Loan Estimate disclosures. TILA provides that an estimate of the charges is in good faith if it is consistent with the best information reasonably available to the creditor at the time the disclosure is provided and that good faith is determined even if such charges are paid to the creditor or affiliates of the creditor, so long as the charges are bona fide. For determining good faith, to be bona fide, charges must be lawful and for services that are actually performed.<sup>41</sup>

When the settlement service provider does not provide the creditor with their fees, the creditor is obligated to provide the disclosure in the timing required by TILA. The creditor can then use a best guess estimate of what the settlement service provider will charge. When the settlement fees are provided, after disclosure, the creditor may document their file of the issue and provide a change of circumstances revised Loan Estimate.

CFPB Recording Fees Compliance

TILA Regulation Z provides that an estimate of a charge for a third-party service or recording fees is in good faith if the conditions specified are satisfied. Recording fees are not charges for third-party services because recording fees are paid to the applicable government entity where the documents related to the mortgage transaction are recorded. The condition that the creditor permits the consumer to shop for the third-party service is inapplicable. Therefore, estimates of recording fees need only satisfy the condition specified in TILA that requires the name of the entity the fees were paid to, and the recording fees for the deed for title ownership transfer are separated from the recording fees for the mortgage or deed of trust.<sup>42</sup>

&lt;sup>41</sup> https://www.consumerfinance.gov/rules-policy/regulations/1026/19/#19-e-3-iii-Interp-4

CFPB Allowable Changes in Fees

TILA Regulation Z does allow some variations for certain charges on the Loan Estimate. An estimate of any of the charges specified is in good faith if it is consistent with the best information reasonably available to the creditor at the time it is disclosed, regardless of whether the amount paid by the consumer exceeds the amount disclosed. Loan fees that the creditor has no control over are not limited by TILA restrictions. For purposes of this part of TILA rules, good faith is determined under this section even if such charges are paid to the creditor or affiliates of the creditor, so long as the charges are bona fide:

- 1. Prepaid interest
- 2. Property insurance premiums
- 3. Amounts placed into an escrow, impound, reserve, or similar account
- 4. Charges paid to third-party service providers selected by the consumer that are not on the list provided in compliance by the creditor
- 5. Property taxes and other charges paid for third-party services not required by the creditor<sup>43</sup>

According to CFPB, the good faith requirement for prepaid interest, property insurance premiums, and escrowed amounts have unlimited tolerances although the estimates of these fees and premiums placed into an escrow, impound, reserve or similar account must be consistent with the best information reasonably available to the creditor at the time the disclosures are provided. Differences between the amounts of such charges disclosed and the amounts of such charges paid by or imposed on the consumer do not constitute a lack of good faith, so long as the original estimated charge, or lack of an estimated charge for a particular service, was based on the best information reasonably available to the creditor at the time the disclosure was provided.

This means that the fee/cost estimate disclosed in compliance with TILA Regulation Z was obtained by the creditor through due diligence, acting in good faith.

&lt;sup>42</sup> TILA 12 CFR Section §1026.19(e)(3)(ii)

<sup>43</sup> https://www.consumerfinance.gov/rules-policy/regulations/1026/19/#e-3-iii-D

For example - If the creditor requires homeowner's insurance but fails to include a homeowner's insurance premium on the estimates provided, then the creditor's failure to disclose does not comply with TILA Regulation Z.

However, if the creditor does not require flood insurance and the subject property is located in an area where floods frequently occur, but not specifically located in a zone where flood insurance is required, failure to include flood insurance on the original estimates provided does not constitute a lack of good faith.

Or, if the creditor knows that the loan must close on the 15th of the month but estimates prepaid interest to be paid from the 30th of that month, then the under-disclosure does not comply with TILA Regulation Z.

If however, the creditor estimates consistent with the best information reasonably available that the loan will close on the 30th of the month and bases the estimate of prepaid interest accordingly, but the loan actually closed on the 1st of the next month instead, the creditor complies with TILA Regulation Z.<sup>44</sup> Most creditors will disclose thirty days of interest on initial TILA disclosures, regardless of when the estimated close of escrow is, so they error on the side of caution with an overestimate.

Differences between the amounts of such Loan Estimate charges disclosed and the amounts of such charges paid by or imposed on the consumer do not constitute a lack of good faith, so long as the original estimated charge, or lack of an estimated charge for a particular service, was based on the best information reasonably available to the creditor at the time the disclosure was provided.

For example- If the consumer informs the creditor that the consumer will choose a settlement agent not identified by the creditor on the written list provided, and the creditor discloses an unreasonably low estimated settlement agent fee of $20 when the average prices for settlement agent fees in that area are $150, then the under-disclosure does not comply with TILA Regulation Z and good faith.

For example - If the consumer informs the creditor that the consumer will obtain a type of inspection not required by the creditor, the creditor must include the charge for that item in the Loan

ProEducate ©All Rights Reserved Page 28 of 182

<sup>44</sup> https://www.consumerfinance.gov/rules-policy/regulations/1026/19/#19-e-3-iii-Interp-4

Estimate disclosures. The actual amount of the inspection fee need not be compared to the original estimate for the inspection fee to perform the good faith analysis. The original estimated charge, or lack of an estimated charge for a particular service, complies with TILA Regulation Z if it is made based on the best information reasonably available to the creditor at the time that the estimate was provided.

But, for example - If the subject property is located in a jurisdiction where consumers are customarily represented at closing by their own attorney, even though it is not a requirement, and the creditor fails to include a fee for the consumer's attorney, or includes an unreasonably low estimate for such fee, on the original estimates provided, then the creditor's failure to disclose, or unreasonably low estimation, does not comply with TILA Regulation Z good faith requirement.

Similarly, the amount disclosed for property taxes must be based on the best information reasonably available to the creditor at the time the disclosure was provided.

For example - If the creditor fails to include a charge for property taxes, or includes an unreasonably low estimate for that charge, on the original estimates provided, then the creditor's failure to disclose, or unreasonably low estimation, does not comply with TILA Regulation Z and the charge for property tax would be subject to the good faith determination. <sup>45</sup>

Revised Estimate Change of Circumstances

Changed circumstances cause the estimated charges on the Loan estimate provided to increase or, in the case of estimated charges that allow a variance, cause the aggregate amount of such charges to increase by more than ten percent.

The creditor may issue a revised loan estimate in good faith, and may use the revised estimate of a charge instead of the estimate originally disclosed if the revision is due to any of the following allowable change circumstance reasons:

1. An extraordinary event beyond the control of any interested party or other unexpected event specific to the consumer or transaction.

ProEducate ©All Rights Reserved Page 29 of 182

&lt;sup>45</sup> https://www.consumerfinance.gov/rules-policy/regulations/1026/19/#19-e-3-iii-Interp-4

- Information specific to the consumer or transaction that the creditor relied upon when providing the disclosures required was inaccurate or changed after the disclosures were provided, or
- 3. New information specific to the consumer or transaction that the creditor did not rely on when providing the original disclosures required.

A changed circumstance may be an extraordinary event beyond the control of any interested party.

For example - A war or a natural disaster would be an extraordinary event beyond the control of an interested party.

A changed circumstance may also be an unexpected event specific to the consumer or the transaction.

For example - If the creditor provided an estimate of title insurance on the disclosures required, but the title insurer goes out of business during underwriting, then this unexpected event specific to the transaction is a changed circumstance.

A changed circumstance may also be information specific to the consumer or transaction that the creditor relied upon when providing the disclosures required and that was inaccurate or changed after the disclosures were provided.

For example - If the creditor relied on the consumer's income when providing the disclosures required, and the consumer represented to the creditor that the consumer had an annual income of $90,000, but underwriting determines that the consumer's annual income is only $80,000, then this inaccuracy in information relied upon is a changed circumstance.

A changed circumstance may also be the discovery of new information specific to the consumer or transaction that the creditor did not rely on when providing the original disclosures required.

For example - If the creditor relied upon the value of the property in providing the disclosures required, but during underwriting a neighbor of the seller, upon learning of the impending sale of the property, files a claim contesting the boundary of the property to be sold, then this new information specific to the transaction is a changed circumstance.

CFPB Examples of Allowable Change of Circumstances

Charges subject to the zero percent tolerance category.

Assume a creditor provides a $200 estimated appraisal fee, which will be paid to an affiliated appraiser and therefore may not increase for purposes of determining good faith, except as provided in the regulations. The estimate was based on information provided by the consumer at application, which included information indicating that the subject property was a single-family dwelling. Upon arrival at the subject property, the appraiser discovers that the property is actually a single-family dwelling located on a farm. A different schedule of appraisal fees applies to residences located on farms. A changed circumstance has occurred (i.e., information provided by the consumer is found to be inaccurate after the disclosures required were provided), which caused an increase in the cost of the appraisal. Therefore, if the creditor issues a change of circumstances revised disclosure with the corrected appraisal fee, the actual appraisal fee of $400 paid at the real estate closing by the consumer will be compared to the revised appraisal fee of $400 to determine if the actual fee has increased above the estimated fee.

However, if the creditor failed to provide revised disclosures within the three-business day period after discovery of the change of circumstance, then the actual appraisal fee of $400 must be compared to the originally disclosed estimated appraisal fee of $200.<sup>46</sup> In this instance, the creditor would only be able to charge the consumer $200 appraisal fee at closing, and not the actual fee of $400.

Charges are subject to the ten percent tolerance category.

Assume a creditor provides a $400 estimate of title fees, which are included in the category of fees which may not increase by more than ten percent for the purposes of determining good faith, except as provided in the Regulations. During processing, an unreleased lien is discovered, and the title company must perform additional work to release the lien. However, the additional costs amount to only a five percent increase over the sum of all fees included in the category of fees which may not increase by more than ten percent. A changed circumstance has occurred (i.e., new information), but the sum of all costs subject to the ten percent tolerance category has not increased by more than ten percent tolerance.

TILA Regulation Z does not prohibit the creditor from issuing revised disclosures, but if the creditor issues revised disclosures in this scenario, when the closing disclosures required before closing are delivered, the actual title fees of $500 may not be compared to the revised title fees of $500; they must be compared to the originally estimated title fees of $400 because the changed circumstance did not cause the sum of all costs subject in this category to increase by more than ten percent.<sup>47</sup> Six pieces of information presumed collected, but not required.

TILA Regulation Z requires creditors to deliver the disclosures no later than the third business day after the creditor receives the consumer's application, which consists of the six key pieces of information. A creditor is not required to collect any of the six pieces of information such as the consumer's name, monthly income, social security number to obtain a credit report, the property address, an estimate of the value of the property, or the mortgage loan amount sought.<sup>48</sup>

However, for purposes of determining whether an estimate is provided in good faith, a creditor is presumed to have collected these six pieces of information.

For example - If a creditor provides the disclosures required TILA Regulation Z prior to receiving the property address from the consumer, the creditor cannot subsequently claim that the receipt of the property address is a changed circumstance.<sup>49</sup>

TILA Loan Estimate Not Delivered in Timely Manner by Broker

The MMC examiners found the MMEs were not ensuring the consumer received the initial application disclosures required by TILA Regulation Z in a timely manner after application. As we discussed earlier, when a creditor accepts the mortgage broker handling of the initial disclosure, they accept the disclosures were provided within compliance to the timing requirements of TILA.<sup>50</sup> If any required disclosures are not provided to the consumer in person, the consumer is considered to have received the disclosures three business days after they are delivered or placed in the mail.

The creditors were given a violation for their brokered loan, where the initial Loan Estimate was not provided in a timely manner. In addition, the initial Loan Estimate must be provided no later than the third business day after the receipt of the consumer's application even though a company is the

&lt;sup>47</sup> TILA 12 CFR Section §1026.19(e)(3)(iv)

&lt;sup>48</sup> TILA Regulation Z Section §1026.19(e)(1)(iii)

&lt;sup>49</sup> CFPB Official interpretation of 19(e)(3)(iv)(A)

&lt;sup>50</sup> TILA 12 C.F.R. Section §1026.19(e)(1)

broker and might have established disclosure agreements with the wholesale lender. The responsibility falls on the originators (funding lender).<sup>51</sup>

The creditor is responsible for delivering or placing in the mail the Loan Estimate no later than the third business day after the creditor receives the consumer's application. Federal Regulation states in part that an application consists of the submission of the consumer's name, the consumer's income, the consumer's social security number to obtain a credit report, the property address, an estimate of the value of the property, and the mortgage loan amount sought.<sup>52</sup> Once this information is received by the broker or the creditor, the initial disclosure timing requirement starts.

Except as allowed by the regulations, the creditor must deliver or place in the mail the loan estimate disclosures required no later than the seventh business day before consummation of the transaction.

Waiver of Seven Day Timing Requirement

If the consumer determines that the extension of credit is needed to meet a bona fide personal financial emergency, the consumer may modify or waive the TILA seven-business-day waiting period for early disclosures, after receiving the disclosures required. To modify or waive the waiting period, the consumer must give the creditor a dated written statement that describes the emergency, specifically modifies, or waives the waiting period, and bears the signature of all the consumers who are primarily liable on the legal obligation. Printed forms for this purpose are prohibited.<sup>53</sup>

Whether a bona fide emergency exists is determined by the circumstances of the individual situation. The imminent sale of the consumer's home at foreclosure, where the foreclosure sale will proceed unless loan proceeds are made available to the consumer during the waiting period, is one example of a bona fide personal financial emergency. Each consumer who is primarily liable on the legal obligation must sign the written statement for the waiver to be effective.<sup>54</sup>

Delayed Construction Loan Settlement

In transactions involving new construction, where the creditor reasonably expects that settlement will occur more than sixty days after the initial disclosures required are provided, the creditor may

&lt;sup>51</sup> Topic 7: TILA 12 CFR Section §1026.19(e)(1)

<sup>52</sup> Federal Regulation Section §1026.2(a (3)(ii)

<sup>53</sup> Official interpretation of 19(e)(1)(v)

<sup>54</sup> https://www.consumerfinance.gov/rules-policy/regulations/1026/19/#19-e-1-v-Interp-1

provide revised disclosures to the consumer if the original disclosures state clearly and conspicuously that at any time prior to sixty days before consummation, the creditor may issue revised disclosures. If no such statement is provided, the creditor may not issue revised disclosures, except as allowable change of circumstances.

However, if a use and occupancy permit has been issued for the home prior to the issuance of the disclosures required, then the home is not considered to be under construction and the transaction would not be a construction loan to build a home for the purposes of this rule.<sup>55</sup>

If a creditor uses a revised estimate for the purpose of determining good faith, the creditor shall provide a revised version of the disclosures required including any corrected disclosures reflecting the revised estimate within three business days of receiving information sufficient to establish that one of the reasons for revision has occurred.

For example - The following examples illustrate these requirements:

- Assume a creditor requires a pest inspection. The unaffiliated pest inspection company informs the creditor on Monday that the subject property contains evidence of termite damage, requiring a further inspection, the cost of which will cause an increase in estimated settlement charges by more than ten percent. The creditor must provide revised disclosures by Thursday to comply with TILA Regulation Z.<sup>56</sup>
- Assume a creditor receives information on Monday that, because of a changed circumstance, the title fees will increase by an amount totaling six percent of the originally estimated settlement charges subject to the ten percent tolerance. The creditor had received information three weeks before that, because of a changed circumstance, the pest inspection fees increased by an amount totaling five percent of the originally estimated settlement charges. Thus, on Monday, the creditor has received sufficient information to establish a valid reason for revision and must provide revised disclosures reflecting the eleven percent increase by Thursday to comply with TILA Regulation Z tolerances.<sup>57</sup>
- Assume a creditor requires an appraisal. The creditor receives the appraisal report, which indicates that the value of the home is significantly lower than expected. However, the creditor has reason to doubt the validity of the appraisal report. A reason for revision has not been established because the creditor reasonably believes that the appraisal report is incorrect. The creditor then chooses to send a different appraiser for a second opinion, but the second appraiser returns a similar report. At this point, the creditor has received information sufficient to establish that a reason for revision has, in fact, occurred, and must provide corrected disclosures within three business days of receiving the second appraisal report.

<sup>55</sup> CFPB interpretation of 19(e)(3)(iv)(F)

&lt;sup>56</sup> TILA 12 CFR Section §1026.19(e)(4)(i)

&lt;sup>57</sup> TILA 12 CFR Section §1026.19(e)(4)(i)

 In this example, in order to comply with the regulations, the creditor must maintain records documenting the creditor's doubts regarding the validity of the appraisal to demonstrate that the reason for revision did not occur upon receipt of the first appraisal report.<sup>58</sup>

Relationship Between Loan Estimates and Closing Disclosures

The creditor may not provide a revised version of the loan estimate disclosures required on or after the date on which the creditor provides the required closing disclosures. The consumer must receive any revised version of the initial TILA disclosures no later than four business days prior to consummation. If the revised version of the disclosures required is not provided to the consumer in person, the consumer is considered to have received such version three business days after the creditor delivers or places such version in the mail. If the consumer consents to the E-Sign Act, delivery is considered the same as if it were mailed unless other method is used to identify the consumer has received the email sooner than the 3-business day requirement for mail.

A revised Loan Estimate may not be delivered to the applicant at the same time as the Closing Disclosure. TILA Regulation Z requires that the consumer must receive any revised version of the loan estimate disclosures no later than four business days prior to consummation. However, if a creditor uses a revised estimate for the purpose of determining good faith and permits the creditor to provide the revision in the closing disclosure the creditor may still meet the four-day requirement.

For example -

1. If the creditor is scheduled to meet with the consumer and provide the closing disclosure required on Wednesday, June 3, and the APR becomes inaccurate on Tuesday, June 2, the

<sup>58</sup> https://www.consumerfinance.gov/rules-policy/regulations/1026/19/#19-e-4-i-Interp-1-iii

- creditor complies with the requirements by providing the disclosures reflecting the revised APR on Wednesday, June 3. However, the creditor does not comply with the requirements if it provides both a revised version of the loan estimate disclosure reflecting the revised APR on Wednesday, June 3, and also provides the closing disclosures on Wednesday, June 3.
- 2. If the creditor is scheduled to email the loan estimate disclosures required to the consumer on Wednesday, June 3, and the consumer requests a change to the loan that would result in revised disclosures on Tuesday, June 2, the creditor complies with the requirements by providing the disclosures required reflecting the consumer-requested changes on Wednesday, June 3. However, the creditor does not comply with the requirements if it provides disclosures reflecting the consumer-requested changes using both the revised version of the loan estimate disclosures on Wednesday, June 3, and also the closing disclosures on Wednesday, June 3.
- 3. Consummation is scheduled for Thursday, June 4. The creditor hand delivers the disclosures required on Monday, June 1, and, on Tuesday, June 2, the consumer requests a change to the loan that would result in revised disclosures but would not require a new waiting period. The creditor is required to provide corrected disclosures reflecting any changed terms to the consumer so that the consumer receives the corrected disclosures at or before consummation. The creditor complies with the requirements by hand delivering or emailing the disclosures reflecting the consumer-requested changes on Thursday, June 4.
- 4. Consummation was originally scheduled for Wednesday, June 10. The creditor hand delivers or emails the disclosures required on Friday, June 5. On Monday, June 8, the consumer reschedules consummation for Wednesday, June 17. Also on Monday, June 8, the consumer requests a rate lock extension that would result in revised disclosures but would not require a new waiting period. The creditor complies with the requirements by delivering or placing in the mail the disclosures required reflecting the consumer-requested changes on Thursday, June 11. The creditor is required to provide corrected disclosures reflecting any changed terms to the consumer so that the consumer receives the corrected disclosures at or before consummation. The creditor complies with by hand delivering or emailing the disclosures on Thursday, June 11.
  - a. Alternatively, the creditor complies by providing the disclosures to the consumer by mail, including by electronic mail, on Thursday, June 11, because the consumer is considered to have received the corrected disclosures on Monday, June 15 (unless the creditor relies on evidence that the consumer received the corrected disclosures earlier).

5. Consummation was originally scheduled for Wednesday, June 10. The creditor hand delivers the disclosures required on Friday, June 5, and the APR becomes inaccurate on Monday, June 8, such that the creditor is required to delay consummation and provide corrected closing disclosures, including any other changed terms, so that the consumer receives them at least three business days before consummation. Consummation is rescheduled for Friday, June 12. The creditor complies with the requirements by hand delivering or emailing the disclosures reflecting the revised APR and any other changed terms to the consumer on Tuesday, June 9.59

CFPB Delivery Timing for Closing Disclosure

Except as provided in the regulations, the creditor must ensure that the consumer receives the closing disclosures required by TILA Regulation Z no later than three business days before consummation. If any required closing disclosure is not provided to the consumer in person, the consumer is considered to have received the disclosures three business days after they are delivered or placed in the mail.<sup>60</sup>

Mail Delivery

TILA Regulation Z provides that, if any disclosures required are not provided to the consumer in person, the consumer is considered to have received the disclosures three business days after they are delivered or placed in the mail. If the creditor delivers the closing disclosures required in person, consummation may occur at any time on the third business day following delivery.

Other Forms of Delivery

Creditors that use electronic mail or a courier other than the United States Postal Service may follow the timing requirements for disclosures provided by mail services.

For example - If a creditor sends a required disclosure via email on Monday, the consumer is considered to have received the disclosure on Thursday, three business days later. The creditor may, alternatively, rely on evidence that the consumer received the emailed disclosures earlier after delivery. The creditor may, alternatively, rely on evidence that the consumer received the disclosures earlier than three business days after mailing, such as by overnight delivery with signature required.<sup>61</sup>

<sup>59</sup> https://www.consumerfinance.gov/rules-policy/regulations/1026/19/#19-e-4-ii-Interp-1-v

<sup>60</sup> CFPB Official interpretation of 19(f)(1)(ii) Timing

Creditors using electronic delivery methods, such as email, must also comply with TILA timing requirements for when the consumer is thought to have received the disclosures.

For example - If a creditor delivers the required disclosures to a consumer via email, but the creditor did not obtain the consumer's consent to receive disclosures via email prior to delivering the disclosures, then the creditor does not comply with TILA or E-Sign Act.<sup>62</sup>

No fee may be imposed on any person, as a part of settlement costs or otherwise, by a creditor or by a servicer for the preparation or delivery of the closing disclosures required.

Post-Closing Disclosure (CD) Compliance

The MMC examiners found some MMEs were not providing the borrower with post-closing disclosure when there was a change for third party charges. The MMEs were cited for the violation. TILA requires creditors to provide the Post Closing Disclosure with any corrected Title fee so the amount of fees on the Closing Disclosure matches with the final settlement statement.<sup>63</sup>

If during the 30-day period following consummation, an event in connection with the settlement of the transaction occurs that causes the closing disclosures to become inaccurate, and such inaccuracy results in a change to an amount actually paid by the consumer from that amount disclosed, the creditor is required to deliver or place in the mail corrected disclosures not later than 30 days after receiving information sufficient to establish that such event has occurred.<sup>64</sup> The borrower has a right to have in their possession the final closing disclosure of all fees incurred for the transaction.

For example -

 Assume consummation occurs on a Monday and the security instrument is recorded on Tuesday, the day after consummation. If the creditor learns on Tuesday that the fee charged by the recorder's office differs from that previously disclosed, and the changed fee results in a

<sup>61</sup> TILA 12 CFR Section §1026.19(f)(1)(ii)(A)

<sup>62</sup> https://www.consumerfinance.gov/rules-policy/regulations/1026/19/#19-f-1-iii-Interp-2

<sup>63</sup> TILA 12 CFR Section §1026.19(f)(2)(iii)

<sup>64</sup> https://www.consumerfinance.gov/rules-policy/regulations/1026/19/#f-2-ii-B

- change in the amount actually paid by the consumer, the creditor complies with TILA Regulation Z by revising the disclosures accordingly and delivering or placing them in the mail no later than 30 days after Tuesday.
- 2. Assume consummation occurs on a Tuesday, October 1 and the security instrument is not recorded until 15 days after October 1 on Thursday, October 16. The creditor learns on Monday, November 4 that the transfer taxes owed to the State differ from those previously disclosed, resulting in an increase in the amount actually paid by the consumer. The creditor complies by revising the disclosures accordingly and delivering or placing them in the mail no later than 30 days after Monday, November 4.
  - a. Assume further that the increase in transfer taxes paid by the consumer also exceeds the amount originally disclosed on the loan estimate making the fee change above the tolerance limitations allowed. The creditor does not violate TILA Regulation Z if the creditor refunds the excess to the consumer no later than 60 days after consummation, and the creditor delivers corrected closing disclosures to reflect the refund of such excess no later than 60 days after consummation. The creditor satisfies these requirements if it revises the disclosures accordingly and delivers or places them in the mail by November 30.
- 3. Assume consummation occurs on a Monday and the security instrument is recorded on Tuesday, the day after consummation. During the recording process on Tuesday the settlement agent and the creditor discover that the property is subject to an unpaid $500 nuisance abatement assessment, which was not disclosed, and learns that pursuant to an agreement with the seller, the seller will pay the $500 assessment rather than the consumer. Because the $500 assessment does not result in a change to an amount actually paid by the consumer, the creditor is not required to provide a corrected disclosure.
  - a. However, the assessment will result in a change to an amount actually paid by the seller from the amount disclosed. The settlement agent must deliver or place in the mail corrected disclosures to the seller no later than 30 days after Tuesday and provide a copy to the creditor as required.
- 4. Assume consummation occurs on a Monday and the security instrument is recorded on Tuesday, the day after consummation. Assume further that ten days after consummation the municipality in which the property is located raises property tax rates effective after the date on which settlement concludes. TILA Regulation Z does not require the creditor to provide the consumer with corrected disclosures because the increase in property tax rates is not in connection with the settlement of the transaction.<sup>65</sup>

If during the 30-day period following consummation, an event in connection with the settlement of the transaction occurs that causes the disclosures to become inaccurate, and such inaccuracy results in a change to an amount actually paid by the consumer from that amount disclosed, the creditor must provide the consumer corrected disclosures.

A creditor is not required to provide corrected disclosures if the only changes that would be required to be disclosed in the corrected disclosure are changes to per-diem interest and any disclosures affected by the change in per-diem interest, even if the amount of per-diem interest actually paid by the consumer differs from the amount disclosed. Nonetheless, if a creditor is providing a corrected disclosure for reasons other than changes in per-diem interest and the per-diem interest has changed as well, the creditor must disclose in the corrected disclosures the correct amount of the per-diem interest and provide corrected disclosures for any disclosures that are affected by the change in per-diem interest.<sup>66</sup>

65 TILA Regulation Z, 12 CFR Section §1026.19(f)(2)(iii)

<sup>66</sup> https://www.consumerfinance.gov/rules-policy/regulations/1026/19/#f-2-iii

Module 2 - Ethics

Ethics Lesson Objective:

The student will learn some of the regulations that govern ethical behavior in the mortgage industry. Some of these laws include the Telephone Consumer Protection Act, Whistleblower Regulations, ECOA, Unfair Deceptive Acts and Practices, the Fair Housing Act, and Housing Financial Discrimination Act. The student will have a strong understanding of what actions are prohibited after a review of these federal regulations. The course also reviews with the students current fraud schemes to prepare students to mitigate fraud in the mortgage industry.

Introduction

Ethics is a required topic for annual licensing, and an important part of professional mortgage lending. With the Dodd-Frank Act, Regulators believed licensing mortgage loan originators (MLOs) would achieve success to ensure that responsible, affordable mortgage credit remains available to consumers. Regulators understand reducing uncertainty facilitates compliance and that is why CFPB provides so many examples which we use in our courses.

Most licensed mortgage loan officers (MLOs), manage their business in an ethical manner. A few MLOs do not understand ethics, and the laws that govern their bad behavior. An MLO may believe they are managing their business in an ethical manner but may not be in compliance with some ethics focused federal regulations. All licensees, including individual MLOs, are responsible for performing their daily activities in an ethical and compliant manner.

CFPB Update

To improve the mortgage industry, the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau (CFPB) has increased their capacity for industry education and enforcement actions in 2023. For the first time a team of technologists dedicated to enforcement matters joined the CFPB. This cross-disciplinary team of technology experts has increased the Bureau's capacity to enforce the law when emerging technologies harm consumers.

The CFPB recently announced they are significantly expanding their enforcement capacity in 2024 to build on their achievements so far. These positions include enforcement attorneys as well as non-attorney positions, including analysts, paralegals, e-litigation support specialists, economists, and more. These roles are located in the Washington, D.C. headquarters, and for many, in the regional offices in San Francisco, New York, Chicago, and Atlanta.<sup>67</sup>

Telephone Consumer Protection Act

The Telephone Consumer Protection Act (TCPA) was enacted in 1991 to impose restrictions on the use of automatic telephone auto dialing systems (Do Not Call Provision), artificial or pre-recorded voice messages, and fax machines that sent unsolicited advertisements. The Federal Communication Commission (FCC) adopted rules and regulations implementing the TCPA. Different rules and regulations apply on calls placed to homes rather than calls placed to businesses.

For the mortgage industry, CFPB regulates providing consumers the opportunity to opt out of telemarketing and information sharing.<sup>68</sup> The TCPA includes a Telemarketing Sales Rule with a Do Not Call Provision. The Telemarketing Sales Rule prohibits calling a consumer at home who had asked not to be called again.

Telemarketing Sales Rule

The Telemarketing Sales Rule (TSR) gives the consumers a choice about whether they want to receive telemarketing calls and makes it illegal for specified telemarketers to call consumers. This Act expressly prohibits outbound telemarketing calls that deliver a prerecorded message unless the seller has obtained the call recipient's prior signed and written agreement to receive such calls from that seller. To call or solicit a consumer listed on the Do Not Call Registry is a violation.

Some nonprofit organizations, political organizations, telephone surveyors, and charities are exempt from this regulation. The website with detailed information is at https://www.donotcall.gov/, and https://www.ftc.gov/business-guidance.

TCPA Violations and Fines

According to the Federal Trade Commission (FTC), failure to provide any of the required information truthfully and in a "clear and conspicuous" manner, before the consumer pays for the goods or services offered, is a deceptive telemarketing act or practice that violates the TSR and subjects a seller or telemarketer to a civil penalty of $51,744 for each violation.<sup>69</sup>

 $<sup>^{67}\</sup> https://www.consumer finance.gov/about-us/blog/the-cfpbs-enforcement-work-in-2023-and-what-lies-ahead/$

<sup>68</sup> https://www.consumerfinance.gov/rules-policy/regulations/1022/24/

CFPB Law Enforcement

Under the Consumer Financial Protection Act (CFPA), the CFPB has the authority to take action against institutions that violate consumer financial laws, including the use of unfair acts or practices, misleading or abusive acts, and against those that violate the Telemarketing Sales Regulations.

The CFPB had previously sued these companies to stop their illegal conduct and demand reparations and other compensation. In March 2023, the district court ruled that the defendants violated the advance fee provision of the Telemarketing Sales Rule. This regulation provides a series of protections to consumers related to telemarketing and establishes restrictions on payment for certain goods and services. It also requires credit repair companies to wait up to six months after providing the consumer with documentation that the promised results have been achieved before requesting or receiving payment from the consumer.

