

SLIDE 18 – The Real Estate License

The Florida real estate licenses include:

- The effective date and expiration date of the license
- The license number and status
- The licensee's name
- The approved name that the licensee (if a broker) operates under
- The name of the Governor
- The Seal of the State of Florida
- The name of the Secretary of the Department

The license is Prima facie* evidence of having the skills and abilities to perform in real estate and indicates that the license is current and valid.

Prima facie is a legal term used to mean that you have enough evidence to prove something by showing basic facts, but that your proof can be refuted.