CFPB may ban violators from telemarketing or the financial industry for a period of time, or lifetime. They can prohibit other companies from doing business with certain affiliate marketers. These prohibitions will apply even after bankruptcy proceedings are completed.

CFPB required notifications to all remaining customers who were still enrolled using telemarketing. The notice must give the consumer the right to cancel their services, and the process for canceling them.

The CFPB may determine when its victim relief fund can be used to pay those harmed by perpetrators. Many laws allow for civil penalties as well as imposing civil monetary penalties.

Unlawful Junk Fees for Credit Repair Settlements

In August 2023, the CFPB entered into a settlement with a ring of corporate entities operating some of the largest credit repair brands in the country, including Lexington Law and CreditRepair.com. The settlement follows a federal court ruling that the companies violated federal law by collecting billions of dollars in illegal advance fees for credit repair services for many years.<sup>70</sup>

&lt;sup>69</sup> https://www.ftc.gov/business-guidance/resources/complying-telemarketing-sales-rule

<sup>70</sup> https://www.consumerfinance.gov/about-us/newsroom/cfpb-acuerda-con-conglomerado-de-reparacion-de-credito/

During the time period relevant to the lawsuit, the companies operated throughout the country and had more than four million customers who were subjected to telemarketing practices. As of 2022, the defendants had combined annual revenues of approximately $388 million. The settlement came after a court ruled that the companies charged illegal upfront fees for credit repair services using telemarketing, violating federal law. If approved, the resolution would impose a judgment of $2.7 billion on these companies. The order would also prohibit these companies from telemarketing credit repair services for ten years.

"People looking to improve their credit scores across the country have turned to companies like CreditRepair.com and Lexington Law. These credit repair industry giants used bogus real estate and rent-to-own opportunities to illegally lure people in and line their pockets with billions of dollars in fees," said CFPB Director Rohit Chopra. "This scam is another sign that we need to work harder to fix the credit scoring and reporting system in our country."

Following the district court ruling, the companies filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection. The companies stated that they had closed about 80% of their business, including their call centers, and had laid off about nine hundred employees in response to the court ruling.

Whistleblower Regulations

The Consumer Financial Protection Bureau (CFPB) provides some protections for federal employees and applicants that are "whistleblower" with the Whistleblower Protection Act. A "whistleblower" provides information he or she reasonably believes have evidence of:

- A violation of any law, rule, or regulation
- Gross mismanagement
- A gross waste of funds
- An abuse of authority
- A substantial and specific danger to public health or safety

This bill requires the CFPB to provide awards to whistleblowers who report information resulting in monetary sanctions. Whistleblowers claiming an award are permitted to have legal representation.<sup>71</sup>

&lt;sup>71</sup> https://www.ftc.gov/office-inspector-general/whistleblower-protection#:~:text=Overview%20of%20the%20WPA%20%2D%20The,supervisors%20who%20retaliate%20against%20Whistleblowers.

This Act protects federal employees or applicants against retaliation for telling authorities about suspected fraudulent activities. It prohibits federal agencies from taking or threatening a personnel action because an employee or applicant made a whistleblower disclosure.

In addition, mortgage industry personnel may not be retaliated against by their employer when the whistleblower reports wrongdoing to a federal, state, or local government authority or law enforcement agency. If the illegal conduct violates any provisions of Title X of the Dodd Frank Act, and it is reported, they will have whistleblower rights. If they have experienced retaliation, they may report it to the U.S. Occupational Safety and Health Administration.

A whistleblower may request that the Office of Inspector General (OIG) keep their identity confidential. An OIG is prohibited from disclosing an employee's identity without the employee's consent unless the OIG determines that disclosure is unavoidable or is compelled by a court order.<sup>72</sup>

Equal Credit Opportunity Act (ECOA), Regulation B

The Equal Credit Opportunity Act (ECOA) is among the oldest laws to provide guidance for ethical behavior. ECOA prohibits creditors from unethical and illegal discrimination against credit applicants on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex, marital status, age (provided the applicant has the capacity to enter into a binding contract); because all or part of the applicant's income was derived from public assistance program; or because the applicant has in good faith exercised any right under the Consumer Credit Protection Act. Ethics in the mortgage industry is required for consumers to trust their mortgage professional and lender.

ECOA and Fair Housing Act Prohibitions

Under the ECOA, it is unlawful for a lender to discriminate on a prohibited basis in any aspect of a credit transaction, and under both the ECOA and the Fair Housing Act (FHAct), it is unlawful for a lender to discriminate on a prohibited basis in a residential real estate related transaction. Under one or both of these laws, a lender may not, because of a prohibited factor:

ProEducate ©All Rights Reserved Page 45 of 182

 $<sup>^{72} \</sup> https://www.ftc.gov/office-inspector-general/whistleblower-protection #: ``text=Overview%20of%20the%20WPA%20%2DM20The, supervisors%20who%20retaliate%20against%20Whistleblowers.$

- Fail to provide information or services or provide different information or services regarding any aspect of the lending process, including credit availability, application procedures, or lending standards.
- Discourage or selectively encourage applicants with respect to inquiries about applications for credit.
- Refuse to extend credit or use different standards in determining whether to extend credit.
- Vary the terms of credit offered, including the amount, interest rate, duration, or type of loan.<sup>73</sup>
- Use different standards to evaluate collateral.
- Treat a borrower differently in servicing a loan or invoking default remedies.
- Use different standards for pooling or packaging a loan in the secondary market.

A lender may not express, orally or in writing, a preference based on prohibited factors or indicate that it will treat applicants differently on a prohibited basis. A violation may still exist even if a lender treated applicants equally.

A lender may not discriminate on a prohibited basis because of the characteristics of

- An applicant, prospective applicant, or borrower.
- A person associated with an applicant, prospective applicant, or borrower (for example a co-applicant, spouse, business partner, or live-in aide).
- The present or prospective occupants of either the property to be financed or the characteristics of the neighborhood or other area where property to be financed is located.

Finally, the FHAct requires lenders to make reasonable accommodations for a person with disabilities when such accommodations are necessary to afford the person an equal opportunity to apply for credit.<sup>74</sup>

 $<sup>^{73}\</sup> https://www.fdic.gov/resources/supervision-and-examinations/consumer-compliance-examination-manual/documents/4/iv-1-1.pdf$

<sup>74</sup> https://www.fdic.gov/resources/supervision-and-examinations/consumer-compliance-examination-manual/documents/4/iv-1-1.pdf

Discrimination

The Fair Housing Act (FHAct) and the Equal Credit Opportunity Act (ECOA) protect consumers by prohibiting unfair and discriminatory practices. Read the OCC's "Answers About Consumer Loans" and "Answers About Mortgages and Home Loans" for more information.<sup>75</sup>

The FHAct prohibits discrimination in residential real estate-related transactions based on -

- race or color
- national origin
- religion
- sex
- familial status
- handicap

ECOA prohibits discrimination in credit transactions based on -

- race or color
- national origin
- religion
- sex
- marital status
- age*
- applicant's receipt of income from a public assistance program
- applicant's exercise, in good faith, of any right under the Consumer Credit Protection Act

Disparate Impact

A lender's policies, even when applied equally to all its credit applicants, may have a negative effect on certain applicants. For example - a lender may have a policy of not making single family home loans for less than $60,000. This policy might exclude a high number of applicants who have lower income levels or lower home values than the rest of the applicant pool. That uneven effect of the policy is called disparate impact.

*Age is a prohibited factor provided the applicant has the capacity to enter into a contract.<sup>76</sup>

<sup>75</sup> https://www.occ.treas.gov/topics/consumers-and-communities/consumer-protection/truth-in-lending/index-truth-in-lending.html

<sup>76</sup> https://www.occ.treas.gov/topics/consumers-and-communities/consumer-protection/fair-lending/index-fair-lending.html

Disparate Treatment

Illegal disparate treatment occurs when a lender bases its lending decision on one or more of the prohibited discriminatory factors covered by the fair lending laws.

For example – An 80-year-old borrower applies for a 30-year fixed mortgage. The creditor's mortgage loan originator pre-approves the loan request but limits the term to 15 years due to his age. The originator reasoned the borrower was a risk to the creditor since he likely would not live long enough to pay back the loan. The decision was not based on the fact the borrower qualified for the 30-year loan. This is 'blatant' age discrimination by the MLO.

The Fair Housing Act

The Fair Housing Act (FHAct) provides guidance for what is considered prohibited for mortgage lenders to consider when requesting financing for a home loan. FHAct prohibits discrimination based on race, color, national origin, religion, sex, familial status, or handicap. Members of a community should not be discouraged or excluded from the lending opportunities available to the masses based purely on a prohibited basis. To do so is considered unethical and predatory mortgage lending. Access to credit is a right for everyone, provided they qualify for the mortgage loan.

For example - A married couple applies for a home loan with the mortgage loan originator. The MLO decides to complete the loan in the wife's name only as she makes the most income. The MLO accepts the loan request and puts it into processing. The next day an unmarried couple comes in for a home loan application with the same loan originator. They both want to be on the loan, but the MLO discourages the couple from making a joint application because they are unmarried. The MLOs personal religion discourages sex outside of marriage, and he feels this would violate his beliefs. The MLO steers the consumers to only apply with one of them explaining it will be better for them to hold title this way since they are not married.

This is discrimination based on familial status, as the MLO treats married couples differently than unmarried couples. It would also be a violation of ECOA based on marital status. By having different requirements, he is limiting the availability of credit to the unmarried couple.

The mortgage loan originator's religious beliefs do not provide him a right to discriminate in residential mortgage lending. The MLO should have the right to have the unmarried couple go to another MLO in his office if he cannot provide unbiased service to avoid his company from having ECOA and FHAct violations.

Predatory Lending

Fair lending laws also contain provisions to address predatory lending practices.

For example -

- Collateral or equity "stripping": The practice of making loans that rely on the liquidation value of the borrower's home or other collateral rather than the borrower's ability to repay.
- Inadequate disclosure: The practice of failing to fully disclose or explain the true costs and risks of loan transactions.
- Risky loan terms and structures: The practice of making loans with terms or structures that make it more difficult or impossible for borrowers to reduce their indebtedness.
- Padding or packing: The practice of charging customers unearned, concealed, or unwarranted fees.
- Flipping: The practice of encouraging customers to frequently refinance mortgage loans solely for the purpose of earning loan-related fees without a net tangible benefit to the borrower.
- Single-premium credit insurance: The requirement to obtain life, disability, or unemployment insurance for which the consumer does not receive a net tangible financial benefit.

Unfair Deceptive Acts and Practices

Multiple government agencies work to fight fraud and protect consumers. Early on the Office of Comptroller of Currency (OCC) took the lead among the federal bank regulatory agencies in developing an approach to address unfair and deceptive marketing practices. These practices are often an element in predatory lending. The OCC has taken a number of enforcement actions against banks that were found to have engaged in abusive practices and, in one landmark case, required a bank to pay over $300 million in restitution to its customers.

The Housing Financial Discrimination Act

The Housing Financial Discrimination Act requires the Fair Lending Notice disclosure be signed by the borrower. The Fair Lending Notice provides information on acts that are illegal and unethical when determining a consumer's credit worthiness. The combined disclosure encompasses the consumer rights provided in several Acts (RESPA, ECOA, and FHAct). This legislation identifies what is considered unethical to use when making a credit decision. FHAct prohibits discrimination in all aspects of "residential real-estate related transactions," including but not limited to:

- Making loans to buy, build, repair, or improve a dwelling
- Purchasing real estate loans
- Selling, brokering, or appraising residential real estate, or
- Selling or renting a dwelling

For example - a mortgage lender decides they are going to stop approving loans in a low income ethic neighborhood because they have experienced too high a delinquency on the loans they produced in this neighborhood. This would be a violation of the Housing Discrimination Act due to using race and trends of a neighborhood to make lending policies unless the lender can justify doing loans in the area are unsound business practice. If the lender not providing loans in the area causes a negative impact to borrowers in this area, this would be considered unethical and unfair lending practices.

Lenders are required to look at all transactions on their own merits for making a credit decision, and not on any of the ECOA or Fair Housing Act prohibited factors.

Unlawfully Discriminatory Lending Practices

Redlining

Red-lining is where a particular neighborhood, zip code, or community are excluded from marketing efforts and/or loan approvals due to reasons that are not based on sound business practice but blatant, disparate-treatment or disparate-impact practices. Redlining is the practice of denying a creditworthy applicant a loan for housing in a certain neighborhood even though the applicant may otherwise be eligible for the loan. The term referred to the practice of mortgage lenders drawing red-lines around neighborhoods or census tracts on a map to indicate the unwanted areas to originate mortgage loans.<sup>77</sup>

For example - A mortgage banker that office is in a poor neighborhood may assume the borrowers would be unable to make the loan payments, so target advertising to only affluent areas fifty miles outside their immediate neighborhood. If this policy caused a disparate impact to the neighborhood

<sup>77</sup> https://www.federalreserve.gov/boarddocs/supmanual/cch/fair_lend_fhact.pdf

they serve, their policy would be a violation by making it difficult for residents in the neighborhood to obtain home financing.

The prohibition against redlining does not mean that a lending institution is expected to approve all housing loan applications or to make all loans on identical terms. Denying loans or granting loans on more-stringent terms and conditions, however, must be justified on the basis of the borrower creditworthiness and property acceptance; and without regard to the prospective borrower's race, color, religion, national origin, sex, marital status, or the neighborhood in which the property is located.

For example - a mortgage lender may consider such economic factors as:

- An applicant's income or credit history Character
- The condition, use, or design of the proposed security property (or of those nearby properties that clearly affect the value of the proposed security property) Collateral
- The availability of neighborhood amenities or city services Collateral
- The need of the lender to hold a balanced real estate loan portfolio, with a reasonable distribution of loans among various neighborhoods, types of property, and loan amounts – Sound business practice.

It would not be sound business practice to be over exposed with a concentration of all business in one neighborhood. Diversified investments in lending may be considered a sound business practice. FHA limits the number of FHA insured condominium loans in a condo project to manage their risk exposure. Each of the factors must be applied without regard to any prohibited factors.

Lowballing

Lowballing is the practice of manipulating property values to obtain an excessively low appraisal in relation to the purchase price on the basis of prohibited considerations which is one form of redlining. Lending more than the appraised value of the collateral is not sound business practice, and lowballing forces a borrower either to cancel the purchase contract, the loan application, or both; or to make a larger down payment on a property in order to make up the difference between the sales price and the low appraised value.

For example - this may allow the lender to have a lower exposure to risk on this home loan since the loan amount was based on the lowballed price and the property is actually valued at a higher amount. If the lender did have to foreclosure, they would be more likely to be able to recoup their foreclosure losses. Benefit to the lender, not the consumer.

Racial Steering

Racial steering is deliberately guiding loan applicants or potential purchasers toward or away from certain types of loans or geographic areas because of race. This is a blatant ECOA violation and is illegal.

Application of Different Standards or Procedures

The application of different standards or procedures in administering foreclosures, late charges, penalties, reinstatements, or other collection procedures is unlawful. Collection practices must be fair to all clients and standards applied evenly to all clients.

Discriminatory Acts Have a Negative Impact

The courts have held that discriminatory acts that have a negative impact on non-minorities, such as white individuals, are illegal and that such individuals have standing to sue.

Excessively Burdensome Qualifications

The use of excessively burdensome qualification standards to deny, or that have the effect of denying, housing to minority applicants is also illegal under the FHAct.

Onerous Rates, Terms, Conditions, or Requirements

The imposition of more-onerous interest rates, or other more-onerous terms, conditions, or requirements, on minority loan applicants is explicitly prohibited. The phrase "terms or conditions" as used in the act covers many types of discriminatory practices.

Use of Racially Exclusive Images

The use of racially exclusive images has repeatedly been found to be illegal even when there was little, or no evidence of a discriminatory policy directed toward any given individual. This practice has been held to violate the Fair Housing Act as well.

For example - a housing lender might exploit an exclusive image by showing only applicants of a particular race in advertisements for home loans.

For example - using only white individuals in advertisements for home equity loans may suggest to viewers that 'only white applicants need apply' or 'only people who look like that could afford to have that type of loan.' How would a reasonable consumer view this advertisement?

Advertising must be inclusionary, as you may have noticed most modern-day ads show couples and families that are mixed race, same sex, single parent, and other combinations to include how people see themselves. To attract today's homebuyers and be in compliance with FHAct, mortgage lenders should reach out to the diverse community it serves.

Mortgage lenders are not expected to make unsound mortgage loans or to render services on morefavorable terms to applicants solely because of the applicant's status as a member of a protected class. However, denying loans or services on a prohibited basis is illegal.

Fraud Trend Evolution

According to Experian, the fraud landscape is constantly evolving, and staying vigilant against the latest trends is critical to safeguarding yourself, your organization, and your consumers. In 2023 these were the top fraud trends and their continued potential impact.<sup>78</sup>

When economic uncertainty reigns, a rise in fraud often follows. To begin with, consumers tend to be financially stressed in such periods and prone to making risky decisions. In addition, fraudsters are keenly aware of the opportunities inherent in unstable times and develop tactics to take advantage of them.

For example - As consumers rein in spending and financial institutions struggle to maintain new account volumes, fraudsters might ramp up their new account and loan activities.

Fraud is becoming more sophisticated.

For example - Thanks to the rapid rise in the availability of artificial intelligence (AI) tools, fraudsters are increasingly able to impersonate companies and individuals with ease, as well as consolidate data from diverse sources and use it more efficiently.

<sup>78</sup> https://www.experian.com/blogs/insights/biggest-fraud-trends/#:~:text=Fraud%20is%20a%20serious%20concern,of%20concern%20about%20fraud%20risk.

CFPB Fraud Findings

The CFPB safeguards household financial stability by ensuring that consumer financial markets are fair, transparent, and competitive. Their enforcement authority is among the CFPB's most impactful tools for reinforcing compliance with federal consumer financial laws and sending a clear message to entities within their authority and the public that the CFPB remains vigilant on behalf of consumers.

When a financial institution, individual, or other entity subject to the CFPB's authority breaks the law, the CFPB may take enforcement action against them. As previously discussed, under certain cases, the CFPB may partner with other federal, state, or local agencies to investigate the wrongdoing and coordinate the enforcement action.

In 2023, the CFPB filed twenty-nine enforcement actions and resolved through final orders six previously filed lawsuits. Those orders require lawbreakers to pay approximately $3.07 billion to compensate harmed consumers and pay approximately $498 million in civil money penalties.<sup>79</sup>

Their enforcement actions are public knowledge, but we have left out the individual names for privacy. You may look up more information by following the citation link. Some of their enforcement actions included the following:

- Protecting service members from illegal high-interest loans and false advertising. In this action, a home loan company was banned from the mortgage lending industry.
- Action against a bank for illegally charging junk fees, withholding credit card rewards, and opening fake accounts.
- Action to stop loan churning is a refinancing scheme that repeatedly charged fees eat up the equity.
- Stopped unlawful junk advance fees for credit repair services.

CFPB Possible Future Fraud Risks

It is anticipated that markets in both U.S. and foreign financial services sectors will evolve to address different and ever-changing risk factors based on their programs, unique business mixes, and organizational structures. These future external challenges must be monitored, as they will impact the work of the CFPB in protecting financial consumers and addressing a continually changing financial environment. It is also anticipated that as CFPB continues to exercise its authorities and regulate the financial services markets, the financial institutions in those markets will continue to contest the CFPB's rules, regulations, and authorities.

ProEducate ©All Rights Reserved Page 54 of 182

&lt;sup>79</sup> https://www.consumerfinance.gov/about-us/blog/the-cfpbs-enforcement-work-in-2023-and-what-lies-ahead/#:~:text=In%202023%2C%20the%20CFPB%20filed,million%20in%20civil%20money%20penalties.

In addition, the CFPB's statutory method of funding has been the subject of litigation. On October 3, 2023, the Supreme Court heard oral arguments in CFPB v. Community Financial Services Association of America, in which a three-judge panel of the Fifth Circuit held in October 2022 that the law funding the CFPB's operations through the earnings of the Federal Reserve System violates the Appropriations Clause. To date, all other courts considering this question have upheld the CFPB's statutory funding mechanism, and a decision by the Supreme Court is expected in the first half of calendar year 2024. These contests may also impact the work of the CFPB in the future.<sup>80</sup>

Fraud Motivations

There are two basic motivations for mortgage fraud. Fraud for housing and fraud for profit.

Fraud for Housing

Fraud for Housing primarily consists of illegal actions by borrowers motivated to acquire or maintain ownership of a home. This type of fraud is committed when a borrower materially misrepresents information on a mortgage loan application such as employment, income, or assets in order to obtain a mortgage. The borrower is motivated to acquire ownership of a house.

Some fraud for housing people purchases a home as an owner occupied for a cousin or other close family member, knowing they will not be moving into the property. Creditors have put more conditions on borrowers that are purchasing their second property and retaining their current primary resident because of this fraud issue.<sup>81</sup>

FHA Requirements

If Rental Income is being derived from the Property being vacated by the Borrower, the Borrower must be relocating to an area more than one hundred miles from the Borrower's current Principal

<sup>80</sup> https://files.consumerfinance.gov/f/documents/cfpb final-financial-report-fy 2023-11.pdf, page 51

<sup>81</sup> https://www.fhfa.gov/PolicyProgramsResearch/Programs/Pages/Fraud-Prevention.aspx

Residence. The Mortgagee must obtain a lease agreement of at least one year's duration after the Mortgage is closed and evidence of the payment of the security deposit or first month's rent.<sup>82</sup>

FNMA Requirements

When the borrower owns mortgaged real estate, the status of the property determines how the existing property's PITI must be considered in qualifying for the new mortgage transaction. If the mortgaged property owned by the borrower is -

- an existing investment property or a current principal residence converting to investment use, the borrower must be qualified in accordance with, but not limited to all FNMA policies regarding rental income use, reserve requirements and limits on financed properties.
- an existing second home or a current principal residence converting to a second home, the PITI of the second home must also be counted as part of the borrower's recurring monthly debt obligations.<sup>83</sup>

Fraud for Profit

This type of fraud is a more complex process involving a group of industry insiders attempting to defraud lenders for profit. Those who commit this type of mortgage fraud use their knowledge or authority to commit or facilitate the fraud.

This collusion by industry insiders may include mortgage loan originators, appraisers, mortgage brokers, attorneys, or other professionals engaged in the industry. Fraud for profit aims not to secure housing, but to misuse the mortgage lending process to steal cash and equity from lenders or homeowners.

Fraud for Profit schemes aim to gain cash or home equity through abuse of the mortgage lending process. This is the type of fraud federal agencies target as it does the most damage to consumers and the mortgage industry.<sup>84</sup>

<sup>82</sup> https://www.hud.gov/sites/dfiles/OCHCO/documents/4000.1hsgh-011823.pdf

<sup>83</sup> https://selling-guide.fanniemae.com/Selling-Guide/Origination-through-Closing/Subpart-B3-Underwriting-Borrowers/Chapter-B3-6-Liability-Assessment/1032991161/B3-6-06-Qualifying-Impact-of-Other-Real-Estate-Owned-06-30-2015.htm

&lt;sup>84</sup> https://www.fhfa.gov/PolicyProgramsResearch/Programs/Pages/Fraud-Prevention.aspx

Collusion Issues

Mortgage fraud can occur through the actions of borrowers and through the actions of mortgage industry professionals in connection with obtaining a mortgage loan. Common instances of fraud committed by borrowers and mortgage industry professionals include:

- Providing false information regarding employment status, income level, or employer
- Misrepresenting the source of funds for a borrower's down payment
- Falsifying a borrower's credit score and/or outstanding debts and liabilities
- Misrepresenting a borrower's intent to occupy the property
- Providing false information concerning a borrower's identity
- Using inaccurate appraisal figures to misrepresent the true value of a property
- Obtaining multiple loans on a single property based on false information
- Providing false property information to secure or modify a loan
- Misrepresenting income, hardship, or related information to halt foreclosure or influence a short-sale decision<sup>85</sup>

Impactful Fraud Trends of 2023

The fraud trends that emerged in 2023 were diverse, though they all had one thing in common: fraudsters' ability to take advantage of new technologies and opportunities. Businesses are feeling the repercussions, with nearly 70% reporting that fraud losses have increased in recent years.

Here are five trends Experian forecasted in the fraud and identity space that challenged regulators and mortgage professionals this year. Some of your home loan applicants may fall victim to these types of fraud.

Deposit and Checking Account Fraud

With everyone focused on fraud in the on-line channels, it is interesting that financial institutions reported more fraud occurring at brick-and-mortar locations. Preying on the good nature of helpful branch employees, criminals are taking risks by showing up in person to open accounts, pass bad deposits and try to work their way into other financial products. The Treasury Department reports complaints doubling YoY, after increasing more than 150% between 2020 and 2021.

ProEducate ©All Rights Reserved Page 57 of 182

<sup>85</sup> https://www.fhfa.gov/PolicyProgramsResearch/Programs/Pages/Fraud-Prevention.aspx

Synthetic Identity Fraud

Not quite fake, not quite real, so-called synthetic or "Frankenstein" identities mash up real data with false information to create unique customer profiles that can outsmart retailers' or financial institutions' fraud control systems. With synthetic identity (SID) fraud, real data is often stolen or purchased on the dark web and combined with other information, even Artificial Intelligence (AI), to created faces so that fraudsters can build up a synthetic identity's credit score before taking advantage of them to borrow and spend money that will never be paid back.

Fake Job Postings and Mule Schemes

Well-paying remote work was in high demand, creating opportunities for fraudsters to create fake jobs to harvest data such as Social Security numbers from unsuspecting applicants. Experian predicts a continued rise in "mule" jobs, in which workers unknowingly sign on to do illegal work, such as reshipping stolen goods.

According to the Better Business Bureau, an estimated fourteen million people get caught in a fake employment fraud yearly. Job seekers can protect themselves by being skeptical of jobs that ask them to do work that appears suspicious, requires money, financial details, or personal information upfront.

Peer-to-peer Payment Fraud

Peer-to-peer payment tools are increasingly popular with consumers and fraudsters, who appreciate that they are both instant and irreversible. Experian expects to continue to see an increase in fraudulent activity on these payment systems, as fraudsters use social engineering techniques to deceive consumers into paying for nonexistent merchandise or even sharing access credentials. Stay safe while using peer-to-peer payment tools by avoiding common scams like requests to return accidental payments, opting for payment protection whenever possible and choosing other transaction methods like paying with a credit card.

Social Media Shopping Fraud

Social media platforms are eager to make in-app shopping fun and friction-free for consumers, and many brands and shoppers are keen to get on board. In fact, approximately 58% of users in the U.S. have purchased a product after seeing it on social media.

Unfortunately, these tools neglect effective identity resolution and fraud prevention, leaving sellers vulnerable to fraudulent purchases. And while buyers have some recourse when a purchase turns out to be a scam, it is wise to be cautious while shopping on social media platforms by researching sellers, only using credit cards and being cognizant of common scams, like when vendors on Facebook Marketplace ask for payment upfront.

Employer Text Fraud

Fraudulent text messages, also known as "smishing," a mash-up of Short Messaging Service (SMS) and phishing continues to rise. In fact, according to data security company Lookout, 2022 was the biggest year ever for such mobile phishing attacks, with more than thirty percent of personal and enterprise mobile phone users exposed every quarter.

Fraud Prevention and Detection Matter

Nearly two-thirds of consumers say they are "very" or "somewhat concerned" with online security, and more than eighty five percent expect businesses to respond to their identity and fraud concerns. Addressing and preventing fraud and communicating these fraud-prevention actions to customers is an essential strategy for businesses that want to maintain customer trust, thereby decreasing churn and maximizing conversions on new leads.

Fraud Strategy

According to Experian, in 2024 fraud management solutions must be even more technically advanced than the fraudulent techniques they are combating. But more than that, they need to be appealing to consumers, who are likely to abandon signup or purchase attempts when they become too onerous. In fact, 37% of consumers have moved their business elsewhere due to a negative account opening experience.

To succeed, effective fraud strategies must be seamless, low friction, data-driven and customerfocused. That means making use of up-to-date technologies that boost security while prioritizing a positive customer experience. Experian and other providers have creditor tools for fraud prevention and identity verification tools which help creditors detect and combat fraud. If a company is unable to manage with their own staff, outside companies can provide the service to implement a fraud management solution.<sup>86</sup>

Omnichannel Fraud Report

According to Transunion, globally in 2022 fraud returned to something more closely resembling prepandemic levels. However, with increased digital transaction volumes, the risk to organizations and individuals was even greater than before.<sup>87</sup>

Transunion's 2023 State of Omnichannel Fraud Report provided insights and recommendations for implementing smarter, more effective fraud prevention strategies that build consumer trust by demonstrating safety in customer experiences.

Global fraud trends highlighted in the report include:

- Growth in digital transactions is driving fraud risk exposure
- 4.6% of global digital transactions were potentially fraudulent in 2022
- 80% increase in digital transactions resulted in 80% growth in suspected digital fraud attempts globally from 2019 to 2022
- Stolen identifiers are being weaponized to commit increasingly sophisticated fraud
- 83% increase in publicly reported data breaches in the US from 2020 to 2022
- $4.6 billion outstanding balances attributed to suspected synthetic identities for US auto loans, credit cards, retail credit cards and unsecured personal loans (highest level ever and a 27% increase since 2020)
- Fraudsters are using every available digital channel to access consumer accounts
- 62% of high-risk phone calls into US call centers were from non-fixed VoIP phone lines in 2022
- 52% of consumers said they were targeted with online, email, phone call or text messaging fraud attempts from Sept. to Dec. 2022

&lt;sup>86</sup> https://www.experian.com/blogs/insights/biggest-fraud-trends/#:~:text=Fraud%20is%20a%20serious%20concern,of%20concern%20about%20fraud%20risk.

<sup>87</sup> https://www.transunion.com/report/omnichannel-fraud-report

Equifax Consumer Debt Observations

As of January 2024, the total US consumer debt is $17.33 trillion, up 2.3% over a year ago. Mortgage debt, including home equity loans, accounts for $12.58 trillion, a 72.6% share of total debt. Non-mortgage debt totals $4.75 trillion, equating to a 27.4% share.

In January 2024, 34.3% of non-mortgage consumer debt is from auto loans and leases, 31.9% is from student loans, and 23% is from credit card balances.

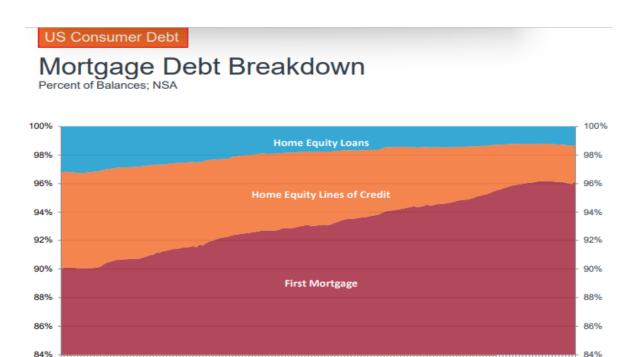

As of January 2024, HELOCs are 2.7% of mortgage debt outstanding and first mortgages account for 95.8%. Total mortgage debt is over 20% below the October 2008 peak level.

In January 2024, non-mortgage consumer debt write-offs came in at $12.98 billion, which is an increase of 41.8% over a year ago.

First Mortgage Trends

The following graph shows the growth of first mortgage debt for consumers over the last 20+ years.

88

2013

8

Source: Equifax Inc.

ProEducate ©All Rights Reserved Page 61 of 182

2020

2022

Data as of January 2023

<sup>88</sup> https://assets.equifax.com/marketing/US/assets/EFX PortfolioCreditTrends 202301.pdf, page 11

First Mortgage Observation

As of January 2023, there were 53.28 million outstanding first mortgage loans, up 2.3% from January 2022.

First mortgage outstanding balances have risen steadily since June 2013 ($7.747 trillion), reaching $11.769 trillion.

The severe delinquency rate (share of balances 90+ Days Past Due, in bankruptcy or foreclosure) is 0.40%. This is up 7 bps from a year ago, when it stood at 0.33%.

Write-offs are at 0.48 bps on balances and 1.06 bps on accounts and are up from 0.38 bps and 0.77 bps from a year ago.

Home Equity Installment Loan Observations

Outstanding balances on home equity installment loans or fixed second mortgages rose 24.9% year-over-year to $166.0 billion.

The total number of outstanding home equity installment loans stands at 5.08 million, which is an increase of 13.1% compared to a year ago.

The severe delinquency rate (share of balances 90+ Days Past Due, in bankruptcy or foreclosure) is 0.73%, comparable with this time last year.

Monthly write-offs are at 14.06 bps as a share of outstanding balances.

This is 9.45 bps higher than the same time last year. HE Loan write-offs peaked in October 2008 at 38.8 bps.

Home Equity Lines of Credit Observations

Outstanding HELOC balances are $306.8 billion. This is a 2.2% increase in total balances from a year ago, and a 54.6% decrease from the May 2009 peak of $676.5 billion.

Outstanding HELOC accounts have similarly fallen over the past year from 7.95 million HELOCs in January 2022 to 8.99 million in January 2023, a 17.7% increase.

Utilization rates continue to trend down, sitting at 37.2% in January 2023 down from 37.3% a year ago. HELOC utilization rates peaked in December 2010 at 54.8%.

The severe delinquency rate (share of 90+ Days Past Due, in bankruptcy or foreclosure) is 0.44% which is a 10 bps decrease from the same month last year. In December 2009, severe delinquencies peaked at 2.86%.

Total aggregate HELOC credit limits continue to slowly trend down.

Senior Consumer Fraud

Seniors have long been targeted by fraudsters using the phone primarily to dupe seniors into sending money or other private information to savvy fraudsters. This segment of the population frequently are victims of violent crime, property crime, and consumer and telemarketing fraud. Scammers target those over fifty years of age with their telephone fraud schemes.

The Federal Trade Commission was authorized to enforce The Telemarketing and Consumer Fraud and Abuse Prevention Act, and target telephone fraud schemes to consumers.

The Act required the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) to promulgate regulations by -

- 1. defining and prohibiting deceptive telemarketing acts or practices
- 2. prohibiting telemarketers from engaging in a pattern of unsolicited telephone calls that a reasonable consumer would consider coercive or an invasion of privacy
- 3. restricting the hours of the day and night when unsolicited telephone calls may be made to consumers
- 4. requiring disclosure of the nature of the call at the start of an unsolicited call made to sell goods or services.<sup>89</sup>

Organizations including the Administration on Aging provide the elderly education about how to identify a scam, rules to never give out personal information over the phone, and updates on the current fraud scams affecting the elderly. Awareness is important for seniors to be aware of what scammers are doing and recognize when they are being scammed. They are also provided with the information to turn the fraudster in for legal action.

<sup>89</sup> https://www.ftc.gov/legal-library/browse/statutes/telemarketing-consumer-fraud-abuse-prevention-act

The Money Smart for Older Adults Program raises awareness among older adults and their caregivers on how to prevent fraud, scams, and other elder financial exploitation. The curriculum encourages advanced planning and informed financial decision-making.<sup>90</sup>

In the mortgage industry, reverse mortgage fraud has been a problem for seniors. A reverse mortgage is a special type of loan that allows homeowners 62 years of age and older to borrow against the accrued equity in their homes. The loan must be paid back when the borrower dies, moves, or no longer lives in the home. Fraud scams will get seniors to remove their property's equity only to get the funds stolen after loan funding.

For example - one fraud scam includes the homeowner's line of credit gets depleted shortly after closing often without the elderly homeowner's knowledge. Often this is done by an unethical family member, MLO, or fraudster.

Covid-19 pandemic has changed how people interact when managing financial matters with over the phone or electronic transactions, becoming the norm over face-to-face interaction. As a result of the economic uncertainty caused by the COVID-19 pandemic, scammers target older homeowners with home equity through reverse mortgage schemes.

These schemes can include:

- A trusted family member or caregiver coercing an elderly homeowner into applying for a reverse mortgage loan or impersonating their elderly relative during the loan process.
- Using an older homeowner's identity, Social Security number, or other personal information without his or her knowledge to get the equity loan money.
- Tempting reverse mortgage borrowers to use loan money to make a "can't miss" investment or to take out a reverse mortgage to pay for high-cost repairs or improvements to the home.
- Trying to convince the reverse mortgage borrower to sign a power of attorney that gives the scammer sole access to the reverse mortgage loan money.

<sup>90</sup> https://www.fdic.gov/resources/consumers/money-smart/teach-money-smart/money-smart-for-older-adults.html#:~:text=The%20Money%20Smart%20for%20Older,and%20informed%20financial%20decision%2Dmaking.

Many older homeowners do not realize they have been scammed until the loan money and their property equity is gone. Scammers may target older adults through community organizations; investment seminars; and television, radio, billboard, and mailer advertisements.<sup>91</sup>

The CFPB advises seniors that reverse mortgage ads do not always tell the whole story. They recommend they consider these facts when viewing an advertisement:

- A reverse mortgage is a home loan, not a government benefit. Reverse mortgages have fees and compounding interest that must be repaid, just like other home loans.
- A homeowner can lose their home with a reverse mortgage. For example when a reverse mortgage ad says you will retain ownership of your home, or that you can live there as long as you want to, do not take these messages at face value.
- Without a good plan, a homeowner could outlive their loan money. For example after seeing a reverse mortgage ad, a homeowner may think that a reverse mortgage guarantees financial security no matter how long you live.

Equity-rich, cash poor, elderly homeowners are an attractive target for unethical predatory lenders. Many elderly homeowners are on fixed or limited income yet need access to credit to pay for home repairs, medical care, property or municipal taxes, and other expenses. Predatory lenders profit from elders' needs for cash with loans packed with high interest rates, excessive fees and costs, credit insurance, balloon payments and other predatory terms.

Family Fraud Scams

When a family member cannot qualify, another family member will purchase the home in their name. The family member on the loan may not take occupancy of the property. Often, they will state they are going to rent their current home and move into the property they are purchasing. Yet after closing they allow the non-qualifying family member to move into the home, and they continue to occupy their existing home. There are some loan programs that would allow a non-occupying coborrower to be on the loan and assist the borrower to qualify. Without disclosing the true occupancy of the property, this is considered occupancy fraud for housing.

&lt;sup>91</sup> https://www.consumerfinance.gov/about-us/blog/avoid-reverse-mortgage-shopping-scams/

Additionally, a family member may try to steal the equity of another family member's home. The family member may steal the identity of the family member or push the transaction on the family member without explaining the transaction fully to the unsuspecting homeowner. Then the unethical family member may steal the cash equity with a second mortgage, reverse mortgage line of credit or cash out refinance. The homeowner may or may not be aware of the home loan transaction.

Air Loan Fraud Scheme

The air loan is a loan obtained on a nonexistent property or for a nonexistent borrower putting cash into the hands of the fraudsters. With no property ever bought or sold takes a group of professionals to work together to create a fake borrower, fake chain of title, and get a title and property insurance binder. The fraud chain may include phone banks and mailboxes to create fake employment verifications, home addresses and borrower telephone numbers.

Real Estate Cash Purchases Fraud

For this scheme, criminals use cash purchases to make payments in full for properties to evade the scrutiny on the origin of their funds they would experience by a financial institution. Many cash transactions are routine and legitimate, yet present significant opportunities for exploitation by unethical fraudsters.

Shell Companies Fraud

Criminals launder money to hide the illicit origin of their funds. Shell companies are typically non-publicly traded corporations, limited liability companies, or trusts that have no physical presence except a mailing address. Shell companies can be formed without disclosing the ultimate owners or people in control of them and can be used to conduct financial transactions without disclosing the true beneficial owners' involvement. Criminals abuse this anonymity to mask their identities, involvement in transactions, and origins of their wealth, hindering law enforcement efforts to identify individuals behind illicit activity.

Real Estate Broker Fraud

Real estate agents may be victims of a cash buyer scam that includes a fraudster that never intends to purchase the property. They lull a real estate agent to help them with cashier's check or bogus check and provide it to the broker. The fraudster identifies they have made an error in the amount or the account it was sent from and asks that all or a portion of the money be returned to them out of the broker or escrow account. Unsuspecting, the broker sends the money only to find out the funds received were not legitimate when the cashier's check is processed.

Other Fraud Schemes

The increase in income fraud follows the trend of rising home prices with strong demand for homes. Most income fraud cases are fraud-for-housing motivated borrowers trying to qualify to purchase a home. Other income frauds are misrepresentations and may be fraud-for-profit schemes.

This typical fraud scenario includes the borrower having a new job with a significant pay increase or a high paying first job out of college. As it is a new job, the lender is unable to validate the job with the IRS.

Occupancy fraud occurs when mortgage applicants deliberately misrepresent their intended use for the property. Loan program pricing and guidelines change depending on the type of occupancy.

Transaction fraud occurs when the nature of the mortgage loan transaction is misrepresented. The risk includes third-party risk, non-arm length transactions and straw buyers. Straw buyers are often used when the fraudster has no intention of using or controlling the purchase of the home and disguises the true buyer or the true nature of the loan transaction.

Multi-closing fraud is a scam that takes advantage of the lag time between closing and recording showing in public record to obtain multiple loans on a single property. The fraudster will close several home loans simultaneously, often on the same day, allowing multiple liens on the property to provide cash out on each to the fraudster.

Identity Theft Fraud

The Red Flag Rules provision from amendments to the Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA) requires financial institutions to implement an identity theft prevention program. The Red Flag Rules requires a financial institution with consumers private information maintain policies and procedures for detecting, preventing, and mitigating identity theft.<sup>92</sup>

Identity theft is when one person uses another person's identity with illegal intensions. They may use someone's social security number or other personal information with illegal intensions for any number of illegal financial crimes, including opening new accounts, making purchases, buying a home, or getting someone's tax refund.

<sup>92</sup> http://www.ftc.gov/bcp/edu/microsites/redflagsrule/diy-template.shtm

Mortgage loan originators are licensed professionals that are required to operate in a sound business manner that does not harm the consumer. Creditors require their staff to follow their company's comprehensive fraud and identity theft prevention program. While working with borrowers' mortgage loan originators must ensure who they are working with is in fact the person they presented to be. They must look for red flags that fall into five categories:

- 1. alerts, notifications, or warnings from a consumer reporting agency
- 2. suspicious documents
- 3. suspicious personally identifying information, such as a suspicious address (document information does not match credit report information)
- 4. unusual use of or suspicious activity relating to a covered account (such as checking account or credit card)
- 5. notices from customers, victims of identity theft, law enforcement authorities, or other businesses about possible identity theft in connection with covered accounts

When fraud is detected, the ethical procedure is to report the suspicious activity to a compliance or BSA officer. A mortgage loan originator is responsible to ensure they do not fund a fraudulent mortgage loan.<sup>93</sup>

ID Theft Prevention Program Compliance: A Four Step Process

The Red Flag Rules require mortgage lenders to have a comprehensive Fraud Prevention Program designed to identify and detect the warning signs (red flags) of identity theft in their day-to-day operations and prevent and mitigate identity theft from occurring. The Federal Trade Commission offers the following four step process for compliance.<sup>94</sup>

<sup>93</sup> https://www.finra.org/sites/default/files/Industry/p119095.pdf

<sup>94</sup> https://www.ftc.gov/tips-advice/business-center/guidance/fighting-identity-theft-red-flags-rule-how-guide-business

1. Identify Relevant Red Flags

The first step is to be able to identify and understand what the potential patterns, practices, or specific activities are indicating the possibility of identity theft.

Mortgage lenders must:

- a. Understand the Risk Factors
  - Different types of accounts pose different kinds of risk. For example -a red flags for an owner-occupied home loan may differ from red flags for an investor home loan.
  - Consider other sources of information, including the other parties in the mortgage transaction. For example – is the transaction arms-length or do the parties have a previous relationship?
  - Technology and criminal techniques change constantly. Mortgage professionals must stay informed and up to date on new scams. For example – regulations require annual training to understand ethics and how to mitigate fraud.
- b. Listen to the Red Flags, Alerts, Notifications, and Warnings from a Credit Reporting Company. Credit reports will flag information that is different from the last time the borrower had their credit pulled. Changes in a credit report or a consumer's credit activity might signal identity theft and requires the MLO to ask probing questions to identify if the person they are working with is the person they say they are. Some alerts could be:
  - a fraud or active-duty alert on a credit report
  - a notice of credit freeze in response to a request for a credit report
  - a notice of address discrepancy provided by a credit reporting company
  - a credit report indicating they work at different jobs or lines of work than what was provided on the loan application
    - For example credit report shows borrower work for catering type companies, but the job on the application show he has worked in construction for ten years
- c. Pay attention to Suspicious Documents. Reviewing the documents supplied by the borrower for red flags is an important part for MLOs. Loan document reg flags to look for include:
  - identification looks altered or forged
  - the person presenting the identification does not look like the photo, match the physical description, or wrong age
  - the bank statement columns look out of alignment

- fonts on the document vary and are not aligned
- d. Look for Suspicious Personal Identifying Information. Personal identifying information can indicate identity theft inconsistencies with what is known.
  - information on the identification or application differs from information in borrower's credit file shows:
    - an address that does not match the credit report
    - the use of a Social Security number that is listed on the Social Security Administration Death Master File
    - a person who omits required information on an application and does not respond to notices that the application is incomplete
- e. Review Notices from Other Sources. A customer, a victim of identity theft, a law enforcement authority, or someone else notifies the MLO that an account has been opened or identity used fraudulently.

2. Detect Red Flags

The Program must address the detection of red flags in connection with the opening of covered accounts and existing covered accounts. The mortgage lender's program must consider how the process can ensure the accuracy of the borrowers' identity and authentication methods that are effective. The method to obtain an identity verification or authentication will vary depending on if the loan application is taken in person, by telephone, mail, or online.

For online authentication, the Federal Financial Institutions Examination Council's guidance explores the application of multi-factor authentication techniques in high-risk environments, including using passwords, PINs, smart cards, tokens, and biometric identification. Certain types of personal information like a Social Security number, date of birth, mother's maiden name, or mailing address are not considered reliable authenticators because they are accessible online.<sup>95</sup>

3. Prevent and Mitigate Identity Theft

Once an MLO identifies a red flag, an MLO must be prepared to respond by following its company's policies and procedures in compliance with this regulation. Questionable activities or documents should be escalated according to the degree of fraud suspected. When warranted, the MLO will need to complete a SAR (Suspicious Activity Report) to send to the BSA Officer or Compliance Officer in accordance with their company's policies. It is the MLOs responsibility to prevent fraud, and not fund fraudulent loans into the secondary market.

<sup>95</sup> https://www.ffiec.gov/guidance/Authentication-and-Access-to-Financial-Institution-Services-and-Systems.pdf

Funding a fraudulent loan is not worth losing your mortgage license or potential criminal record. Fraud costs the mortgage industry billions every year. If MLOs can help to prevent fraud, lenders would have better pricing and the home loan process would flow smoothly for the legitimate home loans. Fraud prevention is a team effort on all levels.

4. Update the Program

Mortgage companies spend a good portion of the budget on technology and protection of their software, facilities, and databases. As regulations and procedures change to stop fraud, fraudsters adapt and create new scams. A mortgage company must continually update and recognize new red flags as they emerge.

The Program must provide for the continued administration of the Program and must:

- Obtain approval of the initial written Program from either its board of directors or an appropriate committee of the board of directors. Fraud prevention comes from the top-down through a company.
- Involve the board of directors, an appropriate committee, or a designated employee at the level of senior management in the oversight, development, implementation, and administration of the Program.
- Train staff no less than annually to effectively implement the Program.

Customer Identification Program (CIP)

The Red Flag Rule contains guidance for what are considered "reasonable policies and procedures." A creditors program should contain procedures for verifying the customer's identity, starting with the identifying information obtained from the customer and non-documentary methods. These borrower identification procedures should address customer verification through documents and third-party verifications. <sup>96</sup>

A CIP should specify acceptable personally identifying information that will be required of each customer applying for a covered account. At a minimum, this should include name, date of birth, address, and photo. The main government agencies require the borrower to provide a government issued photo ID (passport or driver's license) and copy of their social security card or other government tax identification.

For example - copy of a resident alien or individual taxpayer identification number (ITIN) card.

Additional verification for certain borrowers (for example, self-employed borrowers) who may need to document their liability and authority over the business.

Address Discrepancies Duties

The mortgage company's policies and procedures should be designed to train and enable an MLO or other employees who receives the notice of address discrepancy from a consumer reporting agency to take appropriate action to investigate the information discrepancy. The notice should indicate the address used to order the report given by the consumer differs from the address contained in the consumer report. Underwriters will require a satisfactory letter of explanation from the consumer.

The mortgage lender must document that an address is accurate by any of the following means:

- 1. Verification of the address with the consumer
- 2. Review of the organization's records
- 3. Verification of the address through third-party sources
- 4. Confirmation against other loan documents received and verified
- 5. Other reasonable means

If the mortgage lender cannot confirm the proposed borrower's information, this is a red flag and will require additional scrutiny of the information in the loan file and escalation to the BSA Officer in charge.

<sup>96</sup> https://www.consumerfinance.gov/rules-policy/regulations/1022/82/

Change of Address

According to the United States Postal Service (USPS), nearly 33.2 million addresses changes went through the post office in 2022.<sup>97</sup> In terms of identity theft, address fraud is one of the easiest crimes for criminals to perpetrate. The online ease to change your address opens the door for an exploitable weakness in the process.

USPS is very aware of address fraud and does what they can to prevent it from happening. Notably sending move validation letters to both the consumer's previous address and new address when they receive an address change request. USPS has changed to only accepting online address change requests with added layers of online fraud protection.

A criminal can do a lot of damage in a brief period of time. Some identity thieves have found a way to get around the USPS notice letter by putting a vacation hold on all mail to your current address.<sup>98</sup> This allows them even more time before you become aware of the identity theft crisis.

With FCRA regulations, the creditor is supposed to identify when a consumer is acting out of character and notice that the request for credit is not valid. Mortgage lenders have good reason to be concerned about the validity of address information.

Inconsistencies in the loan file are often a tip-off that the file contains misrepresentations, such as an address discrepancy warning on the credit report. The presence of one or more red flags in a file does not necessarily mean that there was fraudulent intent. However, several red flags in a file may signal a fraudulent transaction that will trigger additional scrutiny in providing this consumer with a mortgage or legal actions.

ProEducate

<sup>97</sup> https://facts.usps.com/total-address-changes/

<sup>98</sup> https://www.moving.com/tips/address-fraud-what-it-is-and-how-to-avoid-it/

Module 3 - Non-Traditional

Course Objective

In this lesson, the student will understand and learn about TILA Qualified Mortgage requirements as nontraditional loan programs may be termed non-qualified mortgages. Nontraditional loan programs reviewed in this course include a detailed review of adjustable-rate mortgages and how they function, and a review of commonly available renovation home loans. Students will understand the rehabilitation loan process and how to manage the different rehab loan requirements to help their consumers choose the program that meets their needs.

Traditional Mortgage Loan Defined

The Secure and Fair Enforcement for Mortgage Licensing Act (SAFE Act) defined what is considered a traditional loan as a 30-year fixed rate mortgage loan regardless of the type of occupancy or mortgage program investor. Any add-ons to the 30-year Note, such as balloon payments, rate adjustments, and interest-only payments will term a 30-year loan non-traditional.

For example - an owner-occupied 30-year fixed USDA home loan is considered traditional. An owner-occupied conforming 15-year fixed home loan would be considered a non-traditional.

TILA Qualified Mortgage

A non-Qualified Mortgage (non-QM) loan may be a 30-year fixed traditional mortgage loan, but because of certain risky loan features it would not be considered a qualified mortgage (QM). These TILA rules apply to owner-occupied properties requiring the lenders to verify the borrower is a qualified borrower and their loan program may not have any predatory lending features. These qualified mortgages must document the owner-occupied borrowers' ability to repay the debt, and in turn the creditor has some safe-harbor protections against potential fines and penalties for violating this regulation.<sup>99</sup>

A Qualified Mortgage is a category of loans that have certain, less risky features that help make it more likely the consumer will be able to afford their home loan. A lender must make a good-faith effort to determine that all owner-occupied home loan applicants have the ability to repay their mortgage before the creditor closes the loan. This is known as the "ability-to-repay" rule. To be a Qualified Mortgage means the lender met specific requirements that include the ability-to-repay rule. 100

<sup>99</sup> https://www.consumerfinance.gov/ask-cfpb/what-is-a-qualified-mortgage-en-1789/

Generally, the requirements for a qualified mortgage rule include:

- No risky loan features are permitted, such as:
  - An "interest-only" period, when they pay only the interest due without paying down the principal, which does not decrease the amount of money they borrowed.
  - "Negative amortization," which can allow their loan principal to increase over time, because they are making less than interest accruing on the loan.
  - "Balloon payments," which are bulk amount payments at the end of a loan term or specific period of time in the loan repayment.
  - Loan terms that are longer than 30 years.
- Limits on the price of a loan. The annual percentage rate, or APR, on a Qualified Mortgage cannot be higher than a specified threshold. These thresholds are posted annually in the federal register.
- No excess upfront points and fees. Thresholds are used to determine when fees are excessive. Not all loan fees are included in the threshold. For example FHA insurance premiums are included in this limit. If the points and fees exceed the threshold, then the loan cannot be considered a Qualified Mortgage.
- Diligently verify income, assets, and debts. A Qualified Mortgage must consider and verify the qualifying income and assets to determine the borrower can manage their monthly obligation at loan closing. This requires lenders to include any proposed or known additional debts the borrower will have even after closing. All debts must be included to determine the total debt-to-income ratio. In addition, the creditor should review the money a borrower has left after paying all their monthly debts, known as residual income, to ensure the borrower can repay the Qualified Mortgage.<sup>101</sup>

&lt;sup>100</sup> https://www.consumerfinance.gov/rules-policy/regulations/1026/43/#e-2

&lt;sup>101</sup> https://www.consumerfinance.gov/ask-cfpb/what-is-a-qualified-mortgage-en-1789/

Qualified Mortgage Thresholds

For qualified mortgages (QMs), the thresholds for the spread between the annual percentage rate (APR) and the average prime offer rate (APOR) change annually. In 2024 they will be as follows:

- 2.25 or more percentage points for a first lien covered transaction with a loan amount greater than or equal to $130,461
- 3.5 or more percentage points for a first lien covered transaction with a loan amount greater than or equal to $78,277 but less than $130,461
- 6.5 or more percentage points for a first lien covered transaction with a loan amount less than $78,377
- 6.5 or more percentage points for a first lien covered transaction secured by a manufactured home with a loan amount less than $130,461
- 3.5 or more percentage points for a subordinate-lien covered transaction with a loan amount greater than or equal to $78,277; or
- 6.5 or more percentage points for a subordinate-lien covered transaction with a loan amount less than $78,277.

For all categories of QMs, the thresholds for total points and fees as of the writing of this course:

- Three percent of the total loan amount for a loan greater than or equal to $130,461
- $3,914 for a loan amount greater than or equal to $78,277 but less than $130,461
- Five percent of the total loan amount for a loan greater than or equal to $26,092 but less than $78,277
- $1,305 for a loan amount greater than or equal to $16,308 but less than $26,092; and
- Eight percent of the total loan amount for a loan amount less than $16,308.<sup>102</sup>

Ability to Repay

The Dodd-Frank Act required lenders to make a reasonable, good-faith determination of a consumer's ability to repay (ATR) any mortgage home loan secured by their owner-occupied dwelling (excluding an open-end credit plan, timeshare plan, reverse mortgage, or temporary loan), and establishes certain safe harbor protections for creditors from liability under this requirement for Qualified Mortgages (QM).

ProEducate ©All Rights Reserved Page 76 of 182

 $<sup>^{102}\</sup> https://www.federalregister.gov/documents/2023/09/21/2023-20476/truth-in-lending-regulation-z-annual-threshold-adjustments-credit-cards-hoepa-and-qualified$

The ATR rule applies to all owner-occupied QM loans regardless of the loan terms or funding investor. The ATR/QM rule requires lenders to retain evidence of compliance with the rule for three years after a covered loan is consummated.

To rebut the presumption of compliance, it must be proven that, despite meeting the prerequisites in the regulations, the creditor did not make a reasonable and good faith determination of the consumer's repayment ability at the time of consummation. The lender may disprove this by showing that the consumer's income, debt obligations, alimony, child support, and the consumer's monthly payment (including mortgage-related obligations) on the covered transaction and on any simultaneous loans the creditor was aware at consummation would leave the consumer with sufficient residual income or assets. The lender must properly document how it made the assumption the borrower would be able to meet living expenses, including any recurring and material non-debt obligations of which the creditor was aware at the time of consummation.<sup>103</sup>

Exempt From Ability-to-repay Rule

According to the regulations, a few special types of lenders are exempt from the ability-to-repay rule. Lenders and programs that may not have to follow the ability-to-repay rules are:

- Community Development Financial Institutions. These groups are certified by the U.S.
  Department of the Treasury to provide credit and financial services to underserved populations. The Department of the Treasury has more information on Community Development Financial Institutions.
- Community Housing Development Organizations or Down payment Assistance Providers of Secondary Financing. These are nonprofit service groups that receive aid from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) to help provide affordable housing in their communities.

<sup>103</sup> https://www.consumerfinance.gov/rules-policy/regulations/1026/43/#e-1-ii-B

- Nonprofit organizations that lend less than two hundred times a year and provide credit only to low- or moderate-income consumers. These groups must follow their own written procedures to determine that consumers have a reasonable ability to repay their loans.
- Housing Finance Agencies, which are state agencies that offer certain mortgages with low rates for low- and moderate-income borrowers.
- Loans made through programs under the Emergency Economic Stabilization Act. These programs help those communities hardest hit by the financial crisis of 2007 and 2008.

Alternative Mortgage Transactions According to Regulation D

Alternative mortgage transaction means a loan, credit sale, or account:

- 1. That is secured by an interest in a residential structure that contains one to four units, whether or not that structure is attached to real property, including an individual condominium unit, cooperative unit, mobile home, or trailer, if it is used as a residence.
- 2. That is made primarily for personal, family, or household purposes; and
- 3. In which the interest rate or finance charge may be adjusted or renegotiated.

Regulation D was issued by the Bureau of Consumer Financial Protection (CFPB) to implement the Alternative Mortgage Transaction Parity Act as amended and the Truth in Lending Act. <sup>105</sup> Consistent with the Alternative Mortgage Transaction Parity Act, the Truth in Lending Act, and the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act, the purpose of this regulation is to balance access to responsible credit and enhanced parity between State and federal housing creditors regarding the making, purchase, and enforcement of alternative mortgage transactions with consumer protection and the interests of the States in regulating mortgage transactions generally.

Alternative mortgage transaction that includes any consumer credit transaction secured by a mortgage, deed of trust, or other equivalent consensual security interest in a dwelling or in residential real property that includes a dwelling. The dwelling need not be the primary dwelling of the consumer. Home equity lines of credit and subordinate lien mortgages are alternative mortgage transactions for purposes of this regulation.<sup>106</sup>

 $<sup>^{104}\</sup> https://www.consumerfinance.gov/ask-cfpb/my-mortgage-lender-told-me-it-was-exempt-from-the-ability-to-repay-mortgage-rule-is-this-true-en-1793/$

&lt;sup>105</sup> Alternative Mortgage Transaction Parity Act, 12 U.S.C. §3801 et seq.

Examples of alternative mortgage transactions include:

- Transactions in which the interest rate changes in accordance with fluctuations in an index.
- Transactions in which the interest rate or finance charge may be increased or decreased after a specified period of time or under specified circumstances.
- Balloon transactions in which payments are based on an amortization schedule and a large final payment is due after a shorter term than the amortization. The creditor makes a commitment to renew the transaction at specified intervals throughout the amortization period, but the interest rate may be renegotiated at renewal. For example a fixed-rate mortgage loan with a 30-year amortization period but it has a balloon payment due five years after consummation is an alternative mortgage transaction if the creditor commits to renew the mortgage at five-year intervals for the entire 30-year amortization period.
- Transactions in which the creditor and the consumer agree to share some or all of the appreciation in the value of the property (shared equity/shared appreciation).

The following are examples of transactions that are not alternative mortgage transactions:

- Transactions with a fixed interest rate where one or more of the regular periodic payments may be applied solely to accrued interest and not to loan principal (an interest-only feature).
- Balloon transactions with a fixed interest rate where payments are based on an amortization schedule and a large final payment is due after a shorter term, where the creditor does not make a commitment to renew the transaction at specified intervals throughout the amortization period.
- Transactions with a fixed interest rate where one or more of the regular periodic payments may result in an increase in the principal balance (a negative amortization feature).<sup>107</sup>

A creditor that makes an alternative mortgage transaction with an adjustable rate or finance charge may only increase the interest rate or finance charge as follows:

 $<sup>^{106}\</sup> https://www.consumer finance.gov/rules-policy/regulations/1004/2/#2-a-Interp-3-ii$

&lt;sup>107</sup> https://www.consumerfinance.gov/rules-policy/regulations/1004/2/#c-3

- The creditor must comply with the general TILA disclosure requirements
- For all other transactions, the creditor must use either:
  - An index to which changes in the interest rate are tied that is readily available to and verifiable by the borrower and beyond the control of the creditor; or
  - A formula or schedule identifying the amount that the interest rate or finance charge may increase and the times at which, or circumstances under which, a change may be made.<sup>108</sup>

A creditor may use any measure of index values that meets the requirements in the regulations. For example - the index may be either single values as of a specific date or an average of values calculated over a specified period.

A creditor may increase an adjustable interest rate only if the increase is based on an index that is beyond the creditor's control. An index is not beyond the creditor's control if the index is the creditor's own prime rate or cost of funds. A creditor is permitted, however, to use a published prime rate, such as the prime rate published in the Wall Street Journal, even if the creditor's own prime rate is one of several rates used to establish the published rate.<sup>109</sup>

The index must be available to the public. A publicly available index need not be published in a newspaper, but it must be one the consumer can independently obtain (for example - by telephone) and use to verify the annual percentage rate applied to the alternative mortgage transaction.

Mortgages With Adjustable or Renegotiable Rates or Finance Charges

A creditor that makes an alternative mortgage transaction with payments based on an amortization period and a large final payment due after a shorter term may negotiate an increase or decrease in the interest rate when the transaction is renewed only if the creditor makes a written commitment to renew the transaction at specified intervals throughout the amortization period. However, the creditor is not required to renew the transaction if:

Any action or inaction by the consumer materially and adversely affects the creditor's security for the transaction or any right of the creditor in such security

ProEducate ©All Rights Reserved Page 80 of 182

 $<sup>^{108108}</sup>$  https://www.consumerfinance.gov/rules-policy/regulations/1004/4/#de38a82277268f404065254dafd5d4914192d0c3b36d54d4642f206f  $^{109}$  § 1004.4(a)(2)(i)

- There is a material failure by the consumer to meet the repayment terms of the transaction
- There is fraud or a willful or knowing material misrepresentation by the consumer in connection with the transaction
- Federal law dealing with credit extended by a depository institution to its executive officers specifically requires that as a condition of the extension the credit shall become due and payable on demand, provided that the creditor includes such a provision in the initial agreement.<sup>110</sup>

State Law Restrictions

State laws may put restrictions on the adjustment or renegotiation of an interest rate or finance charge, including restrictions on the circumstances under which a rate or charge may be adjusted, the method by which a rate or charge may be adjusted, and the amount of the adjustment to the rate or charge.

For example - if a provision of State law prohibits creditors from increasing an adjustable rate more than two percentage points or from increasing an adjustable rate more than once during a year, that provision is preempted with respect to alternative mortgage transactions that comply. Similarly, if a provision of State law prohibits housing creditors from renewing balloon transactions that meet the definition of an alternative mortgage transaction on different terms, that provision is preempted only to the extent that it restricts a state housing creditor's ability to adjust or renegotiate the interest rate or finance charge at renewal.

State laws may restrict the ability of a housing creditor to change the amount of interest or finance charges included in regular periodic payments as a result of the adjustment or renegotiation of an interest rate or finance charge.

For example - if a provision of State law prohibits housing creditors from increasing payments or limits the amount of such increases with respect to both alternative mortgage transactions and other mortgage transactions, to the extent that it restricts a housing creditor's ability to adjust payments because of the adjustment or renegotiation of an interest rate. Other restrictions on changes to payments are not preempted, including restrictions on transactions in which one or more of the regular periodic payments may result in an increase in the principal balance (a negative amortization feature) or may be applied solely to accrued interest and not to loan principal (an interest-only feature).

ProEducate ©All Rights Reserved Page 81 of 182

&lt;sup>110</sup> https://www.consumerfinance.gov/rules-policy/regulations/1004/4/#7ae2562961d72df6ca35db9818a90553ee87215eec5e8e9b1b9521e1

State regulations may have restrictions on the creditor and the consumer sharing some or all of the appreciation in the value of the property (shared equity/shared appreciation).

Preempted State Laws

The following are examples of State laws that are not preempted regardless of whether the provision applies solely to alternative mortgage transactions or to both alternative mortgage transactions and other mortgage or consumer credit transactions:

- Restrictions on prepayment penalties or late charges (including an increase in an interest rate or finance charge as a result of a late payment).
- Restrictions on transactions in which one or more of the regular periodic payments may result in an increase in the principal balance (a negative amortization feature) or may be applied solely to accrued interest and not to loan principal (an interest-only feature).
- Requirements that disclosures be provided.<sup>111</sup>

Adjustable-Rate Mortgage

An adjustable-rate mortgage (ARM) allows lenders the ability to increase their profits more so than a fixed rate home loan. Adjustable rates change over the entire life of a loan as indexes adjust, according to the terms in the note, to reflect the current cost of money. Many lenders like ARMs because they can pass the risk of fluctuating interest rates onto the borrowers. Lenders may offer multiple types of ARM programs.

Sometimes it does not make sense to take an adjustable-rate mortgage, but that is short sited.

For example - If you have a borrower that plans to pay their principal down rapidly or with a large lump sum inheritance, an ARM could be a benefit. If you have a consumer making a large lump sum or extra loan payments because they want an overall lower payment, an ARM loan would work the best for this consumer. The monthly payment would go down when the loan adjusts because the principal is less. The loan will amortize with the lower outstanding balance with every adjustment.

&lt;sup>111</sup> https://www.consumerfinance.gov/rules-policy/regulations/1004/interp-3/

With a fixed rate loan, the payment will never change even if the mortgage balance changes drastically, although it would pay off sooner than 360 payments.

Terms, rate changes, and many other aspects of ARMs are regulated primarily by TILA disclosure requirements. Any ARM guidelines of Fannie Mae, Freddie Mac, FHA, and private mortgage insurers must be followed as well.

Components of an ARM Loan

There are several parts to an ARM:

- Index
- Margin
- Rate adjustment period
- Interest rate cap
- Floor rate
- Conversion option (if applicable)

Index

For an adjustable-rate mortgage, the index is a benchmark interest rate that reflects general market conditions, and the margin is a number set by the lender when the borrower applies for a home loan.

With an adjustable-rate mortgage, the rate stays the same, generally for the first year or a few years, and then it begins to adjust periodically. Once the rate begins to adjust, the changes to the interest rate are based on the market index, not on the borrowers' personal financial situation.

Once the initial interest rate for the loan is set at the time of rate lock. The interest rate for the loan is tied to a widely recognized and published index. The index is often referred to as the cost of money.

Changes in the index, along with the loan's set margin, determine the changes to the interest rate for an adjustable-rate mortgage loan. The lender decides which index your loan will use when you apply for the loan, and this choice will not change after closing.<sup>112</sup>

Common ARM mortgage indices include:

COFI - A monthly cost-of-funds index (COFI) reflecting the weighted-average interest rate paid by 11th Federal Home Loan Bank District savings institutions for savings and checking accounts. The 11th district covers Arizona, California, and Nevada. The Federal Cost of Funds Index (COFI) is used as a benchmark for some types of mortgage loans and securities. It is calculated as the sum of the monthly average interest rates for marketable Treasury bills and for marketable Treasury notes, divided by two, and rounded to three decimal places. 113

The Federal COFI is made available by Freddie Mac on or about the 20th day of each month. Freddie Mac first began publicly providing the Federal COFI in March 1991. The Federal COFI is not adjusted to reflect subsequent changes in the underlying Treasury rates once the value has been posted.

CMT – Constant Maturity Treasury is an index published by the Federal Reserve Board based on the monthly average yield of a range of Treasury securities, all adjusted to the equivalent of a one-year maturity. Yields on Treasury securities at constant maturity are determined by the U.S. Treasury from the daily yield curve. CMT is less volatile than the daily 11th District Cost of Funds and is used for many ARM loan programs.<sup>114</sup>

SOFR - The Secured Overnight Financing Rate (SOFR) is based on actual transactions in the Treasury repurchase (repo) market, where extensive trading happens daily. This is the market where investors offer borrowers overnight loans backed by their U.S. Treasury bond assets.<sup>115</sup>

 $<sup>^{112}\</sup> https://www.consumer finance.gov/ask-cfpb/for-an-adjustable-rate-mortgage-arm-what-are-the-index-and-margin-and-how-do-they-work-en-1949/$

<sup>113</sup>

 $https://www.google.com/search?q=11th+district+cost+of+funds+index&rlz=1C1CHZN_enUS1022US1022&oq=11th+district+cost+of+funds+index&gs_lcrp=EgZjaHJvbWUyCQgAEEUYORiABDIHCAEQABiABDIICAIQABgWGB4yDQgDEAAYhgMYgAQYigXSAQg2MzUwajBqNKgCALACAQ&sourceid=chrome&ie=UTF-8$

<sup>114114</sup> https://www.bankrate.com/rates/interest-rates/1-year-cmt/

<sup>115</sup> https://sf.freddiemac.com/working-with-us/origination-underwriting/mortgage-products/sofr-indexed-arms#:~:text=The%20Secured%20Overnight%20Financing%20Rate,their%20U.S.%20Treasury%20bond%20assets.

Each business day, the New York Fed publishes the SOFR on the New York Fed website at approximately 8:00 a.m. ET.<sup>116</sup> Lenders use the 30-day average SOFR to price mortgage loan programs. This is the index that replaced the previously popular LIBOR index.

Prime Rate Index – The prime rate is the underlying index for most credit cards, home equity loans and lines of credit, auto loans, and personal loans. Many small business loans are also indexed to the Prime rate.

The Prime Rate is consistent because banks want to offer businesses and consumers loan products that are both profitable and competitive. Most home equity lines of credit will use the Prime Rate Index + margin to determine the rates offered.<sup>117</sup>

Margin

The margin is the number of percentage points added to the index to set the interest rate on an adjustable-rate mortgage (ARM) after the initial rate period ends. The margin is set when the loan is locked and included in the ARM loan agreement that cannot change after closing. The margin amount depends on the particular lender, costs paid at closing and type of loan. The lower the margin generally the higher the start rate, because the lower the margin the less the rate adjustment changes.

The margin added to the index is termed the fully indexed rate.

For Example -

5.33% Current SOFR Index Value as of 3/30/2024

+ 2.00% Margin

7.33% Fully Indexed Rate will be rounded down to the nearest 1/8th. 7.325%

Rate Adjustment Period

The rate adjustment period is the length of time between interest rate changes with ARMs. This period can vary depending on the terms in the Note.

<sup>116</sup> https://www.newyorkfed.org/markets/reference-rates/sofr

<sup>117</sup> http://www.fedprimerate.com/

&lt;sup>118</sup> https://www.consumerfinance.gov/ask-cfpb/for-an-adjustable-rate-mortgage-arm-what-are-the-index-and-margin-and-how-do-they-work-en-1949/

Discounted Rates

When the initial rate on an ARM, or start rate, is less than the current fully indexed rate, the ARM rate is considered a discounted rate. The discounted rate ('Teaser Rate') can make the ARM loans more attractive to consumers who have a short-term period before moving or refinancing and will benefit with a lower monthly payment.

Interest Rate Cap

Interest rate caps are used with ARMs to limit the percentage points interest rate may increase during the adjustment period and life of the loan. Caps limit on interest rate and payment increase to prevent large fluctuations in mortgage payments and payment shock for borrowers.

Rate caps are often shown as two numbers, for example, 2/6

- 2/6 The first number 2 indicates the maximum amount the interest rate can increase or potentially decrease from one adjustment period to the next. Provided the rate does not go lower than the allowable floor rate.
- 2/6 The second number 6 indicates the maximum amount the interest rate can increase during the life of the loan. At the 6% cap, no additional increase can be made in the rate. The rate can go down as the market allows, but never higher than the life of loan cap allows.

Some ARMs allow for a higher rate adjustment for the first adjustment, especially with hybrid ARM programs. After the first adjustment, then a lower subsequent adjustment cap applies to future adjustments. These ARMs are usually identified with three numbers, where the first number is the interest rate cap for the first adjustment period, the second number is the subsequent adjustment cap, and the third number is the lifetime interest rate cap.

For example - if you see a rate cap described as 3/2/6, the interest rate cannot increase more than:

- 3% at the first adjustment period
- 2% for subsequent adjustment periods through the life of the loan
- 6% total over the life of the loan

Floor Rate – the minimum an ARM loan may adjust down over the life of the loan. Many ARM loans use the start rate as the floor rate.

ARM Functions

When attempting to understand how an ARM loan works and how payments adjust, think of an ARM as a set of steps. The floor (bottom of the steps), where the ARM rate begins, is the initial rate's period of time from closing until the first adjustment period – start rate, initial rate, or teaser rate. The next number is the subsequent adjustments of the entire term of the loan, but the ARM interest rate may never exceed the start rate plus the life of loan cap.

For example - 1 year ARM loan closes with 6% start rate, 3% margin and 2/6 adjustment caps. At the first adjustment one year later, with the SOFR index at 5.375%, what will the interest rate be at time of adjustment and how long will the rate be effective?

- 1. The first calculation is to identify the fully indexed rate. The max rate may increase based on the index. The first adjustment after one year may be the current index + the margin = fully indexed rate. (5.375% SOFR index + 3% margin = 8.375% Fully index rate)
- 2. The second calculation uses the caps to identify the maximum adjustment allowed. Start rate plus the first adjustment cap. (6% start rate + 2% first & subsequent cap = 8% maximum interest rate increase for first adjustment)
- 3. The lesser of the fully indexed rate or the maximum interest rate cap for the adjustment sets the interest rate for the coming year. In this case the first adjustment cap kept the interest rate from increasing to the fully indexed rate.
- 4. For this first adjustment, the borrower's rate for the 13th through 24th month repayments will be based on amortization of 8.00%.

Use the same method for next year's interest rate adjustment. With the "stairs" method, the 1-year ARM loan coming up on a subsequent adjustment is currently at 8%. The margin is the same at 3% and adjustment caps are 2/6. For the subsequent adjustment on the second year after closing, and one year from last adjustment this is the process. We estimate the SOFR is 4.75%. Calculate the second subsequent adjustment as follows:

- The fully indexed rate. The subsequent adjustment after one year would be the current index
   + the margin = fully indexed rate. (4.75% SOFR index + 3% margin = 7.75% Fully index rate)
- 2. The second calculation uses the caps to identify the maximum adjustment allowed. Current interest rate plus the subsequent adjustment cap. (8.00% start rate + 2% subsequent cap = 10.00% maximum interest rate for this adjustment).

- 3. The lesser of the fully indexed rate or the maximum interest rate sets the interest rate for the coming year. In this scenario, the fully indexed rate is the lowest calculation.
- 4. For this adjustment, the borrower's rate for the 25th through 32nd month repayments will be based on amortization of 7.75%.
- 5. As previously stated, the loan's interest rate may never exceed the lifetime cap. Start rate + lifetime cap = highest interest rate capped.
  - a. For this scenario, 6% start rate + 6% life of loan cap = 12% max the interest rate may ever be in this scenario.

Hybrid ARM

A hybrid ARM is an ARM with an initial fixed-rate period greater than one year. That is, the loan has a fixed rate for a specific number of years, and then the interest rate adjusts regularly for the remaining term of the loan. The adjustments are set by the terms in the Note.

For example - A 3/1 hybrid ARM has an introductory rate period or teaser rate for the first three years after closing. Other longer period options include 5/1, 7/1, or 10/1 ARMs, where the fixed period is for five, seven, or ten years and the interest rate adjust annually for the remainder of the loan term.

For hybrid loans, often the longer the initial period of stable payments, the higher the first adjustment cap. The caps for a 5/1 hybrid ARM are generally 3/2/6. With this configuration, the first number is the first adjustment cap, the second is the subsequent adjustment cap and the last is the lifetime cap.

For example - 3/1 year ARM loan closes with 7.5% start rate, 2.50% margin and 3/2/6 adjustment caps. At the first adjustment three years later, with the SOFR index at 5.125%, what will the interest rate be at time of adjustment?

- The first calculation is to identify the fully indexed rate. The max the interest rate may increase based on the index. The first adjustment after three years would be the current index + the margin = fully indexed rate. (5.125% SOFR index + 2.50% margin = 7.625% Fully index rate)
- 2. The second calculation uses the caps to identify the maximum adjustment allowed. Start rate plus the first adjustment cap. (7.50% start rate + 3% first cap = 10.50% maximum interest rate for first adjustment)

3. The lesser of the fully indexed rate or the maximum interest rate sets the interest rate for the coming year. For this first adjustment, the borrower's rate for the 37th through 49th month payments will be based on amortization of 7.625% interest rate.

After the initial interest rate adjustment, the 3/2/6 caps would use the 2% for subsequent adjustment caps with the lifetime 6% cap setting the maximum interest rate allowed.

Negative Amortization Loans

Negative amortization occurs anytime the monthly payment is not sufficient to cover the accrued interest from the previous month. For negative amortization, the borrower will pay a smaller percent of interest due, than what the loan is accruing interest at.

For example - if the fully indexed interest rate being charged by the lender is 7% and the borrower is paying 5% interest payments every month as their option ARM payment, the 2% of interest not being paid every month will be added to the principal balance each month. This causes the cost of the money to increase monthly as the outstanding loan balance increases.

According to CFPB interpretations, amortization means paying off a loan with regular payments, so that the amount you owe goes down with each payment. Negative amortization means that even when you pay, the amount you owe will still go up because you are not paying enough to cover the interest. These loans require added disclosure statements.

For example - The disclosure might state, "If any of your payments are not sufficient to cover the interest due, the difference will be added to your loan amount." Loans that provide for more than one way to trigger negative amortization are separate variable-rate programs requiring separate disclosures.

If a consumer is given the option to cap monthly payments that may result in negative amortization, the creditor must fully disclose the rules relating to the option, including the effects of exercising the option (such as negative amortization will occur and the principal loan balance will increase), however, the variable rate disclosure need not be provided.

Consumers are advised to pay the interest due at a minimum to avoid negative amortization. Paying the interest only provides the principal balance does not increase, but also the loan balance does not decrease like a fully amortized payment loan would do.

These types of loans were popular in the early 2000's, but after the market crash of 2007 and subsequent changes in federal laws, these loans have limited offerings except for risk layered investor loan programs.

Conversion Option

Some ARM loan programs may allow the borrower to convert the adjustable-rate mortgage into a fixed rate mortgage without the expense of a refinance or re-qualifying for a new loan if the original Note allows for this conversion. The Note will provide a window of time called the conversion period, and the borrower must exercise their option to convert the adjustable-rate mortgage to a fixed rate mortgage during this specific conversion period. Once this period has ended, the loan will remain an ARM loan until paid in full.

According to CFPB interpretations, if a loan program permits consumers to convert their variable-rate loans to fixed-rate loans, the lender must disclose that the interest rate may increase if the consumer converts the loan to a fixed-rate loan. The lender must also disclose the rules relating to the conversion feature, such as the period during which the loan may be converted, that fees may be charged at conversion, and how the fixed rate will be determined.

The lender should identify any index or other measure, or formula used to determine the fixed rate and state any margin to be added. In disclosing the period during which the loan may be converted and the margin, the lender may use information applicable to the conversion feature during the six months preceding preparation of the disclosures and state that the information is representative of conversion features recently offered by the lender.

Consumer Handbook on Adjustable-Rate Mortgages

The Consumer Handbook on Adjustable-Rate Mortgages (CHARM Booklet) is a TILA requirement for all home loans with an adjustable-rate mortgage loan. The CHARM Booklet is provided with the application disclosures and Loan Estimate. The CHARM booklet explains the functions of the ARM loan program.

ProEducate ©All Rights Reserved Page 90 of 182

<sup>119</sup> https://files.consumerfinance.gov/f/documents/cfpb_charm_booklet.pdf

Loan Estimate for ARM Loan

When an MLO is offering an ARM loan there are more loan terms that need to be disclosed on the Loan Estimate. The following is an example of the Loan Term section provided by CFPB as an example. The Loan Terms section is on page one of the Loan Estimate.

| Loan Terms   | Can this amount increase after closing? |  |  |  |
|--|---|--|--|--|
| Loan Amount  | $216,000                               | NO   |  |  |
| Interest Rate  | 3%                                      | YES · Adjusts every year starting in year 6 · Can go as high as 8% in year 8 · See AIR Table for details |  |  |
| Monthly Principal & InterestSee Projected Payments Belowfor Your Total Monthly Payment | $910.66                                | YES · Adjusts every year starting in year 6 · Can go as high as $1,467 in year 8                        |  |  |
|  |   | Does the loan have these features?   |  |  |
| Prepayment Penalty   |   | NO   |  |  |
| Balloon Payment  |   | NO   |  |  |

Projected payments show the borrower a worst-case scenario over the life of the loan. Found on page 1 of Loan Estimate.

| Payment Calculation  | Years 1-5        | Years 6                  | Years 7                  | Years 8-30               |
|--|------------------|--------------------------|--------------------------|--------------------------|
| Principal & Interest   | $910.66         | $838 min$1,123 max | $838 min$1,350 max | $838 min$1,467 max |
| Mortgage Insurance   | + 99             | + 99                     | + 99                     | +                        |
| Estimated EscrowAmount can increase over time                            | + 341            | + 341                    | + 341                    | + 341                    |
| Estimated TotalMonthly Payment   | $1,290          | $1,217 – $1,502        | $1,217 – $1,729        | $1,179 – $1,80         |
| Estimated Taxes, Insurance& AssessmentsAmount can increase over time | $341a month |                          |                          |                          |

Adjustable Interest Rate (AIR) table section gives the details of the ARM loan terms. Found on page two of the Loan estimate. 120

ProEducate ©All Rights Reserved Page 91 of 182

<sup>120</sup> https://files.consumerfinance.gov/f/documents/cfpb_charm_booklet.pdf

| Adjustable Interest Rate (AIR) Table |                         |                       |  |  |  |
|--------------------------------------|-------------------------|-----------------------|--|--|--|
| Index + Margin                       |                         | 1 Year Cmt + 2.5%     |  |  |  |
| Initial Interest Rate                |                         | 3%                    |  |  |  |
| Minimum/Maximum Interest Rate        |                         | 2.5% / 8%             |  |  |  |
| Change Frequency                     |                         |                       |  |  |  |
| First Change                         | Beginning of 61st month |                       |  |  |  |
| Subsequent Changes                   | Every 12 month          | hs after first change |  |  |  |
| Limits on Interest Rate              | Changes                 |                       |  |  |  |
| First Change                         |                         | 2%                    |  |  |  |
| Subsequent Changes                   |                         | 2%                    |  |  |  |

Collateral/Portfolio Loans

Commercial 'hard money,' portfolio lenders, or collateral lenders have been around since the first borrower used their homestead as collateral for a loan. Portfolio lending allows the individual with the money (investor) to determine the guidelines for the loan risk they are willing to take given the borrower's credit worthiness and property soundness to support the evaluation. The investor may then set the interest rate they will accept for the file risk. There are state usuary laws that can limit some loans depending, but many hard money lenders are reasonable as they want repeat business and referrals along with their high rates of return.

Private money lenders are mortgage brokers that will lend their own personal funds, or pooled investors funds. These investors set their guidelines and will ask for high-interest rates and points charged at closing to ensure their return on investment is worth funding the borrower's loan. These types of loans are not sellable on the normal secondary mortgage market but are retained and serviced by the funding investor.

Private money is generally a short-term loan and fixes a borrower's current need or issue. It is important MLOs provide the borrower with an exit plan to pay off the high-rate private money loan in the future and obtain a more affordable conforming home loan.

Seller Financing

Seller Financing is similar but should not be confused with collateral lending. Seller financing is an individual with sufficient equity in their property that they want to defer the tax burden or earn interest on the equity they use to lend to the purchaser.

Not all mortgage loan programs will allow seller financing. Check your guidelines for LTV and CLTV limits.

The use of scam seller financing has been used as a fraud scheme for decades. The seller forgives the seller financing or second mortgage after closing because the property was never worth the purchase price. The creditor is then sitting with a 100%+ LTV loan in their portfolio. Any home loan requests with seller financing will have extra scrutiny to ensure the transaction is arms-length.

Rehabilitation Loans

Eligible Property Types

- Single family homes
- Single family homes with eligible accessory dwelling units (ADUs)
- Two-to-four family units
- Townhomes
- Manufactured homes titled as real estate, where the rehabilitation does not affect the structural components
- Eligible condominium units and site condo units (improvements are limited to the unit's interior)
- HUD Homes/Real-Estate Owned properties (no additional FHA appraisal required with FHA home financing)
- Mixed use properties that are primarily residential (at least 51%)

FHA 203(k) Rehabilitation Mortgage Insurance Program

Section 203(k) insures mortgages covering the purchase or refinancing and rehabilitation of a home that is at least a year old. A portion of the loan proceeds are used to pay the seller, or if a refinance, to pay off the existing mortgage. The remaining funds are placed in an escrow account and released when the rehabilitation is completed.

Section 203(k) offers:

- a solution that helps both borrowers and lenders, insuring a single, long term, fixed or adjustable-rate loan that covers the acquisition and rehabilitation of a property.
- affordability and flexibility of FHA-insured financing.
- the lender protection by allowing them to have the loan insured prior to completion of rehabilitation, even before the condition and value of the property may offer adequate security.

• the lender the opportunity to help address climate change by insuring the financing of costeffective energy efficient improvements.

Why Use 203(k) Program

Homebuyers may face a complicated and costly process or be excluded from certain loan programs to rehabilitate or make property improvements. The 203(k) Program may be a great option for a homeowner who wants to stay in their current home and wants or needs to make improvements.

Borrowers can obtain funds needed to purchase or refinance and renovate based on the appraised value once the proposed improvement is completed. Other home improvement loans often have high interest rates, short repayment terms, or balloon payments.

However, the 203(k) Program offers a solution that helps borrowers by insuring a single, long-term, fixed, or adjustable-rate loan that covers both the acquisition and rehabilitation of a property.

It saves time by combining both the purchase or refinance, with fund for rehabilitation of a property into a single loan instead of typical construction lending with two separate loans. The program saves money with its 3.5% low-down payment, like all FHA-insured mortgages. Also, the rates may be lower than other forms of financing, such as a home equity line of credit or credit cards.

Types of FHA Programs

Standard 203K for major rehabilitation or repairs, and the streamlined/limited 203k for less expensive repairs and updates.

Limited 203(k) Mortgage

- Permits homebuyers and homeowners to finance up to $35,000 into their mortgage to repair, improve, or upgrade their home.
- Homebuyers and homeowners can quickly and easily tap into cash to pay for property repairs or improvements, such as those identified by a home inspector or an FHA appraiser.
- Homeowners can make minor remodeling and non-structural repairs, improvements, or prepare their home for sale.
- Homebuyers can make their new home move-in ready by remodeling the kitchen, painting the interior, or purchasing new carpet.
- FHA-approved 203(k) Consultant is optional for Limited 203(k)
- No minimum amount of repairs required.

This type of rehabilitation loan is the most commonly one used because of the ease of use, and limited repairs needed on the property. When your homebuyer wants to purchase a home and the property inspection or appraiser requires repairs, the homebuyer may include the cost of those repairs in their purchase of the home. The home is appraised with the after-improvement value to help increase the loan amount to cover the costs. The improvements can be as extensive as remodeling a kitchen or as little as replacing an air conditioner. The improvements and repairs must stay under the $35,000 FHA improvement limit.

Streamline 203k program may be used for less extensive repairs that are non-structural in nature like minor remodeling, home improvements, energy efficient improvements, new appliances, or replacing dated carpeting.<sup>121</sup>

Standard 203(k) Mortgage

- The Standard 203(k) program is for major rehabilitation and repair of single-family property.
- The cost of the rehabilitation must be at least $5,000 but the total value of the property must still fall within the FHA mortgage limit for the area.
- The Standard 203(k) program is an important tool for major renovations, structural additions, community, and neighborhood revitalization, as well as to expand homeownership opportunities.<sup>122</sup>
- FHA-approved 203(k) Consultant is required

This rehabilitation program is for major remodeling or rehabilitation of a property. It can take a condemned property and provide the funds to bring it back to a livable space for a family. It can also add a bedroom onto a home that a couple has outgrown. With current unaffordable home prices, it may make more sense if the borrower expands their house footprint to be what they want. There is no limit on the amount of improvements or rehabilitation, provided the loan amount stays within the allowable loan limits for the area and the property appraises to support the rehab.

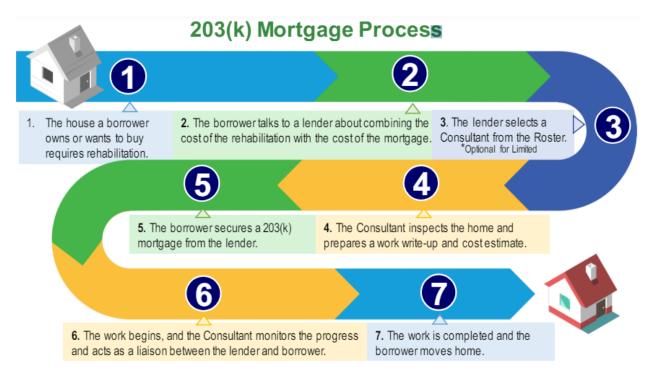

The 203(k) Program requires all building permits be obtained prior to commencement of work and posted onsite for the work being performed.

 $<sup>^{121}\</sup> https://www.hud.gov/sites/dfiles/SFH/documents/MO_FS_203(k)_Consumer.pdf$

<sup>122</sup> https://www.hud.gov/program offices/housing/sfh/203k

It is important to understand that with rehabilitation programs, the loan closes and the rehabilitation funds go into an escrow account to be disbursed in phases as the home is completed. The lender, MLO and realtor all get paid at closing, so there is no waiting for the home to be completed to get paid. A definite benefit to a realtor. An MLO can also work in revitalization areas to help improve the neighborhood. Churches and other local non-profits are good to partner with for these type of targeted rehab loans promotions.

Stages in the Process

Origination Stage

- 1. The borrower owns or finds a property that requires rehabilitation.
- 2. Borrower talks to an FHA-approved lender and selects FHA 203(k) program.
- 3. Lender selects a 203(k) HUD-approved consultant from the roster. This step is optional for the Limited 203(k) Mortgage.
- 4. Consultant visits the home with borrower and prepares a work write-up and cost estimate.
- 5. Work write-up and bids are provided to the lender. This document goes to the appraiser for consideration of the after-value of the property.
- 6. Lender processes, underwrites, closes, and funds the transaction.
- 7. The lender submits the loan for endorsement and FHA insures the loan.
- 8. Improvements can begin.

Repair/Improvements Stage

- 1. The contractor obtains the necessary permits prior to the start of the project.
- 2. Contractor completes the first phase of the project.
- 3. Borrower contacts the 203(k) consultant to request an inspection for draw release.
- 4. Consultant and borrower inspect the work and consultant certifies work is satisfactory.
- 5. Consultant and borrower sign the draw release and submit to lender for payment.
- 6. Lender issues a two-party check made payable to borrower and contractor.
- 7. This process continues until all work is completed.

Project Completion Stage

- 1. The borrower provides a release letter indicating all work is completed.
- 2. Consultant verifies completion.
- 3. Consultant obtains certificate of occupancy or building permit close-out approval if applicable.
- 4. Remaining escrow funds are released. If all funds are not used for improvements, the balance is applied to the outstanding principal balance.
- 5. Lender is responsible for closing out the entire project on the Escrow Close-Out Screen in FHA Connection.
- 6. 203k provides a maximum of one year to complete the project.

Role of an FHA-Approved 203(k) Consultant

The Consultant plays a guiding role throughout the rehabilitation process, acting as the liaison between the homeowner, contractor(s), and lender. The Consultant inspects the property and prepares a feasibility study, architectural exhibits, work write-ups, cost estimates, draw request inspections, and change orders; and ensures that all work is performed in compliance with FHA requirements. Any Consultant who performs work on a 203(k) project must be listed on the FHA-approved 203(k) Consultant Roster.

203(k) Consultant's Responsibilities Before Loan Closing

Property Inspection and Permits

The Consultant's first task is to personally perform an on-site property inspection, using FHA's 35-Point Checklist, listed in Handbook 4000.1, Section II.A.9.e.

The Consultant must:

- Address any deficiencies that exist
- Certify the condition of all major systems, health and safety issues, and pests
- Determine any repairs or improvements required to meet HUD's Minimum Property Requirements (MPR) or Minimum Property Standards (MPS) and local requirements
- Ensure all required building permits are obtained before the commencement of work are posted on-site for the work performed

Optional Feasibility Study

If the homebuyer is unsure of the repairs the home will need and their costs, the 203(k) Consultant can complete an optional feasibility study (for a fee) to identify the FHA-required repairs. When the borrower or lender requests to determine if the 203(k) project is financially feasible, the Consultant must prepare a feasibility study. This provides some protection the improvements will be supported in the property's valuation. A borrower may pay additional costs out of pocket if they choose to do so.

Work Write-Up and Cost Estimate

The Consultant must prepare and review the necessary architectural exhibits. If not qualified to prepare them, the Consultant must obtain the architectural exhibits from a qualified subcontractor.

For example - septic certifications, termite reports, foundation certifications, and engineering reports.

Based on this information, the Consultant must prepare a work write-up that addresses any of the work items on the 35-Point Checklist and those on the homeowner's project proposal. On the work write-up, each work item must have a reasonable cost estimate for the area in which the property is located and separately identifies the labor costs and itemized cost of materials. The work write-up and cost estimate must include the work being performed per the project proposal. Health and safety issues must be addressed before any other work items.<sup>123</sup>

203(k) Consultant's Responsibilities After the Mortgage Closes

123 https://www.hud.gov/sites/dfiles/SFH/documents/MO 203k CnsltRole FS.pdf

At mortgage closing, the lender escrows (holds back) the funds designated for rehabilitation. After the escrow is established, the Consultant:

- Reviews the lender request for a draw of funds and must inspect the work for completion and quality of workmanship to ensure the work has been satisfactorily completed in compliance with all codes and ordinances.
- Keeps the lender informed of the progress of the rehabilitation, including any issues that may affect project eligibility, the health, and safety of the homeowner, or work stoppage.
- Reviews any proposed changes and prepares a change order for the lender to approve if changes to the work write-up are requested.

Benefits of Combining the 203K with FHA Energy and Disaster Programs

There are other loan programs offered by FHA that can benefit a borrower when the home they are purchasing needs improvements or repairs. The following FHA home loan programs do not have to be included with the 203k programs.

- Energy Efficient Mortgages (EEM), which offers financing of energy efficient improvements with an FHA-insured mortgage. Benefits include cost-effective energy efficient improvements that may lower utility bills and help homeowners save money. Improvements may qualify for Federal, state, and local tax credits.
  - The financed portion of an Energy Package must be cost-effective. Improvements are cost-effective when the cost of making them is equal to or less than the money saved on energy from those improvements. FHA has a cost-effective test for existing homes and newly constructed homes. The program also requires a Home Energy Assessment.
  - The maximum amount of the energy package that can be added to the borrower's regular FHA loan amount is the lesser of:
    - A cost-effective improvements to be made (energy package) based on the home energy assessment; or
    - the lesser of 5 percent of:
      - the Adjusted Value
      - 115 percent of the median area price of a Single-Family dwelling; or
      - 150 percent of the national conforming mortgage limit.

- An FHA-approved lender can access FHA's EEM Calculator to determine the dollar maximum amount a borrower can finance for energy improvements.<sup>124</sup>
- Solar and Wind Technologies program, which offers financing of a new solar energy system with an FHA-insured mortgage at the time of purchase or refinance. Benefits include a reduction in the amount of electricity the consumer buys from their utility provider and the payment on the energy system is spread out over the mortgage term. Improvements may qualify for federal, state, and local tax credits.
  - The full cost of a new solar photovoltaic (PV) array can be added to a regular FHAinsured mortgage at the time of the home purchase or refinance. Installation of the PV system takes place after closing.
  - The solar system must be owned by the borrower and not leased.
  - The amount financed for the new system must not exceed 20% of the property's appraised value.
  - Energy system must be new and not existing.<sup>125</sup>
- 203(h) Mortgage Insurance for Disaster Victims, which offers financing for the purchase or reconstruction of a single-family property to victims of a Presidentially Declared Major Disaster Area (PDMDA), if obtained within one year of declaration. One of the benefits is that the borrower is not required to make a Minimum Required Investment (MRI), that equates to 100 percent financing.
  - Insured mortgages may be used to finance the purchase or reconstruction of a one-unit family home that will be the principal residence of the homeowner.
  - Home was destroyed or damaged to such an extent that reconstruction or replacement is necessary.
  - No down payment required, eligible for 100% financing. Closing costs and prepaid expenses must be paid by the borrower or paid through premium pricing or by the 6% seller concession limits.<sup>126</sup>

<sup>124</sup> https://www.hud.gov/program_offices/housing/sfh/eem/energy-

r#:~:text=The%20energy%20package%20is%20the,passive%20solar%20and%20wind%20technologies.

<sup>125</sup> https://www.hud.gov/sites/documents/SOLAR-WIND.PDF

<sup>126</sup> https://www.hud.gov/program offices/housing/sfh/ins/203h-dft

PACE Loan

Property Assessed Clean Energy Program (PACE) is an innovative mechanism for financing Energy Efficient and renewable energy improvements on private property. A PACE loan gives homeowners a way to borrow money for home improvements by increasing their property tax payment.<sup>127</sup>

The U.S. government does not pay for or insure PACE loans. PACE lending programs are approved by some states and are run by local government, or a private company hired by the local government.

The homeowner pays PACE loans by an additional assessment that is collected with their property taxes. While the consumer may not have to put cash down to pay for these upgrades, they will be required to pay the fees later with their property tax bill. Like a traditional property tax lien, they may lose their home if they don't make the payments. As with any form of financing, consumers should consider the costs and benefits of PACE loans before signing the contract.

Homeowners must make payments for PACE loans through their property taxes which makes their property tax bill go up. For some homeowners, the increase can be large. This could put the homeowner at risk of losing your home through a tax sale. Some other risks include:

- Unaffordable payments
- Limited means to dispute the work or costs once the consumer signs up
- Trouble selling or refinancing the home
- Loss of home equity<sup>128</sup>

Unaffordable Payments

The homeowner pays the PACE loan back plus interest and fees with their property taxes each year until it is paid off. They may have to repay the PACE loan for five, 10, or 20 years. This can lead to high assessments added to their property tax bill. Homeowners should pay attention to how long the PACE loan will last as it may be longer or shorter than other types of loans, which can affect the size of the payments.

ProEducate ©All Rights Reserved Page 101 of 182

<sup>127</sup> https://www.consumerfinance.gov/ask-cfpb/what-is-a-pace-loan-en-1979/

&lt;sup>128</sup> https://www.consumerfinance.gov/ask-cfpb/i-am-considering-a-pace-loan-for-home-improvements-what-should-i-keep-in-mind-before-signing-up-en-2128/

If the homeowner has a mortgage, the mortgage company will treat PACE loans like property taxes, because PACE payment is billed as part of the property tax payment. If the homeowner's home goes to tax sale, any portion of the outstanding PACE loan that is delinquent will be paid before the mortgage company will be paid anything. If the homeowner has an existing mortgage escrow account that collects the tax and insurance payments, most mortgage servicers will add the PACE payments into the mortgage escrow, to make sure that they are paid timely. This would cause the homeowners mortgage payments to rise. Most lenders will not refinance a mortgage or give homeowners a new mortgage if they have an outstanding PACE loan. MLOs should ask all refinance borrowers if they have acquired a PACE loan to ensure their payoff and underwriter guidelines will be met.

If the homeowner does not have an escrow account to collect property tax payments, homeowners will need to save up to make PACE payments along with their property taxes.

If the homeowner does not have a mortgage loan that collects their property tax payments, the homeowner may have to work with the local taxing authority if they fall behind. They may not be able to help beyond offering the homeowner a short-term payment plan, which may not be affordable.

Salespeople may tell the homeowner, but are not required to prove, that the proposed improvements "pay for themselves" in lower utility payments or other rebates. For some projects funded through PACE, these statements may not be true.

Limited Means to Dispute the Work or Costs

Because the homeowner pays PACE loans back with the property taxes, homeowners have limited options when they are not satisfied with the work, wish to dispute the charges, or cannot afford the payments.

Trouble Selling or Refinancing the Home

If the homeowner wants to sell their home before the PACE loan is paid off, they might face challenges completing the sale. When they sell a house, the buyer is responsible for continuing the PACE payments. Any buyer will face the same risks of losing the home if the payments are not made. That may make the home more expensive than buying another home without a PACE loan. Most lenders will not make a mortgage to the buyer when there is a PACE loan on the house.

In addition, most lenders will not refinance a mortgage if there is a PACE loan on the house. This may limit the number of buyers who will be willing to purchase a home if the homeowner cannot afford to pay the PACE loan off.

Loss of Home Equity

If the homeowner's home goes to tax sale, the tax authority will collect any unpaid taxes and any delinquent PACE payments, along with any penalties. This can take a large chunk of any equity in the home. Which means there will be less for the homeowner to use on other expenses.

For example - If the homeowner is planning to use that equity to pay the costs of moving out of the home, or for retirement.<sup>129</sup>

Conventional Rehab Loan

With a conventional rehab loan, the homeowner can finance both the purchase of a new home and the cost of renovations with a single mortgage product. This means the homeowner will not have to take out a second mortgage or pay for costly home improvement projects out of pocket. The funds are provided through private lenders and banks and can be used to pay for cosmetic and structural upgrades.

Here is what to expect with a conventional rehab loan:

Step 1: Apply for a loan product. If borrower is pre-approved, the lender will notify the borrower of the loan terms, including the required down payment.

Step 2: Retrieve contractor plans for the renovation project and submit them to the lender for approval.

Step 3: If the plans are approved, the lender sends an appraiser to assign an after-repair value (that considers the contractor's plans).

Step 4: Close on the home and commence renovations. They should be completed within six months, but some lenders permit the contract to spend up to a year on approved projects.

ProEducate ©All Rights Reserved Page 103 of 182

&lt;sup>129</sup> https://www.consumerfinance.gov/ask-cfpb/i-am-considering-a-pace-loan-for-home-improvements-what-should-i-keep-in-mind-before-signing-up-en-2128/

Types of Conventional Rehab Loans

Homebuyers can choose from two types of conventional rehab loans.

Fannie Mae Home Style Renovation Loan

The Fannie Mae Home Style Renovation Loan can be used to cover upgrade costs on a home the borrower owns or plans to buy. It is limited to 95% of the homes' after-renovation value. The loan comes with an adjustable or fixed interest rate that is typically lower than what they will get with a home equity loan or line of credit. The program is a 15- or 30-year loan term.

Instead of taking out two separate loans, the loan rolls the purchase price and renovation costs into a single mortgage product. That means the borrower only pays closing costs once, and they will have a single monthly housing payment. However, if the borrower has an existing mortgage, they will have to pay it off with this loan, which means the homeowner could end up with a higher mortgage interest rate and payment.

Loans are capped at $766,550 in most markets for single-family properties. However, they could borrow as much as $1,149,825 if the property is in a pricier high-priced real estate markets.

Note, upgrades on manufactured homes are limited to $50,000 or 50% of the anticipated property value after renovations are complete.

This loan program can be used to complete most home upgrades and temporary living expenses during construction within six to 12 months of the closing date. However, borrowers are prohibited from building a second property, making temporary improvements, or demolishing the property with the loan proceeds.<sup>130</sup>

Freddie Mac CHOICE Renovation

The Freddie Mac CHOICE Renovation loan covers renovation costs on owner occupied, investment properties, second homes and multi-unit properties. It allows the homeowner to borrow up to 95% of the home's after-renovation value.

130 https://www.banks.com/articles/loans/home-improvement/conventional-rehab-loan/

The homeowner may use the loan proceeds for rehab on a property they are purchasing or already own. An existing property would be considered a refinance requiring the borrower to refinance their existing mortgage which could be at a higher interest rate than they currently have.

The upside is this loan product is it is more flexible than the Fannie Mae Home Style Renovation Loan. The homeowner can use the funds to make most upgrades, and you can cover the costs of renovations that will shield the property from sustaining severe damage if a natural disaster strikes. The cost of repairs for damage caused by natural disasters is also covered.

Loan terms of 15 or 30 years are available. The owner-occupied homeowner will need at least 3.5% down, a credit score of 660, and the debt-to-income ratio should not exceed 43 percent. If the homeowner is planning to complete the renovations before closing, they may be eligible for a down payment credit if they finish the improvement job before closing.<sup>131</sup>

Difference Between a Conventional Loan and a Rehab Loan

A conventional loan is a standard mortgage that is not insured or backed by a government agency. These loans are offered by private lenders and usually require a down payment of around 5% to 20% of the home's value. The terms and requirements for conventional loans can vary depending on the lender, but they have stricter qualifying guidelines than government insured loans.

But a rehab loan is a specialized mortgage that allows the homeowner to finance not only the purchase of a home but also its renovation costs using a single loan.

Advantages of Conventional Rehab Loans

Flexibility of Financing

Conventional rehab loans offer a great deal of flexibility in financing home improvement projects. With these loans, the homeowner can finance both the purchase of a new home and the cost of necessary renovations in a single mortgage product.

This means the homeowner will not need to take out a second mortgage or pay out of pocket for costly renovations. Furthermore, conventional rehab loans are not governed by the same strict rules as government-backed loans, offering them more options and potentially less paperwork.

<sup>131</sup> https://www.banks.com/articles/loans/home-improvement/conventional-rehab-loan/

Potential for Property Appreciation

Investing in a fixer-upper with a conventional rehab loan could lead to a significant increase in the property's value because of the improvements made. Since the loan covers both the purchase and renovation costs, the homeowner has the opportunity to transform a distressed property into a valuable asset. As property values rise in the neighborhood, the newly renovated home may appreciate value even more, making it a profitable long-term investment.

Lower Home Ownership Costs

By using a conventional rehab loan for a homeowner's fixer-upper, they can potentially save money on overall homeownership costs.

For example – they might be able to:

- Purchase the property at a lower price: Fixer-uppers are often priced lower than their renovated counterparts, giving homebuyers a chance to buy a property at an affordable price.
- Minimize additional loan expenses: With a single loan instead of multiple loans to finance the purchase and renovation, the homebuyer can avoid multiple closing costs, loan fees, and appraisals.
- Reduce ongoing maintenance costs: By renovating the home upfront with loan funds, the homebuyer can address potential maintenance issues and prevent the need for costly repairs down the line.

Disadvantages of Conventional Rehab Loans

As with any mortgage product, there are also downsides to consider.

- Stricter eligibility guidelines: Conventional rehab loans often have stricter qualification requirements compared to other renovation loan programs, such as FHA 203(k) loans. This means the homebuyer needs a good credit score and stable income to be eligible for a conventional rehab loan. Furthermore, the homebuyer might be required to make a larger down payment than other loan options, which could affect their budget.
- Limited loan amounts: These loans have a cap on the amount of money you can borrow, which may not cover all the desired renovations. Therefore, the homebuyer may need to scale back their plans or find alternative financing options for larger projects.
- More challenging renovation process: Managing the renovation process can be more challenging with a conventional rehab loan. The homeowner will need to collaborate closely with their contractor to create detailed plans and ensure the work is completed on time and within budget. Some lenders may also require them to work with specific contractors, limiting borrower choices.

Understanding the Loan Process

Qualifying for Conventional Rehab Loans

The homebuyer qualifies for a conventional rehab loan if it meets the criteria below:

- Have good or excellent credit
- Have a down payment of at least five percent
- Have an acceptable debt-to-income ratio

Note - Some lenders require up to 20% down. Even if they qualify for a lower down payment, any amount below 20% requires private mortgage insurance. Also, know that poor credit does not necessarily disqualify a borrower for a loan, but they will need an excellent explanation to convince the lender they are a good candidate for funding.

The Expenses Involved in Rehab Loans

Conventional rehab loans come with several expenses that you should be aware of:

- Down payment: Conventional rehab loans typically require a down payment ranging from 5% to 20% of the total loan amount.
- Closing costs: These may include loan origination fees, appraisal fees, and other expenses related to processing the loan.
- Interest rates: The interest rates for these loans vary based on the borrower's credit rating, loan amount, and other factors.
- Rehabilitation expenses: Homebuyers need to account for the costs involved in renovating the property. As mentioned above, a single mortgage product covers both the purchase and renovation costs.

Alternative to Conventional Rehab Loans

Home equity loans and HELOCs (Home Equity Lines of Credit) are an attractive financing option for many homeowners looking to use their home's equity to make purchases, pay off debt, or finance a renovation. Home equity loans provide borrowers with a lump sum of money that is repaid over a predetermined period at a fixed interest rate. A HELOC works similarly but instead provides a line of

&lt;sup>132</sup> https://www.banks.com/articles/loans/home-improvement/conventional-rehab-loan/

Module 4 – South Carolina State Content

South Carolina Department of Consumer Affairs and South Carolina Board of Financial Institutions

OVERVIEW

In this lesson students will learn about the South Carolina Department of Consumer Affairs, the South Carolina State Board of Financial Institutions, as well as some of the laws and regulation definitions pertaining to mortgage lending. Students will have an understanding of the importance of and be well versed in the responsibilities, limitations, and structure of both the South Carolina Department of Consumer Affairs and the South Carolina State Board of Financial Institutions. Additionally, students will become familiar with some of the more important laws and regulation definitions relating to mortgage lending in South Carolina, including the South Carolina Mortgage Lending Act and the High Cost Consumer Protection Code, as well as provision in Chapter 3 and Chapter 10 of Title 37 in the South Carolina Code of Law.

Learning Objectives

After reviewing this lesson, students should:

- Be able to discuss the authority, structure, and responsibilities of the South Carolina Department of Consumer Affairs and the South Carolina State Board of Financial Institutions
- Understand different definitions included in the state laws and regulations
- Know some of South Carolina Laws and Regulations as they pertain to mortgage loan originators

South Carolina Department of Consumer Affairs

There are two very important regulatory offices in South Carolina that, among other things, pertain to mortgage lending and licensing; the South Carolina Department of Consumer Affairs and the South Carolina State Board of Financial Institutions. We will first start by discussing the South Carolina Department of Consumer affairs and later move on to discussing the South Carolina State Board of Financial Institutions.

In 1974, the South Carolina Consumer Protection Code [Title 37] established the South Carolina Department of Consumer Affairs (SCDCA or Department for short). The Department of Consumer Affairs is meant to administer and enforce the Consumer Protection Code. As South Carolina's consumer protection agency, the Department is also entrusted to enforce Title 37 as well as other regulatory statutes. The Department's goal is to protect consumers in South Carolina.

The South Carolina Department of Consumer Affairs website, http://www.consumer.sc.gov/, has a lot of useful information regarding its purpose, structure, and responsibilities. We will go over some of this information below.

The South Carolina Department of Consumer Affairs helps:

- Formulate and modify consumer laws, policies and regulations
- Regulate the consumer credit marketplace
- Resolve complaints arising out of the production, promotion, and sale of consumer goods and services in the state (whether or not credit is involved)
- Promote a healthy competitive business climate with mutual confidence between buyers and sellers.

The Consumer Protection Code authorizes the South Carolina Department of Consumer Affairs to do the following:

- Analyze and mediate individual complaints
- Investigate business practices if a pattern of fraud is suspected
- Inform about complaints filed against a business
- Educate consumers about unfair and deceptive practices
- Take legal action to prevent persons from violating the Code and prohibit unconscionable conduct.

However, the Consumer Protection Code does not authorize the Department to:

- Advise a consumer of whether a particular business is reputable
- Recommend a company with which a consumer should do business
- Handle complaints against a state agency

In order for the Department to do what the Code has authorized it to do, it has had to be structured in a specific way. The Commission on Consumer Affairs governs the South Carolina Department of Consumer Affairs as well as appoints the Administrator and the Department itself is structured into six different parts, each with different and specific responsibilities:

- Administration This division includes:
  - The resources necessary to support the operation of the Department.
  - The appointed person who is the Administrator. The Administrator runs the daily operations of the Department and is entrusted with advising the legislature and Governor on consumer issues and the state of credit in South Carolina.
  - o Procurement, human resources, accounting and information technology.

Consumer Services

- The consumer services division handles consumer complaints that are made regarding the businesses that are regulated by the Department as well as complaints that are unregulated. Complaints against businesses that are not regulated by the Department are referred to the appropriate jurisdiction.
- The division's mediation process helps alleviate the courts' workload and saves consumers and businesses money as going through the courts usually entails a larger cost.

Consumer Advocacy

- The consumer advocacy division specifically deals with the insurance interests of consumers. To do so, the division reviews insurance rate requests that are filed with the Department of Insurance with the goal of generating savings for both consumers and businesses.
- The division has regulatory responsibility over various different organizations as denoted in many acts:
  - Continuing Care Retirement Communities (Act 97 of 1989),
  - Discount Medical Plan Organizations (Act 377 of 2006),
  - Professional Employer Organizations (Act 169 of 1933), and
  - The regulation of the sale of cosmetic contact lens without a prescription from an authorized dispenser.

• Public Information and Education

- The public information and education division's sole purpose is to provide the consumer, businesses and media with education and educational resources. This division provides information on consumer rights and responsibilities and provides presentations, webinars, and other resources helpful to the consumer.
- A few of the helpful webinar topics covered by the division and available to consumers include webinars on:
  - Identity theft
  - Debt collection
  - Foreclosures
  - Credit
- The division also takes calls from consumers regarding consumer scams and laws and provides press releases and consumer education brochures.

Identity Theft Unit

- The identity theft division handles the administration and enforcement of the South Carolina's Financial Identity Fraud and identity Theft Protection Act as well as other state acts pertaining to identity theft and the protection of consumers.
- The identity theft division also provides education and outreach for consumers.
   However, the division's main focus is on identity theft.
- The division also provides warnings to the public regarding new scams.
- Additionally, the division provides step-by-step guidance on what to do if a consumer is a victim of identity theft.

Legal Division

- The legal division administers and enforces the law governing consumer credit transactions.
- The legal division also has regulatory responsibility over other industries:
  - Motor Clubs (Act 400 of 1984),
  - Rent-to-own businesses (Act 121 of 1985),
  - Physical Fitness Services (Act 165 of 1985),

- Pawnbrokers (Act 491 of 1988),
- Mortgage Loan Brokers (Act 544 of 1988),
- Telephone Solicitations (Act 656 of 1988),
- Express Warranties on Motor Vehicles (Act 142 of 1989),
- Athlete Agents (Act 456 of 1990; Act No. 300 of 2004),
- Motor Vehicle Subleasing (Act 131 of 1991),
- Loan Brokers (Act 452 of 1992),
- Motor Fuel Pricing (Act 161 of 1993),
- Prize Promotions (Act 483 of 1994),
- Prepaid Legal Services (Act 328 of 2000),
- Consumer Credit Counseling (Act 111 of 2005)
- The division also provides consumer law guidance to the financial industry, magistrates, attorneys, and law enforcement agencies, and serves as the legal counsel for the Board of Financial Institution's Consumer Finance Division, of which we will discuss later on in this lesson.

As you can see, the South Carolina Department of Consumer Affairs has many responsibilities and handles various different aspects pertaining to the financial sector in an effort to protect South Carolina's consumers. Another important regulatory office is that of the South Carolina State Board of Financial Institutions. We will review its responsibilities and structure next.

South Carolina State Board of Financial Institutions

The South Carolina State Board of Financial Institutions (the Board) is another important office in South Carolina pertaining to consumer protection. According to their website, the South Carolina Board of Financial Institutions' mission is to serve the people of South Carolina by preserving a sound financial community and protecting the borrowing public by ensuring that the state banking and consumer finance laws and regulations are followed. The State Board is responsible for the supervision, licensing, and examination of:

- All State chartered banks
- Savings and loans associations

- Savings banks
- Credit unions
- Trust companies
- Development corporations
- Consumer finance companies
- Deferred presentment companies
- Check cashing companies

Title 34 of South Carolina's Code of Laws establishes the South Carolina State Board of Financial Institutions. Title 34 Section 34-1-20 details the structure of the Board.

- The Board is composed of eleven members.
- Members of the Board cannot serve more than two consecutive four-year terms.
- The code denotes requirements that must be met in order to be appointed to the board:
  - One of the members is the State Treasurer who also is the chairman of the Board.
  - The rest of the members of the Board are appointed by the Governor with the advice and consent of the Senate.
  - Four of the members must be involved in banking and recommended by the South Carolina Bankers Association.
  - One of the members must be recommended by the association of supervised lenders.
  - One of the members must be engaged in the mortgage lending business and recommended by the Mortgage Banker Associations of the Carolinas.
  - One of the members must be engaged in the licensed consumer finance business as a restricted lender or a supervised lender and recommended by the Independent Consumer Finance Association.
  - Two of the members must be engaged in the cooperative credit union business and recommended by the State Cooperative Credit Union League.
  - One of the members must not be affiliated with a financial organization and serve as a representative of the consumers in the South Carolina.

Title 34, Chapter 1, entitled State Board of Financial Institutions, refers to the Board and states that it has the power to supervise all banks and building and loan associations and provide regulations and instructions for the direction, control and protection of all such institutions, the conservation of their assets and the liquidation thereof [§34-1-60].

Additionally, no bank, building and loan association, savings and loan association or savings bank can be granted a charter of be established without the written approval of the Board [§34-1-70].

If a bank, building and loan association, savings and loan association, or savings bank wants to become established, it is up to the Board to commence an investigation and determine whether the applicant is qualified to operate the institution, has complied with the law, and whether they would serve the public interest. Furthermore, the Board must conduct an annual study regarding the capital reserve position of all financial institutions and intermediaries subject to its supervision and report its findings to the General Assembly. The Board must include any recommended legislation within the report to the General Assembly [§34-1-130].

Title 34 also denotes that the Board must have an examining department. The Board must appoint a Commissioner of Banking that will be in charge of the examining department. It is the Commissioner of Banking that reports criminal violations to the Board [§34-1-90].

If anyone is deemed guilty of obstructing the Commissioner of Banking or his assistants, he or she will be subject to imprisonment for no more than one year, or fined no more than one thousand dollars, or both, in the discretion of the court [§34-1-120].

It is the South Carolina State Board of Financial Institutions that legally permits mortgage lenders and loan originators operating pursuant to a license to make mortgage loans, to engage in a mortgage lending activity authorized for licensed mortgage lender and loan originators by law or by regulation of an agency given supervisory authority over those institutions [§34-1-110 (A)(5)].

In fact, the Board is given a lot of legal power to permit various financing related activity. The Board, by law, may permit all of the following:  $[\S34-1-110 \ (A)(1)(2)(3)(4)(5)(B)]$

 State-chartered banks to engage in any activity authorized for national banks and by federal law or regulation of the Comptroller of the Currency or for state-chartered savings and loan associations by this title [34] or regulation or operational instruction of the State Board of Financial Institutions

- State-chartered savings and loan associations to engage in any activity authorized by federally chartered savings and loan associations by federal law or regulation of the Office of Thrift Supervisions or for the state-chartered banks by this title [34] or regulation or operational instruction of the State Board of Financial Institutions
- Cooperative credit unions to engage in any activity authorized for federally chartered credit unions by federal law or by regulation of the National Credit Union Administration
- Consumer finance companies operating pursuant to a license to make supervised loans as provided in Part 5, Chapter 3, Title 37, to engage in any lending activity authorized for supervised financial organizations by law or by regulation of any agency given supervisory authority over those institutions, except where otherwise restricted by statute
- The Board permits mortgage lenders and loan originators operating pursuant to a license to make mortgage loans as provided in Chapter 22, Title 37, to engage in a mortgage lending activity authorized for licensed mortgage lenders and loan originators by law or an agency given supervisory authority over those institutions, except where otherwise restricted by statute.

As you can see, the South Carolina State Board of Financial Institutions is entrusted with a lot of responsibility. In order to oversee and complete all that the Board is responsible for, the Board is efficiently divided into two parts. The Boards website (www.bofi.sc.gov) summarizes the division as follows:

- The Banking Division supervises and regulates State chartered banks, trust companies, savings banks, and credit unions.
- The Consumer Finance Division is responsible for regulating licensing and compliance examination for non-depository consumer lending, deferred presentments services, check cashing, mortgage lending, mortgage servicing and all of their employees doing loan originating or loan modification activity.
  - The following must be licensed by the Consumer Finance Division:
    - Consumer loans made by non-bank/depository institutions with interest rates exceeding 12% APR
    - A person engaging in the business of deferred resentment services (payday lending)

- Non-depository entities performing check cashing activities where fees are charged or other consideration is made
- Mortgage lending or servicing by non-depository entities
- Subsidiaries of depository institutions that are not entirely owned and regulated by one of the federal banking agencies
- Loan originators employed by licensed lenders/servicers

The Board, just as the Department, plays a large role in matters pertaining to mortgage lending and licensing in the state of South Carolina. Both of these institutions are responsible for various aspects of the process of receiving and keeping a mortgage loan originator license.

Officially, the South Carolina State Board of Financial Institutions regulates mortgage lender or servicers and mortgage loan originators. The South Carolina Department of Consumer Affairs regulates mortgage brokers, including table funding and loan correspondents, and it regulates mortgage broker loan originators.

It depends on the type of business operations which licensing jurisdiction, whether the Department of Consumer Affairs or the State Board of Financial Institutions, the individual will belong to.

We will delve into what these regulations look like with regards to applying for, obtaining, and maintaining a license as a mortgage loan originator later in the course. For now, we will go over the various Acts enacted that provide the requirements that both of these offices enforce and monitor when it comes to mortgage lending, licensing, and overall consumer protection. We will turn to these laws next.

South Carolina Law and Regulation Definitions - The South Carolina Mortgage Lending Act

The South Carolina Mortgage Lending Act is now part of the South Carolina Consumer Protection Code, or Title 37. Chapter 22 of Title 37 contains the regulations pertaining to Mortgage Lending. We will discuss these here. If you would like to access the law itself, it can be accessed through the South Carolina Legislature website: www.scstatehouse.gov.

Before we get into what the law states about mortgage lending and licensing itself in South Carolina, we should review some of the terminology and its legal definitions that we will encounter while discussing this law and many other laws pertaining to mortgage lending. These definitions can be found in Chapter 22 of the Consumer Protection Code. The following provides the legal definition to ProEducate terminology that is most commonly used in the mortgage industry as it is intended to be defined in the state of South Carolina.

©All Rights Reserved

Page 117 of 182

For the purposes of South Carolina law regarding mortgage lending:

- "Act as a mortgage broker" means to act, for compensation or gain, or in the expectation of compensation or gain, either directly or indirectly, by:
  - (i) soliciting, processing, placing, or negotiating a mortgage loan for a borrower from a mortgage lender or depository institution or offering to process, place, or negotiate a mortgage loan for a borrower from a mortgage lender or depository institution,
  - o (ii) engaging in table funding of a mortgage loan, or
  - (iii) acting as a loan correspondent whether those acts are done by telephone, by electronic means, by mail, or in person with the borrowers or potential borrowers. "Act as a mortgage broker" also includes bringing a borrower and lender together to obtain a mortgage loan or rendering a settlement service as described in 12 U.S.C. 2602(3) and 24 C.F.R. Part 3500.2(b). [§37-22-110(1)]
- "Act as a mortgage lender" means to engage in the business of making or servicing a mortgage loan for compensation or gain, or in the expectation of compensation or gain, either directly or indirectly, including soliciting, processing, placing, or negotiating a mortgage loan.
  [§37-22-110 (2)]
- "Board" means the State Board of Financial Institutions [[§37-22-110(6)].
- "Borrower" means a natural person in whose dwelling a security interest is or is intended to be retained or acquired if that person's ownership interest in the dwelling is or is to be subject to the security interest [§37-22-110(7)].
- "Branch manager" means the natural person who is in charge of and who is responsible for the business operations of a branch office of a licensee [§37-22-110(8)].
- "Branch office" means an office of the licensee that is separate and distinct from the licensee's principal office [§37-22-110(9)].
- "Clerical or support duties" mean administrative functions after the receipt of an application by a licensed mortgage originator or lender, such as gathering information, requesting information, word processing, sending correspondence, or assembling files, and may include  $[\S37-22-110(10)(a)(b)]$ :

- the receipt, collection, and distribution common for the processing or underwriting of a residential mortgage loan; or
- any communication with a borrower to obtain the information necessary for the processing or underwriting of a loan, to the extent that such communication does not include taking a residential mortgage loan application, offering or negotiating loan rates or terms, or counseling consumers about residential mortgage loan rates or terms.
- "Commissioner" means the designee of the State Board of Financial Institutions for the purposes of licensing and regulation of mortgage lenders and mortgage loan originators pursuant to this chapter [§37-22-110(11)].
- "Employee" means a natural person who has an employment relationship, acknowledged by both the natural person and the mortgage lender, and is treated like an employee for purposes of compliance with the federal income tax laws [§37-22-110(15)].
- "Exempt person" means: [§37-22-110(18)(a)(b)(c)(d)(e)(f)(g)(h)(i)(j)]
  - an employee of a licensee whose responsibilities are limited to clerical or support duties for the employer and who does not solicit borrowers, accept applications, or negotiate the terms of loans on behalf of the employer;
  - a depository institution or subsidiary that is wholly owned and controlled by the depository institution and regulated by a federal banking agency or an institution regulated by the Farm Credit Administration. This chapter does not apply to the exempt persons described in this subitem;
  - an officer, registered loan originator, or employee of an exempt person described in subitem (b) of this section when actin gin the scope of employment for the exempt person;
  - a person who offers or negotiates terms of a mortgage loan with or on behalf of an immediate family member of the individual;
  - an individual who offers or negotiates terms of a mortgage loan secured by a dwelling that served as the person's residence;

- an employee whose employment as a processor or underwriter is undertaken pursuant to the direction and supervision of a licensee or exempt person except when the processor or underwriter is working as an independent contractor;
- an attorney who works for a mortgage lender, pursuant to a contract, for loss mitigation efforts or third party independent contractor who is HUD-certified, Neighborworks-certified, or similarly certified, who works for a mortgage lender, pursuant to a contract, for loss mitigation efforts;
- a retailer of manufactured or modular homes or an employee of the retailer if the retailer or employee:
  - (i) does not receive compensation or other gain for engaging in activities described in item (1), (2), or (26) in excess of any compensation or gain received in a comparable cash transaction;
  - (ii) discloses in writing to the consumer any corporate affiliation with any creditor and, if a corporate affiliation exists, the identity of at least one unaffiliated creditor; and (iii) does not directly negotiate with the consumer or lender on loan terms including, but not limited to, rates, fees, and other costs; or
- any other person deemed exempt pursuant to the Secure and Fair Enforcement
   Licensing Act (SAFE Act), Section 1508, Title V of the Housing and Economic Recovery
   Act of 2008, Public Law 110-289, and any regulations promulgated thereunder.
- "Individual servicing a mortgage loan" means an employee of a mortgage lender licensed in South Carolina that: [§37-22-110(22)(a)(b)(c)]
  - collects or receives payments including payments of principal, interest, escrow amounts, and other amounts due on existing obligations due and owing to the licensed mortgage lender for a mortgage;
  - works with the borrower and the licensed mortgage lender, collects data, and makes decisions necessary to modify, either temporarily or permanently, certain terms of those obligations; or
  - o otherwise finalizes collection through the foreclosure process.
- "Licensee" means a person who is licensed pursuant to this chapter [§37-22-110(23)].

- "Loan correspondent" means a person engaged in the business of making mortgage loans as a third party originator and who does not engage in all three of the following activities with respect to each mortgage loan: [§37-22-110 (25(a)(b)(c)]
  - o underwrite the mortgage loan written by their employees;
  - o approve the mortgage loan; and
  - o fund the mortgage loan utilizing an unrestricted warehouse or credit line
  - A loan correspondent is not a mortgage lender

(This particular definition was added to this chapter after the Mortgage Lending Act was amended)

- "Loan originator" means a natural person who, in exchange for compensation or gain or in the expectation of compensation or gain as an employee of an employee of a licensed mortgage lender, solicits, negotiates, accepts, or offers to accept applications for mortgage loans, including electronic applications, or includes direct contact with, or informing mortgage loan applicants of, the rates, terms, disclosures, and other aspects of the mortgage loan.
  - The definition of "loan originator" does not include an exempt person described in item (18) or a person solely involved in extensions of credit relating to timeshare plants, as that term is defined in Section 101(53D) of Title 11, United States Code.
  - The definition of loan originator does not apply to an individual servicing a mortgage loan as that term is defined in this chapter until July 31, 2011, unless the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development or a court of competent jurisdiction determines before that time that those individuals servicing mortgage loans are "loan originators" as that term is defined in the SAFE ACT pursuant to Section 1508 of Title V of the housing and Economic Recovery Act of 2008, Public Law 110-289. Solely acquiring and reviewing a credit report does not constitute acting as a loan originator. [§37-22-110 (26)]
- "Mortgage broker" means a person who acts as a mortgage broker, as that term is defined in time (1)" [§37-22-110].
- "Registered loan originator" means a natural person who meets the definition of loan originator and is an employee of a depository institution or a subsidiary that is wholly owned and controlled by the depository institution and regulated by the federal banking agency or an institution regulated by the Farm Credit Administration and is registered with and maintains a unique identifier through the National Mortgage Licensing System and Registry. [§37-22-110(36)]

The definitions that we just reviewed, which are included in the South Carolina Mortgage Lending Act, are important for the understanding of certain laws and regulations that pertain to mortgage lending in South Carolina.

The South Carolina Mortgage Lending Act of 2009 not only provides definitions to some of the more important terms in the mortgage lending industry, it also provides the requisites to become a licensed mortgage lender, loan originator, or someone acting as a mortgage lender.

The South Carolina Mortgage Lending Act explains that it is unlawful for a person, other than an exempt person, doing business in South Carolina to: [§37-22-120A(1)(2)]

- act as a mortgage lender or, directly or indirectly, engage in the business of a mortgage lender under any name or title; or
- circulate or use advertising, including electronic means, make a representation or give information to a person which indicates or reasonably implies activity within the scope of this chapter

The law also states that it is unlawful for a person to employ, compensate, or appoint as its agent a loan originator unless the loan originator is licensed as a loan originator pursuant to this chapter. An exempt person is not subject to this subsection. [§37-22-120(B)]

The license of a loan originator is not effective during a period that the person is not employed by a mortgage lender licensed pursuant to this chapter. [§37-22-120(C)]

If a loan originator ceases to be employed by a mortgage lender licensed pursuant to this chapter, the loan originator and the mortgage lender by whom that person is employed promptly shall notify the commissioner in writing. The mortgage lender's notice must include a statement of the specific reason or reasons for the termination of the loan originator's employment. The reason for termination is confidential information and must not be released to the public. [§37-22-120(D)]

A loan originator must not be employed simultaneously by more than one mortgage lender licensed pursuant to this chapter. [§37-22-120(E)]

Independent contractors, except for exempt persons, must be licensed separately. Processors and underwriters who are independent contractors must be licensed as provided in section 37-22-110(34)(c). [§37-22-120(F)]

Aside from providing definitions to important terminology and the requirements for licensing of a mortgage lender or loan originator, the law also delineates reasons for revocation suspension, and termination of a license.

The South Carolina Mortgage Lending Act also provides a list of prohibited activities and demands participation in the national mortgage registry.

It also specifies that the act can be enforced by the commissioner of the Consumer Finance Division of the Board of Financial Institutions. On May 19, 2017, amendments were made to the South Carolina Mortgage Lending Act, which went into effect on September 1, 2017. The amendments include, among others,

- the addition of the definition of "loan correspondent" to the list of defined terminology in the act;
- updated the pre-licensing and continuing education requirements for mortgage loan originators;
- placed new requirements on surety bond amounts;
- enabled a mortgage loan originator's residence be deemed a branch office, and
- reconciled the term "exempt person" with persons deemed exempt in the federal SAFE Act.

It was this amendment that added the requirement for South Carolina Law content in both prelicensing and continuing education for mortgage loan originators.

We will be delving into the details the South Carolina Mortgage Lending Act provides for mortgage loan originator license requirements, qualifications, and the application process later in the course.

South Carolina Law and Regulation Definitions - The High Cost and Consumer Home Loan Act

Another important act in South Carolina pertaining to mortgage lending is the High Cost and Consumer Home Loan Act.

• The Act was added to the Consumer Protection Code, or Title 37, under Chapter 23 in 2003.

- The Act sets up protections for South Carolina homeowners and creates a category for high cost home mortgages with a threshold.
- The Act also provides definitions for relevant terminology. We will review some of these terms first and then discuss the provisions of the Act.

According to the High Cost and Consumer Home Loans Act: [§37-23-20]:

- "Affiliate" means a company that controls, is controlled by, or is under common control with another company, as described in the Bank Holding Company Act of 1956 (12 U.S.C. Section 1841, et seq.), as amended [§37-23-20(1)].
- "Annual percentage rate" means the annual percentage rate for the loan calculated according to the provisions of the federal Truth in Lending Act (15 U.S.C. Section 1601, et seq.) and the regulations promulgated under it by the Federal Reserve Board, both as amended [§37-2320(2)].
- "Broker" or "mortgage broker" means a person or organization in the business of soliciting, processing, placing, or negotiating mortgage loans for others or offering to process, place, or negotiate mortgage loans for others. A broker or mortgage broker also includes a person or organization who brings borrowers or lenders together to obtain mortgage loans or renders a settlement services. [§37-23-20(3)]
- "Consumer home loan" means a loan in which: [§37-23-20(4)(a)(b)(c)]
  - o the borrower is a natural person;
  - the debt is incurred by the borrower primarily for personal, family, or household purposes; and
  - the loan is secured by a mortgage on real estate upon which is located or is to be located a structure designed principally for occupancy of from one to four families and that is or is to be occupied by the borrower as the borrower's principal dwelling.
- "Conventional conforming discount points" means loan discount points knowingly paid by the borrower for the purposes of reducing, and which in fact result in a bona fide reduction of, the interest rate applicable to the loan, so long as the home loan has an annual percentage rate that does not exceed the conventional mortgage rate by more than one percentage point [§37-23-20(5)]

- "Conventional mortgage rate" means the required net yield for a ninety-day standard mandatory delivery commitment for a reasonably comparable loan from either the Federal National Mortgage Association or the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation, whichever is greater [§37-23-20(6)]
- "Conventional prepayment penalty" means a prepayment penalty or fee that may be collected or charged in a home loan and that is authorized by law other than by this chapter, provided the home loan (a)does not have an annual percentage rate that exceeds the conventional mortgage rate by more than two percentage points; and
  (b) does not permit prepayment fees or penalties that exceed two percent of the amount prepaid [§37-23-20(7)]
- "Flipping" a consumer home loan means the making of a consumer home loan that refinances within forty-two months an existing consumer home loan of the borrower when the new loan does not have a reasonable, tangible net benefit to the borrower, considering all the circumstances, including the terms of both the new and refinanced loans, the cost of the new loan, and the borrower's circumstances. [§37-23-30(8)].
- "High-cost home loan" means: [§37-23-20(9)(a)(i)(ii)(iii)(iv)(v)(b)]
  - a loan, other than an open-end credit plan or a reverse mortgage transaction, in which the:
    - principal amount of the loan does not exceed the conforming loan size limit for a single-family dwelling as established from time to time by the Federal National Mortgage Association;
    - borrower is a natural person;
    - debt is incurred by the borrower primarily for personal, family, or household purposes;
    - loan is secured by either a security interest in a residential manufactured home, as defined in Section 37-1-201(24) which is to be occupied by the borrower as the borrower's principal dwelling, or a mortgage on real estate upon which there is located or there is to be located a structure designed principally for occupancy from one to four families and which is or is to be occupied by the borrower as the borrower's principal dwelling; and

- terms of the loan exceed one or more of the thresholds as defined in item (15); or
- be an adjustable rate mortgage at the fully indexed rate assuming a fully amortizing repayment schedule that would exceed one more of the thresholds as defined in item (15)
- "Obligor" means each borrower, co-borrower, cosigner, or guarantor obligated to repay the loan [§37-23-20(11)]
- "points and fees" means: [§37-23-20 (13)(a)(b)(c)(d)]
  - items required to be disclosed pursuant to Sections 226.4(a) and 226.4(b) of Title 12 of Code of Federal Regulations, as amended, except interest or the time-price differential;
  - charges for items listed in Section 226.4(c)(7) of Title 12 of the Code of Federal Regulations, as amended from time to time, but only if the lender receives direct or indirect compensation in connection with the charge or the charge is paid to an affiliate of the lender; otherwise, the charges are not included within the meaning of the phrase "points and fees";
  - compensation paid directly by the borrower to a mortgage broker not otherwise included in the subitem (a) or (b);
  - the maximum prepayment fees and penalties that may be charged or collected pursuant to the terms of the loan documents. Interest that may accrue in advance of payment in full of a loan made under a local, state, or federal government-sponsored mortgage insurance or guaranty program, including a Federal Housing Administration program, is not considered a prepayment fee or penalty
- "Threshold" means either (A) or (B) in a loan transaction, whichever is applicable: [§37-23-20(15)(A)(B)(i)(ii)(iii)(C)(i)(iii)]
  - (A) Without regard to whether the loan transaction is a "residential mortgage transaction" as the term "residential mortgage transaction" is defined in Section 226.2 (a)(24 of Title 12 of the Code of Federal Regulations, as amended, the annual percentage rate of the loan at the time the loan is consummated is such a rate that the loan is considered to be a "mortgage" pursuant to Section 152 of the Home Ownership and Equity Protection Act of 1994, as amended, and regulations adopted pursuant to it by the Federal Reserve Board, including Section 226.32 of Title 12 of the Code of Federal Regulations, as amended, except with regard to a mortgage or loan secured by a nonreal estate manufactured housing lien, the term "threshold" means the annual percentage rate of the nonreal estate secured manufactured housing line at the time the mortgage or loan is consummated exceeds by more than ten percentage points the yield on United States Treasury securities having comparable periods of maturity as of the fifteenth day of the month immediately preceding the month in which the application of extension of credit is received by the lender;

- (B) the total points and fees payable by the borrower at or before the loan closing exceed:
  - five percent of the total loan amount if the total loan amount is twenty thousand dollars or more;
  - the lesser of eight percent of the total loan amount or one thousand dollars if the total loan amount is less than twenty thousand dollars; or
  - three percent of the total loan amount for nonreal estate secured manufactured housing transactions if the total loan amount in the nonreal estate secured housing transaction is twenty thousand dollars or more;
- (C) Except that the following discount points and prepayment fees and penalties are excluded from the calculation of the total points and fees payable to the borrower:
  - up to and including two conventional conforming discount points payable by the borrower in connection with the loan transaction but only if the interest rate from which the loan's interest rate is discounted does not exceed by more than one parentage point the required net yield for a ninety-day standard mandatory delivery commitment for a reasonably comparable loan from either Federal National Mortgage Association or the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation, which is greater; or
  - up to and including one conventional conforming discount point payable by the borrower in connection with the loan transaction, but only fi the interest from which the loan's interest rate is discounted does not exceed by more than two percentage points the required net yield for a ninety-day standard mandatory delivery commitment for a reasonably comparable loan from either the Federal national Mortgage Association or Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation, whichever is greater;

a conventional prepayment penalty.

The above terminology is important in order to understand what the High-Cost and Consumer Home Loan Act provides for the mortgage lending industry in South Carolina. Section 37-23-30 of the High-Cost and Consumer Home Loan Act denotes what a high-cost home loan agreement should and should not contain. A high-cost home loan agreement may not contain:

- a provision that allows the lender to call a loan at his or her discretion [§37-23-30(1)]
- a balloon payment [§37-23-30(2)]
- negative amortization [§37-23-30(3)]
- an increase in the rate after default [§37-23-30(4)]
- requirements of more than two periodic payments to the loan to be paid in advance from the loan proceeds provided to the borrower [§37-23-30(5)]
- a charge to the consumer for fees to modify, renew, extend, or amend a high-cost home loan [§37-23-30(6)]
- provide the consumer with a choice of law provisions to avoid South Carolina law [§37-23-30(7)]

The Act also provides limitations on lenders of high-cost home loans. The lender of a high-cost home loan may not:

- make a high-cost home loan without first receiving written certification from a counselor approved by the State Housing Finance and Development Authority that the borrower has received counseling on the advisability of the loan transaction [§37-23-40(1)]
- provide a high-cost home loan without determining first whether the consumer can repay the loan [§37-23-40(2)]
- finance, directly or indirectly, prepayment penalties [§37-23-40(3)(a)]
- finance, directly or indirectly, more than 2.5 percent in points or fees [§37-23-40(3)(b)]

- charge fees or points to refinance a loan made by the lender [§37-23-40(4)]
- pay a contractor for a home improvement loan from the proceeds of a high-cost home loan [§37-23-40(5)]
  - the check must be payable jointly to the borrower and contractor [§37-23-40(5)(a)] or
  - through a third party escrow agent [§37-23-40(5)(b)]

Additionally, the High Cost and Consumer Home Loan Act protects consumer home loans by listing prohibited acts. According to section 37-23-70:

- A lender may not engage knowingly or intentionally in the unfair act or practice of "flipping" a consumer loan [§37-23-70(A)]
- Al lender may not finance directly or indirectly credit life, disability, debt cancellation, or unemployment insurance, or other life or health insurance premiums, except that insurance premiums calculated and paid on a monthly basis are not considered to be financed by the lender [§37-23-70(B)]
- A lender may not recommend or encourage default on an existing loan or other debt before and in connection with the closing planned or closing of a consumer home loan that refinances all or a portion of the existing loan or debt [§37-23-70(C)]
- At the time of application, the loan originator or mortgage broker must provide the consumer with information as to where the consumer can file a complaint [§37-23-70(D)]

If a lender violates this section and is found to have committed one of the prohibited acts discussed above, he or she is subject to actual damages and a penalty in an amount determined by the court of no less than $1,500 and no more than $7,500 for each transaction. However, there is a statute of limitations of 6 years, after which the borrower may no longer bring action to the lender for the violation [§37-23-70(F)].

The Act also specifies the types of disclosures consumers must have access to during the lending process. These disclosures will help educate the consumer of what is occurring during the lending process.

At the time when the borrower receives the Loan Estimate (LE) and prior to the loan closing, the broker or mortgage broker must disclose in writing the amount being earned on the loan. The Department of Consumer Affairs shall provide a disclosure form that includes the following:  $[\S37-23-75 \ (A)(1)(2)(3)(4)]$

- The dollar amount of the yield spread premium and the percentage yield spread premium in relation to the loan amount;
- An itemization of the dollar amounts for points, fees, and commissions with a combined total given
- Dollar amount total of both of the item above
- If the loan is an adjustable rate mortgage, the listing of the schedule for when the loan may be reset, for each and every reset, and a listing of the monthly payment that is owed for each change that is allowed by the terms of the contract.

The disclosure form must include a signature line for the borrower to acknowledge that he has received the disclosures and that they have been explained to him or her [§37-23-75(B)].

Together, the above provisions help protect South Carolina consumers with regards to their mortgage loans.

Chapter 3 and Chapter 10 of the South Carolina Consumer Protection Code also add other provisions that enable the protection of consumers and their mortgage loans. We will turn to these next.

South Carolina Law and Regulation Definitions - Consumer Protection Code, Chapter 3 and Chapter 10

Chapter 3

Chapter 3 of South Carolina's Consumer Protection Code, or Title 37, focuses on loans. As such, it provides definitions of terminology having to do with loans.

According to Chapter 3 a "consumer loan" is:

- A loan made by a person regularly engaged in the business of making loans which: [§37-3-104(a)(b)(c)(d)]
  - o A debtor is a person other than an organization;

- The debt is incurred primarily for a personal, family, or household purpose;
- o Either the debt is payable in installments or a loan finance charge is made; and
- Either the principal does not exceed twenty-five thousand dollars or the debt is secured by an interest in land.
- A consumer loan does not include a loan secured by a first lien or equivalent security interest in real estate [§37-3-105]

Chapter 3 defines "loan" to include:

- The creation of debt by the lender's payment of or agreement to pay money to the debtor or to a third party for the account of the debtor;
- The creation of debt by a credit to an account with the lender upon which the debtor is entitled to draw immediately;
- The creation of debt pursuant to a lender credit card or similar arrangement; and
- The forbearance of debt arising from a loan. [§37-3-106]

Chapter 3 defines "Lender" to include an assignee of the lender's right to payment but use of the term does not in itself impose on an assignee any obligation of the lender with respect to events occurring before the assignment [§37-3-107(1)].

The chapter defines "principal" as the total of: [§37-3-107(3)(a)(b)(c)(i)(ii)]

- The net amount paid to, receivable by, or paid or payable for the account of the debtor;
- The amount of any discount excluded from the loan finance charge; and
- To the extent that payment is deferred:
  - Amounts actually paid or to be paid by the lender for registration, certificate of title, or license fees if not included in the net amount paid; and
  - Additional charges permitted by Chapter 3

Chapter 3 defines a "finance charge" as the sum of: [§37-3-109 (1)(a)(b)] all charges payable directly or indirectly by the debtor and imposed directly or indirectly by the lender as an incident to the extension of credit, including interest or any amount payable under a point, discount or other system of charges, premium or

- other charge for any guarantee or insurance protecting the lender against the debtor's default or other credit loss
- charges incurred for investigating the collateral or creditworthiness of the debtor or for commissions or brokerage for obtaining the credit, irrespective of the person to whom the charges are paid or payable, unless the lender had no notice of the charges when the loan was made but excluding fees and charges paid to persons registered as mortgage loan brokers.

The above definitions provide clarity regarding certain aspects pertaining to different loans, but Chapter 3 also includes provisions that allow lenders to do certain things during the lending process.

- Chapter 3 enables the lender to collect closing costs, including fees or premiums for title, appraisals, insurances, and fees and charges to persons registered as mortgage loan brokers.
   [§37-3-202(d)(i)(ii)(iii)(iv)(v)(e)(f)(2)].
- The chapter also enables a lender to refinance a borrower's loan, or "unpaid balance" and charge a finance charge for doing so. [§37-3-205].
- If a loan requires a rate schedule, it must designate the rate as a variable rate and disclose the index for calculating changes in the rate and the cap or other limitation, if any, on any increases or decreases in the rate [§37-3-305(2)]

Aside from allowing lenders to conduct themselves a certain way and providing clarity regarding some of the terminology important to the world of consumer loans, this Chapter includes other provisions that add accountability to those involved in mortgage lending.

Chapter 3 grants the State Board of Financial Institutions the authority to examine periodically the loans, businesses, and records of every licensee [§37-3-506(1)].

This means that at any point the South Carolina State Board of Financial Institutions can demand access to the offices, places of business, and records of any lender in order to determine whether the lender has acted in accordance to the law. Knowing that this is the case further motivates licensees to behave in accordance to South Carolina and Federal law.

Furthermore, Chapter 3 states that any provisions that conflict with the SAFE Act must be changed in order for them to be interpreted as those in the SAFE Act and that all disclosures and advertisements must be in compliance with the Truth-in-Lending Act [37-3-301, 304].

Chapter 10

Chapter 10 of the Consumer Protection Code deals with "miscellaneous loan provisions." This Chapter contains additional provisions regarding loans that were not covered in Chapter 3 and other chapters in Title 37.

Chapter 10 states that prior to closing a loan, the creditor must know the borrower's preference for an attorney that will represent him or her in the closing of the loan. The creditor must do the same regarding the borrower's insurance agent for both hazard and flood insurance. [§37-10-102(a)] In order to comply with such, the creditor has the following options:

- He or she can include the preference information on the credit application [§37-10-102(1)]
- Provide written notice to the borrower with the information when the notice is being delivered no later than 3 days after the application is received [§37-10-102(2)]

This provision enables the consumer to be in charge of decision-making regarding the costs associated with representation in both the loan itself and the home. The consumer has the right to shop around for these services and does not need the permission of the creditor to pick his or her attorney or insurance agent.

Furthermore, a consumer is not punished for paying his or her debt in full. Chapter 10 states that for loans of 150,000 dollars or less, a debtor can prepay in full the debt without incurring any penalty as long as the debt is represented by a personal, family, or household purpose loan agreement that is secured in whole or in party by a first or junior lien on real estate and the aggregate of all sums advanced does not exceed 150,000 dollars.

[§37-10-103]

If a loan is agricultural in its purpose or under 25,000 dollars, and the debtor wants to prepay in full, the maximum loan finance charge that is allowed is 18% per annum, calculated according to the actuarial method. [§37-10-104]

This chapter also provides an additional protection to the consumer by denoting that the maximum rate of interest per year is 6%, except upon written contracts wherein, by express agreement, any interest may be charged.

The chapter also defines both the terms legal rate of interest and lawful rate of interest. Whenever the term legal rate of interest is used or lawful rate of interest in used in a contract it is meant to mean the rate specified in Section 34-31-20, which states that in all cases of accounts stated and in all cases wherein any sum or sums of money shall be ascertained and, being due, shall draw interest according to law, the legal interest shall be at the rate of eight and three-fourths percent per annum.  $[\S34-31-20(A), \S37-10-106(1)(2)]$

If the provisions discussed above are in some way violated, the person violating the chapter can incur a penalty determined by the court of no less than $1,500 and no more than $7,000. The statute of limitations for the violation is 3 years. [§37-10-105]

Chapter 3 and Chapter 10 of the South Carolina Consumer Protection Code add to the protection of consumers by including provisions having to do with consumer loans that give more power to the consumer and add a level of accountability for mortgage lenders and brokers.

We have discussed different South Carolina laws pertaining to consumer protection. Next, we will discuss in more detail some of the provisions found in the Mortgage Lending Act and in South Carolina's Consumer Protection Code that pertains specifically to mortgage loan originators.

South Carolina License Law and Regulation

OVERVIEW

In this lesson we will review details on South Carolina laws and regulations pertaining to licensing. We will go over what activities the law states require a license, what is required of persons wanting to become licensed as mortgage loan originators or mortgage lenders, what makes a person qualified for a mortgage loan originator license as well what the application process to get a license is like in South Carolina. Additionally, we will review what the law states regarding maintaining a mortgage loan originator license once one is obtained. And finally, we will also go over what the laws and regulations state are the grounds for denying a license.

Learning Objectives

After reviewing this lesson, students should be able to:

- Know what activities require a mortgage loan originator license
- Understand what the law requires of persons wanting to become licensed as mortgage loan originators and what the application process is like for a license
- Know the requisites to maintain a mortgage loan originator license as well as the reasons for the denying of a license

South Carolina License Law and Regulation

Before we begin this lesson, it is important to understand that there are two main titles and chapters in the South Carolina Code of Laws that pertain to mortgage lending: Title 37, Chapter 22, and Title 40, Chapter 58. What we will be predominantly reviewing below is what the law denotes in Title 37, Chapter 22, which is the Mortgage Lending Act. However, Title 40, Chapter 58, or the Licensing of Mortgage Brokers Act is also relevant. Title 40, Chapter 58 contains provisions that are almost identical to those provisions in Title 37, Chapter 22.

Their main difference, however, is the fact that Chapter 22 places regulatory authority on the Commissioner of the Consumer Finance Division of the State Board of Financial Institutions and Chapter 58 places regulatory authority on the Administrator of the Department of Consumer Affairs.

As you will recall, from the last section, both of these offices are South Carolina's regulatory authority for mortgage lending in the state. The South Carolina State Board of Financial Institutions regulates mortgage lender or servicers and mortgage loan originators, while the Department of Consumer Affairs regulates mortgage brokers, including table funding and loan correspondents, and mortgage broker loan originators.

South Carolina provides specific laws and regulations pertaining to mortgage loan originators. These laws and regulations include activities that require licensure. Before we move on to discuss these, let's reacquaint ourselves with what South Carolina law defines as a mortgage loan originator.

According to Chapter 22 of Title 37, also known as the Mortgage Lending Act, a loan originator means a natural person who, in exchange for compensation or gain or in the expectation of compensation or gain as an employee of a licensed mortgage lender, solicits, negotiates, accepts, or offers to accept applications for mortgage loans, including electronic applications, or includes direct contact with, or informing mortgage loan applicants of, the rates, terms, disclosures, and other aspects of the mortgage loan. The definition "loan originator" does not include an exempt person or a person solely involved in extensions of credit relating to timeshare plans. [§37-22-26]

This same chapter defines "act as a mortgage broker" to mean to act, for compensation or gain, or in the expectation of compensation or gain, either directly or indirectly, by:

- (i) soliciting, processing, placing, or negotiating a mortgage loan for a borrower from a mortgage lender or depository institution or offering to process, place, or negotiate a mortgage loan for a borrower from a mortgage lender or depository institution,
- (ii) engaging in table funding of a mortgage loan, or

(iii) acting as a loan correspondent whether those acts are done by telephone, by electronic means, by mail, or in person with the borrowers or potential borrowers.

"Act as a mortgage broker" also includes bringing a borrower and lender together to obtain a mortgage loan or rendering a settlement service. [§37-22-1].

Since we will be discussing what must occur in order to obtain a license in this lesson it is convenient that Chapter 22 also defines what a licensee means. A "licensee" is defined as someone who is licensed pursuant to Chapter 22.

Title 37, Chapter 22, Section 260 gives the commissioner of the South Carolina State Board of Financial Institutions the regulatory authority to create new provisions necessary to put into effect the purpose of the chapter. Using this regulatory authority in order to comply with the Secure and Fair Enforcement for Mortgage Licensing Act of 2008, and with HUD rules, the South Carolina State Board of Financial Institutions added Article 4, regulations 15-64. The addition of these regulations to previous lending law were meant to clarify existing provisions in Chapter 22 as well as to ensure that the provisions were in line with federal laws. To that end, these regulations also define some relevant terminology: [Article 4 §15-64 (A)(2)(3)(4)(5)]

- Day means all calendar days including Saturdays, Sundays and legal public holidays
- Employee for the purposes of compliance with the federal tax laws- means a natural person whose manner and means of performance of work are subject to the right of control of, or are controlled by, a person, and whose compensation for federal income tax purposes is reported, or required to be reported, on a W-2 form issued by the controlling person.
- Notice means written notification received by the Commissioner within (7) days of any change except as defined in Section 37-22-180 (A), which states that a licensee shall report to the commissioner a change of address of the principal place of business or branch office at least 7 days before the change. (We will go over this section later in the lesson.)
- Prior Written Consent means written consent given by the Commissioner authorizing a change of control prior to that change of control taking place. To request authorization from the Commissioner, all information regarding acquisition via stock purchase or other device must be sent to the Commissioner at least 30 days prior to the change of control.

The definitions above are important to understand what Chapter 22 states are activities that require a license as well as what the requisites are for becoming licensed and remaining licensed in South Carolina. We will now turn to the chapter's provisions regarding licensing.

Persons Required to be Licensed

There are certain activities that persons cannot participate in if they are not licensed pursuant to Chapter 22. In the state of South Carolina, if you want to participate in the following activities, you must be a licensee [ $\S 37-22-120(A)(1)(2)(B)(C)$ ]

- Act as a mortgage lender or, directly or indirectly engage in the business of a mortgage lender under any name or title
- Circulate or use advertising, including electronic means, make a representation or give information to a person which indicates or reasonably implies activity within the scope of Chapter 22
- Employ, compensate, or appoint as its agent a loan originator unless the loan originator is licensed as a loan originator pursuant to Chapter 22
- Continue to conduct activities of a licensee if you are not employed by a mortgage lender that is licensed pursuant to Chapter 22

Thus, in accordance to state law, you must be a licensee if you want to participate in activities as a mortgage broker or lender. This includes advertising for any lending activity.

It is important to note that if you do obtain a license as a mortgage loan originator, but are not employed by a mortgage lender, you cannot practice mortgage origination activities. Additionally, Chapter 22 states that if you are licensed as a mortgage loan originator, but are not employed by a mortgage lender, you and the mortgage lender must notify the commissioner of the State Board of Financial Institutions in writing with a statement that explains the reasons for termination. [§37-22-120(D)] And, a loan originator must not be employed simultaneously by more than one mortgage lender that is licensed pursuant to Chapter 22. [§37-22-120(E)]

There are some exemptions to the above. Exempt persons are not required to have a license. In the last lesson, we reviewed what an "exempt person" means according to Chapter 22. Let's quickly review this again:

"Exempt person" means:  $[\S37-22-110(18)(a)(b)(c)(d)(e)(f)(g)(h)(i)(j)]$

- an employee of a licensee whose responsibilities are limited to clerical or support duties for the employer and who does not solicit borrowers, accept applications, or negotiate the terms of loans on behalf of the employer;
- a depository institution or subsidiary that is wholly owned and controlled by the depository institution and regulated by a federal banking agency or an institution regulated by the Farm Credit Administration. This chapter does not apply to the exempt persons described in this subitem;
- an officer, registered loan originator, or employee of an exempt person described in subitem (b) of this section when actin gin the scope of employment for the exempt person;
- a person who offers or negotiates terms of a mortgage loan with or on behalf of an immediate family member of the individual;
- an individual who offers or negotiates terms of a mortgage loan secured by a dwelling that served as the person's residence;
- an employee whose employment as a processor or underwriter is undertaken pursuant to the direction and supervision of a licensee or exempt person except when the processor or underwriter is working as an independent contractor;
- an attorney who works for a mortgage lender, pursuant to a contract, for loss mitigation efforts or third party independent contractor who is HUD-certified, Neighborworks-certified, or similarly certified, who works for a mortgage lender, pursuant to a contract, for loss mitigation efforts;
- a retailer of manufactured or modular homes or an employee of the retailer if the retailer or employee:
  - (i) does not receive compensation or other gain for engaging in activities described in item (1), (2), or (26) in excess of any compensation or gain received in a comparable cash transaction;
  - (ii) discloses in writing to the consumer any corporate affiliation with any creditor and, if a corporate affiliation exists, the identity of at least one unaffiliated creditor; and

- (iii) does not directly negotiate with the consumer or lender on loan terms including, but not limited to, rates, fees, and other costs; or
- any other person deemed exempt pursuant to the Secure and Fair Enforcement
   Licensing Act (SAFE Act), Section 1508, Title V of the Housing and Economic Recovery
   Act of 2008, Public Law 110-289, and any regulations promulgated thereunder.

The persons and activities mentioned above are not required to have a mortgage lending license or a loan originator license. However, aside from those deemed exempt, anyone wanting to engage in mortgage broker activities as well as those activities mentioned at the beginning of this lesson must have a license in order to do so in the state of South Carolina.

In order to obtain a license to participate in these activities, you must go through the license application process. Next, we will discuss what this entails.

Licensee Qualifications and Application Process

In order to obtain a mortgage loan originator license, an application for licensure must be filed with the commissioner of the Consumer Finance Division of the South Carolina State Board of Financial Institutions, on forms approved by the commissioner.

The Consumer Finance Division of the State Board of Financial Institutions focuses on regulating licensing and compliance examination for non-depository consumer lending, deferred presentment services, check cashing, mortgage lending, mortgage servicing and all of their employees doing loan originating or loan modifications. Thus, it is no surprise, that it is the commissioner of the Consumer Finance Division that is given a lot of authority in Chapter 22 when it comes to licensing in South Carolina; starting with the fact that applicants for licensure must submit their applications to him or her.

The application itself must include information that the commissioner considers necessary.

The following is information deemed necessary for the application of a license:  $[\S37-22-140(A)(1)(2)(3)(4)(i)(ii)(iii)(5)(6)(i)(ii)(iii)]$

- name, address, and social security number or, if applicant, Employer Identification Number (EIN);
- form and place of organization, if applicable;
- proposed method of and locations for doing business, if applicable;

- qualification and business history and, if applicable, the business history of any partner, officer, or director, a person occupying a similar status or performing similar functions, or a person directly or indirectly controlling the applicant, including:
  - a description of any injunction or administrative order by a state or federal authority to which the person is or has been subject, including denial, suspension, or revocation of a financial services or financial services related license or registration;
  - a conviction, or plea of guilty or nolo contendere to a misdemeanor within the last ten years involving financial services or a financial services related business or any fraud, false statements or omissions, theft or wrongful taking of property, bribery, perjury, forgery, counterfeiting, extortion, money laundering, breach of trust, or a conspiracy to commit any of these offenses; and
  - a conviction of, or plea of guilty or nolo contendere to a felony;
- financial condition, credit history, and business history, with respect to an application for licensing as a mortgage lender; and credit history and business history, with respect to the application for licensing as a loan originator; and
- consent to a national fingerprint-based criminal history record check pursuant to Section 37-22-240 and submission of a set of the applicant's fingerprints in a form acceptable to the commissioner. In the case of an applicant that is a corporation, partnership, limited liability company, association, or trust, each natural person who has control of the applicant or who is the managing principle or a branch manager shall consent to a national fingerprint-based criminal history record check pursuant to Section 37-22-240 and submit a set of that natural person's fingerprints pursuant to this item. Refusal to consent to a criminal history record check constitutes grounds for the commissioner to deny licensure to the applicant as well as to any entity:
  - o by whom or by which the applicant is employed;
  - o over which the applicant has control; or
  - as to which the applicant is the current or proposed managing principal or a current or proposed branch manager.

As stated above, along with the rest of the requisites, the applicant for licensure must undergo a national criminal record check, supported by fingerprints, by the FBI. The law states that the results of the checks must be reported to the commissioner and the Nationwide Mortgage Licensing System and Registry is authorized to retain the fingerprints for certification purposes and for notification of the commissioner regarding subsequent criminal charges. The information gathered will be kept by the commissioner in accordance with applicable state and federal guidelines. [§37-22-240]

In addition to the above requirements, South Carolina law also requires that a person applying for licensure as a mortgage loan originator:  $[\S37-22-140(B)(1)(2)(3)(4)(5)]$

- have attained the age of at least 18 years;
- work for licensed mortgage lender;
- have satisfactorily completed pre-licensing education of at least twenty hours, which shall include at least three hours on South Carolina laws and regulations, and the National Test Component with Uniform State Content;
  - an applicant must pass the national test
  - if the applicant fails the test the applicant can retake the test as follows
    - After initial fail, applicant must wait 30 days before retaking the exam
    - After second attempt, applicant must wait 30 days before retaking the exam
    - After third attempt, the applicant must wait 180 days prior to retaking the exam
- have never had a loan originator license revoked in any governmental jurisdiction; and
- have not been convicted of, or pled guilty or nolo contendere to, a felony in a domestic, foreign, or military court: (i) during the ten-year period preceding the date of the application of licensing, or (ii) at any time, if the felony involved an act of fraud, dishonesty, breach of trust, or money laundering.

So long as the applicant meets the legal requirements above, he or she should have no impediment in obtaining a license as a mortgage loan originator.

If the applicant is applying for licensure as a mortgage lender, the applicant must comply with the following at the time of application and all times after that:

[§37-22-140(C)(1)(2)(3)(4)(5)]

- If the applicant is a sole proprietor, the applicant shall have at least three years of experience in financial services or financial services related business or other experience or competency requirements as the commissioner may impose.
- If the applicant is a general or limited partnership, at least one of its general partners shall have the experience described above
- If the applicant is a corporation, at least one of its principal officers shall have the experience described above
- If the applicant is a limited liability company, at least one of its members or managers shall have the experience described above
- Instead of showing three years experience, an applicant may show proof of three years employment with a federally insured depository institution or a VA-, FHA-, or HUD-approved mortgagee.

These applicants must also identify one person meeting the above requirements to serve as their managing principal [§37-22-140(D)].

Though we have already reviewed a lot of the legal requisites for licensure, we have yet to mention some of the financial requirements posited by law on those that want to become licensed. Applying for a license does come with certain financial requisites and responsibilities.

When applying for licensure, whether as a mortgage lender or a mortgage loan originator, each applicant must pay a filling fee. [§37-22-140(E)]

- If the application is for licensure as a mortgage lender, the filing fee is set at $1,000.00
- If the application is for a mortgage loan originator, the filing fee is $50.00
  - These filing fees are in addition to the cost associated with obtaining credit reports and national fingerprint-based criminal history record checks.
  - And, if a loan originator changes employment a new license must be issued for a fee of $25.00

Aside from a filing fee, there are also surety bond requisites mandated by the law. A surety bond is a legally binding contract that ensures the parties involved will meet their obligations. The surety bond is usually a three-way agreement between the principal, person who needs the bond, an obligee, person who requires the bond, and a surety company that sells the bond. The bond is meant to serve as a guarantee that the principal will do as required. If the principal does not, the bond will cover the outcome. A mortgage lender must post and maintain a surety bond in the amount determined by the commissioner of the South Carolina State Board of Financial Institutions. The amount is based on the total dollar amount of a mortgage loan subject to regulation by the commissioner in a calendar year pursuant to the following: [§37-22-140(F)]

- Dollar volume of mortgage loans from $0-$49,999,999, surety bond of $50,000
- Dollar volume of mortgage loans from $50,000,000 to $249,999,999, surety bond of $100,000
- Dollar volume of mortgage loans greater than $250,000,000 surety bond of $150,000

According to state law the surety bond of a mortgage lender can never be less than $50,000. The surety bond itself must be executed by a surety company authorized by South Carolina state law. The surety bond must also be executed to the commissioner and must be for the use of the State for the recovery expenses, fines, and fees, or any of them, levied pursuant to Chapter 22 and for consumers who have losses or damages as a result of noncompliance with Chapter 22 by the mortgage lender. The full amount of the surety bond must be in effect at all times. Unless a new bond is filed with the surety company prior to the termination of the previous surety bond, the licensee's license is considered terminated. If the licensees license expires based on bond termination, all licensed activity must stop, and the person must apply for a license again.

Additionally, any sole proprietor, general partner, member or manager of a limited liability company, or officer of a corporation who meets individually the requirements to obtain a license, upon payment of the applicable fee, meets the qualifications necessary to obtain a license as a loan originator. [§37-22-140(G)]

With regards to licensed mortgage lenders, each principal office and individual branch offices must be licensed pursuant to Chapter 22 and have individual licenses issued. A licensed mortgage lender must file an application form with the commissioner that identifies the address of the principal office and each branch office as well as the offices' branch managers. If necessary, the commissioner can license a personal residence of a loan originator as a branch office if it is located more than 70 miles from a commercial branch office location. The licensee fee for each branch office is $150.00. [§37-22-140(H)]

We have so far mentioned the need for a license as a mortgage loan originator as well as a license for a mortgage lender, but what of those persons that act as both? The law states that a person who obtains a license as a mortgage lender, upon notice of the commissioner on a form prescribed by the commissioner, may act as a mortgage broker. However, there are times where mortgage lenders will act as mortgage brokers. The law states that a mortgage lender that also acts as a mortgage broker is not required to obtain a license as a mortgage broker, unless the person acts as a mortgage broker with regard to the majority of the mortgage loans reported on their Mortgage Call Report filed during the previous two quarters. [§37-22-140(K)]. Thus, if a mortgage lender predominantly acts as a mortgage broker, he or she needs a license as a broker. Furthermore, a mortgage lender acting as a mortgage broker must comply with the South Carolina Licensing of Mortgage Brokers Act, which states the different prohibited activities for someone who is a licensed mortgage broker and provides details as to how a mortgage broker should conduct themselves and their business. We will delve into the provisions of the Licensing of Mortgage Brokers Act (or Title 40, Chapter 58 of the South Carolina Code of Law) in the next lesson.

So as to keep distance from what an individual does while licensed versus what the government officially approves of or does not approve of, one of the provisions in Chapter 22 makes it a point to state that the fact that a licensee has been issued a licensee pursuant to the laws of the state does not mean that his or her services are approved by the State or state agency [§37-22-140(J)].

It is important to note that when completing and submitting your application along with other documentation, if any of the information provided and filed with the commissioner becomes inaccurate or incomplete, the licensee must promptly file a correcting amendment to the information contained in the document. [§37-22-140(M)]

Overall, the law denotes that if the commissioner determines that an applicant meets the qualifications for licensure and finds that the financial responsibility, character, and general fitness of the applicant are such as to command the confidence of the community and warrant belief that the business is to be operated honestly, fairly and efficiently, the commissioner can issue a license to the applicant. However, if the commissioner does not believe this to be the case in part or it its entirety, the commissioner can refuse to license the applicant and must notify him or her of the denial. [§37-22-140(I)] Therefore, the law really does leave it up to the commissioner to decide whether he or she believes an applicant should be licensed or not. Later in this lesson we will go into detail about what constitutes grounds for denying a license. Let's first discuss what the law states is necessary in order to maintain a license.

License Maintenance

[§37-22-150(A)(1)(2)]

Aside from the financial responsibility of the application fee and the surety bond when qualifying or applying for licensure as a mortgage loan originator or mortgage lender, there are also other financial responsibilities and other requirements that the applicant or licensee must meet in order to maintain their license. We will turn to these next.

Chapter 22 explains that all licenses issued by the commissioner of the South Carolina State Board of Financial Institutions expire annually on the thirty-first day of December or on another date that the commissioner determines. This means that licensees must renew their license every year if they want to continue to practice mortgage loan originator activities that require a license in the state of South Carolina. The renewal period for licensees is from November first through December thirty-first annually or it can be another date that the commissioner sets. A licensee that wants to renew his or her license must submit an application to the commissioner in order to do so. Applications that are received after the renewal due date are considered late and subject to a late fee.

According to Chapter 22, licenses can be renewed by paying to the commissioner a renewal fee as prescribed by the Board for each of the following:

- For a licensed mortgage lender, an annual renewal fee of no more than $800 and no more than $150 for each branch office
- For a licensed loan originator, the renewal fee is no more than $50.00

If a license for a licensed mortgage lender is not renewed by the renewal date, a late fee of no more than $500 as prescribed to the Board must be assessed. If a license for a licensed mortgage loan originator is not renewed during the renewal period, a late fee of no more that $100 as prescribed by the Board must be assessed as a late fee. However, if the licensee fails to renew his or her license within 30 days after the date the license expires or fails to maintain a valid license, the commissioner will require that the licensee comply with the requirements denoted by law for obtaining an initial license as well as pay the fee that has accrued. [§37-22-150(B)]

A good rule of thumb: always renew your license on time every year in order to avoid paying a fee or eventually having to go through the license application process all over again.

The law also states that at any time, the commissioner can require each person with a license to furnish a national fingerprint-based criminal history check and a set of fingerprints in a form acceptable to the commissioner. If a person refuses to do so, it could constitute grounds for the commissioner to deny the licensee's license renewal as well as to refuse the renewal of the license of the person by which he or she is employed, over which he or she has control, or which he or she is the current or proposed managing principal or branch manager. [§37-22-150(C)]

Aside from a renewal fee, in order to renew a license as a mortgage loan originator there are yearly requirements the licensee must meet. To renew a license:

[§37-22-160(A)(B)(C)(D)]

- A licensee must complete at least 8 hours of continuing professional education every year
  - Continuing education must include at least 1 hour of South Carolina Laws and Regulations
  - The completion of the continuing professional education must be reported to the commissioner every year
  - Licensees must maintain documentation of all courses completed
  - Documentation of the courses completed is subject to inspection by the commissioner for up to two years after the date of course completion
- Continuing education credit may be granted only for the year in which the class is taken and may not be granted for the same course in successive years.
- If a licensee fails to complete the continuing professional education before the license expiration date, his or her license expires and he or she will have to pay a penalty of no more than $100.00 in addition to other fees that may have accrued.

It is important to note that all pre-licensing education, continuing education, and written examinations must be approved through the Nationwide Mortgage Licensing System and Registry before credit can be given to applicants or licensees. Applicants and licensees that successfully complete education or testing approved through the NMLS fulfill requirements of this State.

The law also imposes other responsibilities on licensees in order to maintain a license in good standing. For example: there are certain records that licensees must keep and certain information they must report while conducting everyday loan originating activities. A licensee must make and keep accounts, correspondence, memoranda, papers, books, and other records prescribed by the commissioner. [§37-22-210(C)(D), §40-58-65 (A)]

Licensees must preserve their records for at least 3 years, unless the commissioner says otherwise. These records are important and must be safely maintained. A licensee should develop, maintain, and test disaster recovery plans for all records that are maintained. If the records are somehow misplaced, incomplete or destroyed, the licensee could be subject to disciplinary action.

State law states that if a licensee chooses to maintain their records electronically, they can do so as long as these electronic records can be readily accessible for examination by the commissioner at any time. [ $\S 37-22-210(C)(1)(2)(D)$ ].

In addition to the maintenance of the records just mentioned, licensees must also keep records in the form of a Mortgage Log. The Mortgage Log must contain the following information:

- Credit score of borrower
- Adjustable or fixed type of loan
- Term of loan
- Annual percentage rate of the loan
- Appraised value of the collateral

On the 31st of March of each year, each licensee must submit their mortgage log to the commissioner. If the licensee is late in their submission or the submission is incomplete, they are responsible for paying a fine of $100.00 per day it is late or remains incomplete. The compilation of data received by the commissioner will then be organized and submitted to the Department where it will be prepared and made available to the public. This report will become available on June 13 of every year. A licensee must submit a correcting amendment to the information given to the commissioner if the information becomes incomplete or inaccurate.

As stated in the beginning of the lesson, the State Board of Financial Institutions put into place Article 4 Regulations 15-64 in an effort to add and clarify some of the provisions in Chapter 22. Pursuant to Section 37-22-210, regulations in Article 4 state that the Mortgage Log required of licensees must: [Article 4 Reg.15-64(D)(1)(a)(b)]

- Be completed electronically as required by the Consumer Finance Division. The Licensee is responsible for the costs associated with doing so.
- Include all mortgage loans or applications where a credit report is requested, regardless of whether a mortgage loan is originated or modified.

Additionally, Section 37-22-220 states that licensees must maintain records in a way that helps the commissioner determine whether the licensee is complying with the provisions of Chapter 22 and with federal laws. The recordkeeping system of a licensee will be deemed sufficient so long as the required information is available. These records do not need to be kept in the place of business where loans are made if the commissioner is given free and full access to the records wherever they may be. By March 31st of each year, licensees must file an annual report relating to all the mortgage loans made, serviced, or brokered. The report should include the following information:

- First and subordinate lien loans originated by licensee and closed in the name of another party;
- First and subordinate line loans originated by another party and closed in the name of licensee;
- First and subordinate lien loans originated by and closed in the name of licensee;
- First and subordinate lien loans originated by and closed in the name of another party but funded by licensee;
- Loans purchased by licensee;
- First and subordinate lien loans serviced by licensee;
- Loans owned with and without servicing rights;
- Loans sold with and without servicing rights;
- Loans paid off before and at maturity;
- Unpaid loans at the beginning and end of the reporting year;
- Delinquent loans that are 30-59, 60-89, and ninety days or more delinquent, of all the loans the licensee owned as of December 31st
- Loans in foreclosure as of December 31st and foreclosed in the previous calendar year by licensee;
- Mortgage loans charged against reserve for loan losses as a result of foreclosures during the reporting year; and
- Loans repurchased during the previous calendar year

The annual report must also include the total gross revenue earned in the State under the license, the total dollar amount of points paid to the licensee by borrowers first and subordinate lien mortgage loans, total dollar amount of points paid to brokers by the licensee on first and subordinate lien mortgage loans, including yield spread premiums, and the lending institution, maximum amount available, outstanding balance, and expiration date of licensee's four largest warehouse lines of credit during the previous calendar year. [ $\S 37-22-220$  (A)(B)(C)(1)(2)(3)(4)(5)(6)(7)(7)(9)(10)(11)(12)(13)(14)(D)].

The State Board of Financial Institutions' Article 4, Regulations 15-64 adds to this section of Chapter 22 the following:

- The annual report required by §37-22-220 must include a Mortgage Call Report that includes: [Article Reg.15-64(D)(2)(a)(b)]
  - A loan activity report submitted electronically on a quarterly basis as required by the Nationwide Mortgage Licensing System and Registry by the mortgage lender or servicer for all locations and loan originators
  - A corresponding financial condition report submitted electronically as required by the Nationwide Mortgage Licensing System and Registry.

As already noted earlier, Section 37-22-140(M) states that if any information contained in a document submitted to the commissioner becomes inaccurate or incomplete, the licensee must promptly file a correcting amendment with the commissioner. Article 4 states that, pursuant to this provision, the applicant must supply the required information to the Consumer Finance Division of the South Carolina State Board of Financial Institutions within 120 days of the initial submission or the application will be abandoned as incomplete. [Article 4 Reg.15-64(E)]. Thus, "promptly" in this case means that the correcting amendment must be filed with the commissioner within 120 days of the original submission.

In addition to keeping records of their activity and in an effort for licensees to be held accountable for their actions and to reduce the incidence of mortgage fraud, the law also mandates that licensees must always clearly display the unique identifier assigned by the Nationwide Mortgage Licensing System and Registry on all mortgage loan forms, solicitations, or advertisements including business cards or websites and any other documents furnished in connection with a mortgage loan transaction. [§37-22-210(F)] By doing so, it is easy for consumers to look up the licensee's activity history as well as enabling the records of their transactions to be tracked down. Overall, this requirement on licensees is intended to bring a new level of security to the prevention of fraud in the mortgage industry.

Article 4, Regulations 15-64 adds that The Nationwide Mortgage Licensing System and Registry unique identifier for licensed mortgage lenders or servicers, licensed branch offices, and licensed mortgage loan originators must be displayed on all mortgage loan applications. However, only the unique identifier of the licensed mortgage lender or servicer is required to be displayed on all other mortgage loan forms. The unique identifier of a licensed mortgage lender or servicer or licensed mortgage loan originator must also be used in all advertising. [Article 4 Reg.15-64 (B)(1)(2)]

It is important to remember that it is also the responsibility of the licensee to report any changes that may occur to the commissioner. A licensee must report to the commissioner a change of address of the principal place of business or a branch office at least seven days before the change. Change of address notification of a licensed location must be accompanied by a fee of $25.00. A mortgage lender licensed pursuant to Chapter 22 must display in plain view in its principal office and in each branch the license issued by the commissioner. A loan originator licensed pursuant to Chapter 22 must display in each branch office in which mortgage loans are originated a copy of the license issued by the commissioner. [37-22-180(A)(B)]

Important to note is the fact that included in the notification, should be a plan of withdrawal with timetables for the disposition of the business, the location of the books, records, and accounts until the end of the retention period, and certification of the proper disposal of those records after that. [§37-22-210(G)].

So far what we have discussed has had to do with requirements for a person to obtain a mortgage license as well as what a licensee must do in order to maintain their license once they have obtained one.

Let us now move on to determining what may prevent an applicant from obtaining a license or what may force someone who already has a license to either lose or suspend his or her license.

Grounds for Denying a License

Aside from having the power to issue a license, the commissioner of the South Carolina State Board of Financial Institutions also has the power to deny, suspend, revoke, or refuse to issue or renew a license. We will now discuss the powers the commissioner has in South Carolina regarding the denial, suspension, revocation, or refusal to issue a license. As you will see, the commissioner can do various different things to licensees if he or she deems it necessary.

The commissioner may deny, suspend, revoke or refuse to issue a license if he or she finds that both:  $[\S37-22-200(A)(1)(2)(a)(b)(c)(d)(e)(f)(g)(h)(i)(j)]$

- The order is in the public interest; and
- The applicant, licensee, or any partner, member, manager, officer, director, loan originator, managing principal, or other person occupying a similar status or performing similar functions or a person directly or indirectly controlling the applicant or licensee:
  - Has filed an application for license that, as of its effective date or as of a date after filing, contained a statement that, in light of the circumstances under which it was made, is false or misleading with respect to a material fact;
  - Has violated or failed to comply with a provision of this chapter or order of the commissioner;
  - Within the past ten years has been convicted of, or pled guilty or nolo contendere to, a misdemeanor involving financial services or financial services related business or an offense involving breach of trust or fraudulent or dishonest dealing, or money laundering or has been convicted of, or pled guilty or nolo contendere to, a felony in a domestic, foreign, or military court.
  - A permanently or temporarily enjoined by a court of competent jurisdiction from engaging in or continuing conduct or practice involving financial services or financial services related business;
  - Is the subject of an order of the commissioner denying, suspending, or revoking that person's license;
  - Is subject of an order entered by the authority of a governmental entity with jurisdiction over the financial services or financial services related industry denying or revoking that person's license;
  - Does not meet the qualifications or the financial responsibility, character, or general fitness requirements, or a bond or capital requirements, pursuant to Chapter 22

- Has been the executive officer or controlling shareholder or owned a controlling interest in a financial service or financial services related business that has been subject to an order or injunction described above
- Has failed to pay the proper filling or renewal fee pursuant to Chapter 22 or a fine, penalty, or fee imposed by any governmental entity. However, the commissioner may enter only a denial order, and the commissioner shall vacate the order when the deficiency is corrected; or
- Has falsely certified attendance or completion of hours at an approved education course.
- Furthermore, the commissioner may postpone or suspend the license of a licensee pending final determination of a proceeding. Once the commissioner enters the order to postpone or suspend a license, he or she must notify the applicant or licensee promptly that the order has been entered and provide the licensee an explanation as to why it was entered in the first place. The commissioner must also explain in the notice the procedure for requesting a hearing before the Administrative Law Court. If both the licensee does not request a hearing and if the commissioner does not request a hearing, the order remains in effect until it is modified or vacated by the commissioner. [§37-22-200(B)]
- The commissioner may also impose an administrative penalty on a licensee, or any member, partner, officer, director, or other person occupying similar status or performing similar functions on behalf of a licensee for violation of Chapter 22. The administrative penalty, whether for the licensee or any other person, cannot exceed $10,000.00 for each violation of the chapter by a licensee. [§37-22-200(C)]
- Additionally, the commissioner can order a person to cease from a prohibited action. If the person who has been ordered to cease from the prohibited action fails to request a contested case hearing, or if the person requests a hearing and it is denied or dismissed and the person continues to engage in the action, the person is subject to an administrative penalty that cannot exceed $20,000.00 for each violation of the commissioner's order. [§37-22-200(D)]

If a licensee is accused of any act, omission, or misconduct that subjects the licensee to disciplinary action, the licensee, with the consent and approval of the commissioner, may surrender his or her license and the rights and privileges that come with it and is no longer eligible to receive, or submit an application for, licensure for a period of time established by the commissioner. [§37-22-200(F)]

If the commissioner believes that the licensee or another person has violated Chapter 22 or that facts exist that would be the basis for an order against a licensee or other person, the commissioner can investigate or examine the loans and business of the licensee and examine the books, accounts, records, and files of the licensee or other person relating to the complaint or matter under investigation. In other words, if a licensee seems to have violated a provision in this chapter, the commissioner has the right to do what he or she must do in order to uncover evidence of the violation. Whatever the cost may be for investigating or examining, as long as it is "reasonable," will be charged to the licensee. The commissioner may also require the licensee or other person to submit a national and state fingerprint-based criminal record check and a set of fingerprints in connection to the investigation or examination. If the licensee or other person refuses to do so, they will be subject to disciplinary action. [§37-22-200(G)]

The commissioner may also subpoen documents and witnesses and compel their production and attendance, to examine under oath all persons whose testimony the commissioner considers relative to the person's business and require the production of books, papers, or other materials. At the licensee's expense, the commissioner may also conduct routine examinations of the books and records of a licensee to determine their compliance to Chapter 22. The commissioner can cooperate and share information with an agency of this State, or other states, or with the federal government concerning behavior that is regulated by Chapter 22. He or she can also participate in examinations with these agencies. [§37-22-200(G)(H)(I)(J)]

If the commissioner finds that the managing principal, branch manager, or loan originator of a licensee had knowledge of, or reasonably should have had knowledge of, or participated in an activity that results in the entry of an order suspending or withdrawing the license of a licensee, the commissioner can prohibit the branch manager, managing principal, or loan originator from serving as a branch manager, managing principal, or loan originator for a time of his choosing. The commissioner can also require a person to pay to a borrower or other natural person amounts received by the person or its employees in violation of Chapter 22. [§37-22-200(K)(L)]

As reviewed, the commissioner of the Consumer Finance Division of the South Carolina State Board of Financial Institutions has a lot of discretion with regards to licensing. However, one should note that this does not mean that he or she is not held accountable. The commissioner must still report information to the Board as well as the Nationwide Mortgage Licensing System and Registry. In fact, any order issued by the commissioner regarding Chapter 22, must be reported to the Nationwide Mortgage Licensing System and Registry. [§37-22-200(M)].

It is important to state that if any of the provisions we have mentioned thus far are violated, state law imposes disciplinary action on the violator. A person who violates any of the provisions we have discussed and found in Chapter 22 of Title 37 of the South Caroline Code of Law, is guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction, must be fined not more than $500.00 or imprisoned not more than 6 months, or both, for each violation. Each transaction involving the unlawful making or servicing of a mortgage loan is a separate offense. [§37-22-230]

Conclusion

After reviewing this lesson, you should now be familiar with what the law requires you to do if you would like to apply to become a mortgage loan originator as well as what is required of you once you have obtained your license.

Compliance and Disciplinary Action

OVERVIEW

In this lesson we will review South Carolina law as it pertains to licensee behavior. We will go over what the law denotes as prohibited conduct and practices as well as what the law states is required conduct for licensees. We will also review fees and charges associated with being a licensee and the disclosures and agreements licensees will come across in their daily originating activities. Furthermore, we will go over how to advertise in the mortgage lending industry in accordance to state law. Lastly, we will discuss what South Carolina law states about disciplinary action, including notifications, hearings, and appeals; the suspension, revocation and rescissions of licenses; penalties and fines; and civil and criminal liability.

Learning Objectives

After reviewing this lesson, students should be able to:

- Recognize prohibited conduct and practices for licensees
- Know the different disclosures and agreements licensees encounter in their activities as mortgage loan originators
- Know how what is required of licensees if they want to advertise for business

 Understand what state law states disciplinary action should be for licensees that violate state provisions

Compliance

As mentioned previously, there are two main titles and chapters in the South Carolina Code of Laws that pertain to mortgage lending and licensing: Title 37, Chapter 22, and Title 40, Chapter 58. What we will be predominantly reviewing below is what the law denotes in Title 37, Chapter 22, which is the Mortgage Lending Act. However, we will also be covering some of the provisions in Title 40, Chapter 58, or the Licensing of Mortgage Brokers Act. Title 40, Chapter 58 contains provisions that are almost identical to those provisions in Title 37, Chapter 22.

Their main difference, however, is the fact that Chapter 22 places regulatory authority on the Commissioner of the Consumer Finance Division of the State Board of Financial Institutions and Chapter 58 places regulatory authority on the Administrator of the Department of Consumer Affairs. As you will recall, from a previous section, both of these offices are South Carolina's regulatory authority for matters relating to mortgage lending services in the state. The South Carolina State Board of Financial Institutions regulates mortgage lender or servicers and mortgage loan originators, while the Department of Consumer Affairs regulates mortgage brokers, including table funding and loan correspondents, and mortgage broker loan originators.

Prohibited Conduct and Practices; Required Conduct

So far, we have focused on what one must do in order to apply for a mortgage lending license or mortgage loan originator license in the state of South Carolina as well as what one must do in order to maintain a license once it has been obtained.

We will now turn to what the law provides regarding conduct and behavior for those who have obtained a license.

Below we will review what the law states are prohibited practices and conduct of a person that is licensed as a mortgage loan originator.

Title 37, Chapter 22 states that the following are prohibited activities that are a violation of state and federal law.

 $[\S37-22-190(A)(1)(2)(3)(4)(5)(6)(7)(8)(9)(a)(b)(10)(a)(b)(c)(11)(12)(13)(14)(15)(16)(17)(B)]$

(Section 40-58-70 also lists prohibited activities, most of which match those below):

- In addition to the activities prohibited by other provisions of state or federal law, it is unlawful for a person licensed pursuant to Chapter 22, in the course of a mortgage loan origination, to:
  - Misrepresent or conceal the material facts or make false promises likely to influence, persuade, or induce an applicant for a mortgage loan or a mortgagor to take a mortgage loan, or to pursue a course of misrepresentation through agents or otherwise;
  - To refuse improperly or fail to issue a satisfaction of a mortgage pursuant to Section 29-3-310;
  - Fail to account for or deliver to a person entitled to receive funds, documents, or other things of value obtained in connection with a mortgage loan including money provided by a borrower for a real estate appraisal or credit report, which the mortgage lender or loan originator is not entitled to retain under the circumstances;
  - Pay, receive or collect in whole or in part any commission, fee, or other compensation for a mortgage loan origination in violation of this chapter including any unlicensed person other than an exempt person;
  - Charge or collect a fee or rate of interest or to make or service a mortgage loan with terms or conditions or in a manner contrary to the provisions of this chapter
  - Advertise mortgage loans including rates, margins, discounts, points, fees, commissions, or other material information including material limitations on the loans, unless the person is able to make the mortgage loans available as advertised to qualified applicants;
  - Fail to disburse funds in good faith and in accordance with a written commitment or agreement to make a mortgage loan that has been accepted by the borrower;
  - Engage in a transaction, practice, or course of business in connection with the making or servicing of, or purchase or sale of a mortgage loan that is not in good faith or fair dealing, that is unconscionable, as set forth in Section 37-5-108, or that constitutes a fraud upon a person;
  - Fail to pay reasonable fees within a reasonable time to a licensed third party for services that are:
    - Requested from the third party in writing by the mortgage lender or an employee of the mortgage lender; and

- Performed by the third party in connection with the origination or closing of a mortgage loan for a customer or mortgage lender
- Influence or attempt to influence through coercion, extortion, or bribery, the development, reporting, result, or review of a real estate appraisal sought in connection with a mortgage loan. This item does not prohibit a mortgage lender or servicer from asking the appraiser to do one or more of the following:
  - Consider additional appropriate property information
  - Provide further detail, substantiation, or explaining for the appraiser's value conclusion; or
  - Correct errors in the appraisal report;
- Fail to comply with the mortgage loan servicing transfer, escrow account administration, or borrower inquiry response requirements imposed by Sections 6 and 10 of the Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act and regulations adopted pursuant to them and the state law;
- Fail to provide within a reasonable time, upon written request of a borrower, a payment history statement in a form easily understood by the borrower including payment dates and amounts and charges within the twelve months preceding the month which the request is received and the total amount unpaid as of the end of the period covered by the statement;
- Take a security interest in a borrower's principal dwelling where the amount of the mortgage loan is less than five thousand dollars;
- Fail to provide disclosures as required by the state or federal law or collect any fee before providing required disclosures;
- Fail to comply with Chapter 22 or other state or federal law including rules and regulations applicable to business regulated by this chapter;
- Falsely advertise or misuse names in violation of 18 U.S.C. Section 709 (False advertising or misuse of names to indicate Federal Agency) or state law; or
- Use any trade name or insignia of membership in an organization of which the licensee is not a member or advertise falsely through any material including, but not limited to,

- business card, stationery, or signage concerning a designation or certification of special education, credentials, trade organization membership, or business.
- Charge fees for services rendered as a mortgage broker without disclosing these fees to the applicant as required by federal and state law [§40-58-75(C)].
- A violation of state or federal law applicable to a business covered by Chapter 22 is a violation of this chapter and may be enforced by the commissioner.

As you can see, there are various different ways a licensee's conduct and behavior can violate the law.

It is important to note that licensees should behave ethically and in accordance to the law in order to maintain their license in good standing.

If a licensee is involved in any of the mentioned prohibited actions, it means that the licensee is not behaving ethically and is breaking the law.

By doing so, the licensee is subject to disciplinary action, which we will discuss later in this lesson.

Fees and Charges

When working as a mortgage lender or mortgage loan originator, you will have clients that will be making one of the biggest financial decisions and commitments of their lives.

Though this commitment is one of the biggest, the majority of consumers know very little about the transaction itself. Part of the large commitment includes different fees and charges that lenders add to the transaction costs aside from the cost of the property. Consumers are not necessarily knowledgeable about these specific costs.

Due to the lack of knowledge on behalf of the consumer, state law has created provisions regarding disclosures about these fees and charges in the hopes of protecting the consumer. We will review these provisions now.

Section 75 of Chapter 58, Title 40, also known as the Licensing and Mortgage Brokers Act, deals with mortgage broker fees and agreement disclosing charges.

The law states that within three business days of receiving an application for a mortgage loan, the broker must provide a mortgage broker fee agreement. The mortgage broker fee agreement discloses the estimated charges to the borrower for the mortgage loan and itemizes the charges provided if required under, federal or state law. This particular disclosure is considered delivered when deposited with the United States Postal Service for first class delivery. [§40-58-75(A)]

The law also makes it clear that a person may not earn, charge, or collect a mortgage broker or processing fee unless the person meets the requirements of Chapter 40, is authorized to conduct mortgage brokerage services by this chapter, or is exempt from the requirements of this chapter. [§40-58-75(B)]

Whatever fees might be charged must be made known to the borrower ahead of time. In other words, all fees earned for services rendered as a mortgage broker must be disclosed to the applicant by the mortgage broker as is required by federal or state law. [§40-58-75(C)]

As mentioned above, the mandatory mortgage broker fee agreement must be in writing and given to the borrower within 3 days of the borrower's application.

The mortgage broker fee agreement must include the following information:

- Current name
- Address
- Telephone number of the mortgage broker's branch office
- Account number, if any
- Date of agreement
- Name of the borrower or proposed borrower
- Signature of borrower and mortgage broker
- Amount of any fees
- Nature of services provided to the borrower

A copy of the completed mortgage broker fee agreement must be given to the borrower and this disclosure must be signed by the borrower acknowledging that he or she received the document. If the loan could be co-brokered, the agreement must have a statement saying so. If that is the case, the mortgage broker must provide written notice of co-brokering within three days of making the final decision to co-broker. The notice must include the name and street and mailing address of the co-broker as well as which broker should be contacted regarding the progress of the services provided. Each co-broker must be licensed with the administrator. [§40-58-75 (D)]

There are also other fee and charges disclosures that are mandated and regulated by state law aside from the mortgage broker fee agreement.

Section 102 of Chapter 10, Title 37 deals with fees and other charges on mortgage loans for personal, family or household purposes. This section of the law states that whenever the primary purpose of a loan that is secured in whole or in part by a lien on real estate is for personal, family or household purpose:

- The creditor must ascertain prior to closing the preference of the borrower as to the legal counsel that is employed to represent the debtor in all matters of the transaction relating to the closing of the transaction.
  - o The creditor may require the attorney or agent to provide mortgage title insurance
  - Any legal fees other than for examination and certification of the title, the preparation of all required documents, and the closing of the transaction required or incurred by the creditor in connection with the transaction is the responsibility of the creditor, regardless of who pays for the title work, document preparation, and closing
  - o The creditor may contract and receive the following additional charges in a transaction:
    - The charge of any credit report
    - A nonrefundable assumption fee in an amount not exceeding the lesser of $400.00 or 1% of the unpaid balance of the loan
    - Section 202 of Chapter 3 of Title 37 authorizes the following charges:
       [37-3-202(1)(a)(b)(c)(i)(ii)(d)(i)(ii)(iii)(iv)(v)(e)(f)(2)(a)(b)]
      - Loan finance charge
      - Official fees and taxes
      - Charges for insurance
      - Closing costs
        - Fees or premiums for title examinations, abstract of title, title insurance, surveys, or similar purposes
        - Fess for preparation of deed, settlement statement, or other documents

- Escrows for future payments of taxes, insurance, water, sewer, land rents, assessments for improvements
- Fees for notarizing deeds and other documents
- Fees for appraising real estate that is collateral for the loan
- Charges for other benefits conferred to the debtor
- Fees and charges paid to persons registered as mortgage loan brokers pursuant to Chapter 58, Title 40
- Insurance against loss or damage to property, or against liability
- Insurance written in connection to the loan

The above provisions enable mortgage loan originators and mortgage lenders to collect the various different charges and fees relating to the closing of a mortgage loan transaction aside from the cost of the property. There are many moving parts in closing a mortgage loan. These provisions help protect the consumer from being charged additional fees that should not be included in the closing process. These provisions also help make the process simpler as all money relating to the closing can be collected at once and distributed by one person.

Charges and fees are not the only matters in a mortgage loan transaction that federal and state law includes in its provisions.

Providing proper disclosures regarding all fees and the mortgage loan itself during a mortgage loan transaction is also mandated by federal and state law. We will turn to these next.

Disclosures and Agreements

Federal law requires mortgage loan originators provide many different disclosures to consumers. State law also specifies certain disclosures, some of which we have already discussed, that must be provided to consumers during a mortgage loan transaction.

Section 78 of Chapter 58, Title 40 denotes the requirements for certain disclosures.

The mortgage broker fee agreement, which as discussed earlier, must be provided to the borrower three days after their application is submitted, must contain the following statements: [ $\S$ 40-58-78(A)(1)(2)(3)(4)]

- The mortgage broker or loan originator is acting as the agent of the borrower in providing brokerage services to the borrower;
- When acting as agent of the borrower, it owes to that borrower a duty of utmost care, honesty, and loyalty in the transaction, including the duty of full disclosure of all material facts.
  If the mortgage broker or loan originator is authorized to act as an agent for any other person, the mortgage broker fee agreement must contain a statement of that fact and identification of the person;
- A detailed description of the services the mortgage broker or loan originator agrees to perform for the borrower, and a good faith estimate of any fees the mortgage broker or loan originator will receive for those services, whether paid by the borrower, the institutional lender, or both;
  and
- A clear and conspicuous statement of the conditions under which the borrower is obligated to pay for the services rendered under the agreement.

Additionally, at the time of application for a mortgage loan, the mortgage broker or originator or employee must provide the borrower with a document that specifies the agency designated to receive complaints or inquiries about the origination and making of the loan.

The document should include the telephone number and address of the agency. The consumer must sign a copy of the document acknowledging receipt of the disclosure and the copy must be maintained in the files of the mortgage broker or originator.

[§37-23-70] This particular disclosure protects the consumer by making him or her aware of the fact that they do have a way of reporting any wrongdoing during the transaction.

The law also demands that at the time the borrower receives the Loan Estimate and before the scheduled closing of the loan, the broker or mortgage broker of a loan must disclose in writing the amount being earned on the loan. The Department of Consumer Affairs provides a disclosure form that, as required by state law, includes the following:

[§37-23-75(A)(1)(2)(3)(4)(B)]

• The dollar amount of the yield spread premium and the percentage of the yield spread premium in relation to the loan amount

- An itemization of dollar amounts for points, fees, and commissions with a combined total given. A percentage of the combined total should be specified in relation to the loan amount;
- A dollar amount total of these two items and a percentage of the total specified in relation to the total amount of the loan; and
- For an adjustable rate mortgage, a listing of the schedule when the loan may be reset, for each and every reset, and a listing of the monthly payment that is owed for each change that is allowed by the terms of the contract. If the consumer escrows the insurance and taxes with each monthly payment, it must be reflected in the payment listed.
- The form must include a signature line for the borrower to acknowledge that they have received these disclosures and that they have been explained and he or she understands them and wants to enter into the loan transaction voluntarily.

Together with the disclosures mandated by federal law, the above are state specific disclosures that must be provided to the borrower when involved in a mortgage loan transaction. If any of these disclosures are not provided to the borrower, the licensee will be subject to disciplinary action.

Advertising

Aside from licensee conduct during a mortgage loan transaction, state law also provides regulation on how a licensee should behave when conducting other activities. Licensees may want to advertise in order to obtain more business. Federal law has a lot to say about what is the correct way to advertise as a licensed mortgage loan originator. State law also has stipulations regarding advertisements.

First, advertising, for the sake of state law, is defined in the definitions portion of Chapter 22, Title 37. The law states that advertising is a commercial message in a medium that promotes, either directly or indirectly, a mortgage loan transaction. [§37-22-110(4)]

Without first obtaining a license, a person may not circulate or use advertising, including electronic means, make a representation or give information to a person which indicates or reasonably implies activities reserved for mortgage loan originators. [§37-22-120(A)(2)].

Thus, unless you are a licensee, you cannot advertise for anything relating to activities that require a license. If you were to advertise without a license, this behavior could be deemed fraudulent, and therefore illegal.

With the above in mind, it is no surprise that state law also states that a person engaging solely in loan processor or underwriter activities may not represent to the public, through advertising or other means of communicating or providing information including the use of business cards, stationary, brochures, signs, rate lists, or other promotional items that the person may or will perform any of the activities of a loan originator. [§37-22-110(35)(b)]. Again, you have to be licensed in order to advertise mortgage loan origination activities and both underwriters and loan processors are not licensed as mortgage brokers or loan originators.

State law also expresses that if you are a licensee licensed through the Nationwide Mortgage Licensing System and Registry, the law requires you to use your unique identifier assigned by the Nationwide Mortgage Licensing System & Registry in all advertising and on all mortgage loan documents [§37-22-270 (D)]. Thus, whenever promoting yourself or your business as it relates to mortgage lending activities and whenever working with a client on a mortgage loan, you must include your unique identifier as proof of your licensure and as a mode of accountability.

For all other advertising provisions, Chapter 3, Title 22 specifies compliance with the Federal Truth in Lending Act [§37-3-301].

So far, we have discussed what state law mentions regarding proper conduct for licensees in the state of South Carolina.

We will now turn to what state law depicts is proper disciplinary action for licensees who violate the provisions in state law we have gone over.

Disciplinary Action

Notifications, Hearings, and Appeals

As we have reviewed before, the commissioner and administrator has a lot of authority when it comes to licensing in South Carolina. They also have a lot of discretion when it comes to imposing disciplinary action on those accused of violating state provisions.

However, the law does also specify ways in which a licensee accused of violating state provisions can defend himself or herself in a situation where the commissioner or administrator has requested an administrative order against the licensee. Of this, the laws say the following:

A person aggrieved by an administrative order issued by the commissioner may request a contested case hearing before the Administrative Law Court in accordance with the court's rules and procedures. According to state law, a contested case is defined as a proceeding including, but not restricted to, ratemaking, price fixing, and licensing, in which the legal rights, duties, or privileges of a party are required by law to be determined by an agency or Administrative Law Court after an opportunity hearing [§1-23-505(3)].

The Administrative Law Court, which was established by Chapter 23, Title 1 of the South Carolina Code of Law, is an agency and a court of record within the executive branch of the government of South Carolina. It consists of 6 administrative law judges. [§1-23-500] If the person aggrieved by the administrative order issued fails to request a contested case hearing, within the time provided in the court's rules of procedure, the administrative order becomes final and the commissioner may ring action to enforce its order pursuant to Chapter 23, Title 1. [§37-22-130(A), §40-58-90(A)] Contested case proceedings are instituted by filling a request for a contested case hearing with the Administrative Law Court according to the rules of procedure of the Administrative Law Court. Copies of the request for a contested case hearing must be saved upon the commissioner and all parties of record.

The final decision of the administrative law judge may be appealed as provided in Section 1-23-380, Section 1-23-610, or Chapter 23, Title 1. [§37-22-130(B), §40-58-90(B)]

Please note that all actions and hearings pursuant to Chapter 22. Title 37 are governed by Chapter 23, Title 1. [§37-22-200(E)] Chapter 23, Title 1 includes specific provisions on state agency rule making and the adjudication of contested cases in South Carolina.

The law provides with the above the tools necessary for a licensee to defend him or herself against action taken on him or her by the commissioner or administrator. Let's discuss some of the possible actions that can be taken against licensees.

Suspension, Revocation, and Rescission of Licenses

As we discussed in the last section on applying for, obtaining, and maintaining a license, the commissioner or administrator has full discretion to determine whether an applicant or licensee should obtain a license or have his or her license suspended, denied, or revoked.

The commissioner, by order, may deny suspend, revoke, or refuse to issue or renew a license of a licensee or applicant or may restrict or limit the activities relating to mortgage loans of a licensee or person who owns an interest in or participated in the business of the licensee, if the commissioner finds that both the order is in the public interest; and:

[§37-22-200(A)(1)(a-j)]

- The applicant or licensee has filed an application for license that contained a statement that is false or misleading with respect to a material fact;
- Has violated or failed to comply with a provision in Chapter 22 or order of the commissioner;
- Within the past 10 years been convicted of, or pled guilty or nolo contendere to, a misdemeanor involving financial services or financial services related to business or an offense involving a breach of trust or fraudulent or dishonest dealing, or money laundering or has been convicted of, or pled guilty or nolo contendere to, a felony in a domestic, foreign, or military court;
- Is permanently or temporarily enjoined by a court of competent jurisdiction from engaging in or continuing conduct or practices involving financial services or financial services related business;
- Is subject of an order of the commissioner denying, suspending, or revoking that person's license;
- Is the subject of an order entered by the authority of a governmental entity with jurisdiction over the financial services or financial services related industry denying or revoking that person's license;
- Does not meet the qualifications or the financial responsibility, character, or general fitness requirements, or a bond or capital requirements;
- Has been the executive officer or controlling shareholder or owned a controlling interest in a financial services or financial services related business that has been subject to an order or injunction;
- Has failed to pay the proper filling fee or renewal fee or fine, penalty or fee imposed by any government entity. (However, if this is the case, the commissioner may only enter a denial order and the commissioner will vacate the order once the deficiency has been corrected);
- Has falsely certified his or her attendance or completion of the hours of an approved education course.

The commissioner can also:  $[\S37-22-200(B)(C)(D)(E)(F)(G)(H)(I)(J)(K)(L)]$

- postpone or suspend a license of a licensee pending final determination of a proceeding
- impose an administrative penalty on a licensee or other person occupying similar status or performing similar functions
- order a person to cease from a prohibited action
- investigate and examine licensees' books, records, accounts, files, etc, if he or she believes a violation of a provision has occurred
- subpoena documents and witnesses and compel production and attendance to examine under oath all persons whose testimony the commissioner considers relevant
- require a licensee pay to a borrower or other person amounts received by the person or its employees in violation of the provisions of Chapter 22

It is important to note that when a licensee is accused of any act, omission, or misconduct that subjects the licensee to disciplinary action, the licensee with the consent and approval of the commissioner or administrator, may surrender the license and the rights and privileges pertaining to it and is not eligible to receive, or to submit an application for, licensure for a period of time established by the administrator or commissioner.

[§40-58-80(F)]

As you can see, there are various ways in which the commissioner or administrator can punish a licensee for his or her behavior. The above is disciplinary action that the commissioner or administrator can impose against a licensee for having violated the provisions included in the South Carolina Code of Law.

State law also includes other disciplinary action provisions that are more specific with regards to the type of licensee behavior. We will turn to these next.

Penalties/Fines

What happens if a licensee does not disclose a charge or fee during a mortgage loan transaction? If a mortgage broker or loan originator violates the provisions regarding disclosures, charges and fees, the borrower can recover from the mortgage broker or loan originator charged with the violation:  $[\S40-58-78(B)(1)(2)(3)]$

 A penalty in an amount determined by the court of not less than one thousand five hundred dollars and not more than seven thousand five hundred dollars for each loan transaction;

- Fees paid by the borrower to the mortgage broker or loan originator for services rendered by the agreement; and
- Actual costs, including attorney's fees, for enforcing the borrower's rights under the agreements.

However, if the mortgage broker or loan originator can show evidence that the violation he is accused of was not intentional and resulted from a bona fide error, he or she will not be held liable. [§40-58-78(C)]. In other words, if the mortgage loan originator can show with evidence that he or she unintentionally forgot to provide the borrower with a particular disclosure regarding fees or charges, he or she will not be charged with disciplinary action.

That said, if a loan originator is found to have intentionally disregarded the law, whether by ignoring a disclosure or any other provision included in the Mortgage Lending Act, he or she will be subject to disciplinary action. The law states that a person that is found to willfully violate the provisions in Chapter 22, Title 37 will be considered guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction, must be fined not more than five hundred dollars or imprisoned not more than six months, or both, for each violation. Each transaction involving unlawful making or servicing of a mortgage loan is a separate offence.

[§37-22-230].

With regards to the enforceability of an agreement or transaction, Chapter 5, Title 37 explains that if a transaction or an agreement is found to have been made unconscionably at the time it was made, the court may refuse to enforce the agreement or transaction. [§37-5-108]

Additionally, if the court believes a person is engaging or is likely to engage in unconscionable conduct in collecting a debt arising from the transaction, the court can grant an injunction and a consumer can recover actual damages from the person violating the law. [§37-5-108]. Thus, if the person found violating the law is a licensee, then the court can find that the licensee owes the consumer actual damages.

Chapter 5 also refers to what the lender can do in the case of consumer default. The law states the following:

An agreement of the parties to a consumer credit transaction with respect to default on the part of the consumer is enforceable to the extent that: [§37-5-109, §37-5-110]

• The consumer fails to make a payment as required by agreement

• The prospect of payment, performance, or realization of collateral is significantly impaired; the burden of establishing the prospect of significant impairment is on the creditor.

After a consumer has been in default for ten days for failure to make a required payment and has not voluntarily surrendered possession of goods that are collateral, a creditor may give the consumer a notice. The notice is considered delivered when the creditor delivers it to the consumer or mails it to the consumer's residence. The notice must be in writing state the following:

- Name, address and telephone number of creditor whom payment is to be made
- Brief identification of the credit transaction
- Consumer's right to cure the default
- Amount of payment
- Date by which payment must be made to cure default

The chapter provides an example of what this notice should say:

| "(name, address and telephone number of      | creditor), (account number, if any), |
|--|--------------------------------------|
| (brief identification of credit transaction) |                                      |
|  | (date is the LAST DAY FOR PAYMENT    |
|  | (amount) is the AMOUNT NOW DUE       |

You are late in making your payment(s). If you pay the AMOUNT NOW DUE (above) by the LAST DAY FOR PAYMENT (above), you may continue with the contract as though you were not late. If you do not pay by that date, we may exercise our rights under the law. These rights include the right to repossess any property held as collateral for this transaction and the right, in many instances, to hold you personally responsible for any difference between the amount the property brings in a sale and the balance due us on the credit transaction in question. If you are late again in making your payments, we may exercise our rights without sending you another notice like this one. If you have questions, write or telephone the creditor promptly."

After the notice of the consumer's right to cure is delivered, the creditor cannot proceed enforcing a security interest in goods that are collateral until 20 days after the delivery of the notice. It is important to note that cure restores the consumer to his rights under the agreement as though the defaults did not occur. [§37-5-111]

With regards to the location where an action is brought, chapter 5 denotes that if the action is brought to enforce an interest in land securing the consumer's obligation, the action can be brought in the county in which the land or a part thereof is located. If the current residency of the consumer is not in South Carolina, the action can be brought to the county where the loan or sale was made. [§37-5-113]

With regards to action brought by a creditor against a consumer, the complaint must allege the facts of the consumer's default, the amount the creditor is owed, and how that amount was determined, and whether the notice of cure has been delivered or is not required. A default judgment will only be entered into action if the default has been verified by the creditor or a sworn testimony, by affidavit or otherwise, showing that the creditor is entitled to the relief demand.

[§37-5-114]

These provisions enable the creditor to take legal recourse for a fault on the part of the consumer. Let's go back to reviewing provisions that enable a consumer to take legal recourse against a licensee. We will now review what state law says of the civil and criminal liability of a licensee.

Civil and Criminal Liability

Civil Penalties:

For the purposes of the following provisions we will review, the term creditor means:

A person who in the ordinary course of business regularly extends or arranges for the extension of credit or offers to arrange for the extension of credit. [§37-5-203(6)]

A creditor who, in violation of the provisions of the Federal Truth in Lending Act or Section 37-2-309 or 37-3-308, fails to disclose information to a person entitled to information regarding a mortgage, is liable to that person in an amount equal to the sum of:

[§37-5-203(1)(a)(b)]

- Twice the amount of the finance charge in connection with the transaction, but the liability pursuant to this item must be not less than $100.00 or more than $1000.00; and
- In the case of a successful action to enforce the liability, the cost of the action together with reasonable attorney's fees as determined by the court.

With respect to disclosures mandated by the Federal Truth in Lending Act and state law regarding advertising, a creditor has no liability if within 60 days after discovering an error, and before the institution of an action or receipt of written notice of the error, the creditor notifies the person of the ProEducate

©All Rights Reserved

Page 170 of 182

error and makes necessary adjustments in the appropriate account to assure that the person is not required to pay a finance charge in excess of the amount of percentage rate actually disclosed. [§37-5-203(2)]

As mentioned earlier, the law denotes that for any of the provisions violated, if the creditor can show with preponderance of evidence that the violation was not intentional and resulted from a bona fide error notwithstanding the maintenance of procedures reasonably adapted to avoid the error, he or she is not held liable. [§37-5-203(3)]

No action, as those described above can be brought more than 1 year after the occurrence of the violation. Additionally, the liability of the creditor with regards to the above provisions is meant to be in lieu of and not in addition to his or her liability under the Federal Truth in Lending Act. [§37-5-203(5)(8)].

Criminal Penalties:

A lender who willfully makes charges in excess of those permitted by law is guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction may be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding $5,000.00, or to imprisonment not exceeding 1 year. [§37-5-301(1)]

A person, other than a supervised financial organization, who willfully engages in the business of making loans without a license where a license is required, is guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction may be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding $5,000, or imprisonment not exceeding 1 year, or both. [§37-5-301(2)]

A person is guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction may be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding $500.00, or to imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both, if he willfully and knowingly: [§37-5-302(1)(2)(3)]

- Gives false or inaccurate information or fails to provide information which he is required to disclose under the provisions of the Federal Truth in Lending Act,
- Uses any rate table or chart, the use of which is authorized by the provisions of the Federal Truth in lending Act, in a manner which consistently understates the annual percentage rate determined according to those provisions; or
- Otherwise fails to comply with any requirement of the provisions on disclosure of the Federal Truth and Lending Act

The criminal liability of a person is in lieu of and not in addition to his criminal liability under the Federal Truth in Lending Act; no prosecution of a person with respect to the same violation may be maintained pursuant to both South Carolina law and the Federal Truth in Lending Act.

Conclusion

In this lesson we reviewed what state law specifically states is prohibited conduct and practice, proper conduct as well as what constitutes disciplinary action for those who obtain a license and violate state law provisions.

You should now have a better understanding of what is expected of a licensee, what licensees should not do, and what can happen if a licensee is accused or found guilty of violating state provisions.